REDS BALK AT GENEVA

Threaten to Quit Conference

Immediate Recognition of Two Russian Systems Demanded

Confer With Robinson Over Economic Situation; Latter Silent

GENEVA, May 19. (AP)—The soviet delegates to the International Economic Conference served notice today that they will leave Geneva immediately unless assured of the adoption of a resolution recognizing the coexistence of the Communistic and capitalistic economic systems, and the possibility of peaceful collaboration between the two systems.

A soviet spokesman told the press that his delegation deemed the question vital to the world's restoration, believing co-operation of the western countries with the soviet economic system necessary to any real progress.

There had been difficulty in Moscow, he added, in getting unanimity for the dispatch of the delegation to the conference and the delegates were authorized to return immediately unless they obtain what they deem their cardinal principle as an element of the economic law now being formulated.

MOVE CREATES STIR

They could not permit procrastination, and unless assurred positively by nightfall, they would probably entrain for Basel, where they would await the necessary visas for their departure.

The soviet move created a stir, some delegates saying they were not in favor of having the conference adopt such a declaration. The newspaper Genevois says many of the delegates believe the Russian system is beginning closely to resemble the capitalistic, "since it is taking on its methods."

The Russians have been getting in touch with delegates from other nations outside the conference proper, meeting Henry M. Robinson of the United States at a special dinner organized by a friendly delegate, and holding a private parley with Leon Jouhaux and Jan Oudegeest, representatives of organized European laborites.

VIEWS OUTLINED

Valerian Odolensky Osinsky and Gen. Sokolnikoff of the soviet delegation outlined to Mr. Robinson their views of Russia's economic situation. Mr. Robinson, it is reported, did not vouchsafe any prediction as to the future American attitude toward the soviet union.

During a speech at a garden party given in honor of the soviet delegates by Swiss merchants, Gen. Sokolnikoff declared the capitalistic countries must decide whether to collaborate with Russia or to "resort to armed intervention, as in China."

He added that the soviet government is ready to negotiate the question of the Russian debt, but that this is conditional upon the advance of the credits necessary for Russian restoration.

WILL HAYS MAY HEAD CHURCHMEN

Early Convention Poll Shows Film Czar Favored for Natoinal Moderator

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19. (AP)—Will H. Hays "czar of motion pictures," appeared to be a strong candidate for the post of moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, judging from a poll of opinion among delegates arriving here today to attend the annual convention of the church.

Of the 7000 persons expected to attend the general conference opening here next week, 1000 will be commissioners entitled to vote for moderator.

Hays was said to be prominent in the esteem of the Presbyterian workers through his efforts as chairman of the special endowment committee, which successfully raised a large pension fund for aged ministers.

SON OF CALLES FIRED ON

Mexican Police Officer Arrested as Assailant; Versions of Affair Differ Widely

NOGALES (Ariz.) May 19. (AP)—Widely varying stories of a shooting last night in front of a Nogales (Son.) night club in which two shots were fired at Rodolfo Calles, son of President Calles of Mexico, today were told by Calles and Julian Romero, Mexican policeman, charged with the pistol attack.

Romero, held in jail at Nogales, Son., told an Associated Press representative tonight that charges of attempted assassination against him were absurd. He declared that the automobile in which Calles was riding had been speeding and that he was about to arrest the driver when Raoul Hernandes Leon, a guard at the night club, drew a gun. Romero, according to his story, then drew his gun and fired two shots into the air. He added that had he wanted to shoot Calles, he could have done so easily as he was but a couple of feet from the President's son.

He disclaimed any political animosity toward Calles.

"I was at the night club with a party of friends," Calles's story of the affair ran, "when this individual came up and insulted me. Raoul Hernandes Leon, a guard, pulled a gun on Romero and had him ejected from the club. I considered the episode closed, but later as we were getting into our car in front of the club, Romero jumped on the running board with a gun in his hand and fired two shots. I am not certain where the bullets went, but I think they went through the floor boards of the car. My clothing was not cut by the bullets."

A companion of the President's son, Fernando Elias, seized the officer's gun and overpowered him. Calles refused to comment on the possibility of a political motive for the asserted attack. Some of his friends, however, were more outspoken in declaring there may have been a political basis for the affair.

Calles said he was not prosecuting the case against Romero, the case being entirely in the hands of civil authorities.

Calles came to Nogales, Son., several days ago for the wedding last Tuesday of his sister, the former Senorita Ernestina Calles, and Thomas Arnold Robinson of New York. Rodolfo is 28 years of age, the second son of President Calles.

TWO DIE AS FACTIONS BATTLE IN SONORA

TUCSON (Ariz.) May 19. (AP)—Two are known to have been killed and many more are reported wounded in the border town of San Luis, Son., where two heavily armed rival political factions have been engaged in street fighting since dawn. Other reports placed the death list as high as four or five.

The civil warfare in the town was the high point of outbreaks reported

REFUGEES IN ILLINOIS GIVEN AID

Storm Toll Believed to be Only One Dead, But With Number Injured

PEORIA (Ill.) May 19. (AP)—Several emergency refugee camps sheltered persons who lost their homes and belongings in a storm here Wednesday night, which caused one death and injuries to others.

Walter Mueller, son of the Mayor, and whose engagement to Miss Corinne Schwab of this city recently was announced, lost his life when a bridge over the Illinois River, on which he was standing with a friend, collapsed. He could not swim and was carried away by the swollen waters. His friend swam to safety in the darkness.

Property damage here, in East Peoria and Bartonville, suburbs, was estimated at $750,000.

Water plants and power lines were disrupted during the storm. Store windows were blown in by the strong wind. Hailstones shattered windows in many homes and greenhouses.

East Peoria estimates its loss upward of $500,000, many homes there being inundated when the Farm Creek levee broke after four hours of rain, during which more than ten inches of rain fell.

Huntington's Doctors Hold to Confidence

PHILADELPHIA, May 19. (Exclusive)—In saying that Henry E. Huntington, millionaire art collector and traction magnate of Los Angeles, has not suffered a serious relapse today his physicians at Lankenau Hospital intimated that they were not so optimistic regarding his general condition.

Mr. Huntington arrived in this city two weeks ago tonight aboard his special train from Los Angeles. He was taken to the hospital at once and four days later was operated on by Dr. John B. Deaver, eminent Philadelphia surgeon.

For the last few days Mr. Huntington appeared to be cheerful and has been reading a few hours daily, it was said at the hospital. Although Mr. Huntington is 77 years of age, the attending physicians are of the opinion that his convalescence is assured.

FINAL STEPS TAKEN ON ITALIAN DEBT

WASHINGTON, May 19. (AP)—Final steps in the funding of the Italian debt were completed today when Nobile Giacomo de Martino, Italian Ambassador, delivered $2,042,000,000 in Italian bonds to the treasury. He received in exchange the original obligations given by Italy for cash advances made to that government by the United States.

SEAMEN IN DISASTERS

Two of Fishing Crew Lost

Gale Also Drives Freighter on Rocks, Imperiling Twenty-eight Men

Local Tender Goes Ashore in North But Six on Board Rescued

With one man drowned, another missing and three injured of her crew of seven, the fishing boat Sockeye took refuge from a northwest storm yesterday at Astoria, Or., according to messages received yesterday at Los Angeles Harbor. John Cukrow, 43 years of age, of 1411 South Grand avenue, is the man known to have been lost overboard, the messages said, but the name of the missing man was not given. The boat, in charge of Capt. Sam Cukrow, left here five days ago for Alaskan waters.

The steam freighter Indiana Harbor, owned by Pillsbury & Curtis of Los Angeles, is on the rocks in a northwest gale, north of San Francisco, and the twenty-eight men on board are in serious danger, according to radio reports received yesterday by her owners. The point of grounding was given in the message as between Point Gorda and Point Delgado, the former being 190 miles north of San Francisco.

LOSES PROPELLER

The messages said the Indiana Harbor lost her propeller and drifted helpless upon the lee shore, about 1 a.m. yesterday. At a late hour of the afternoon, reports said, there was nineteen feet of water in the forward hold of the vessel and she was pounding badly. The sea is so heavy, it was said, it was impossible to launch the vessel's boats and other vessels cannot approach her because of the rocks.

The British steamer Hauraki stood by the Indiana Harbor until noon, but was unable to give her any assistance. The steamer Seafoam, the Standard Oil tanker Charlie Watson and two Coast Guard launches from Humboldt were attempting to aid the vessel and devise some method of rescuing her crew. A late afternoon wireless message asked for a tug, which, it was said, might be able to work alongside the wrecked vessel. The tug Sea Lion was on her way from San Francisco, and was expected to reach her about nightfall.

TENDER ASHORE

The Indiana Harbor sailed from this port last Friday with 2000 tons of general cargo for Portland. She is in charge of Capt. L. S. Anderson and most of her crew are residents of San Pedro. The Indiana Harbor is of 1625 net tons and is 250 feet long. She is of steel and was built at Lorain, O., in 1920. She is under charter to the McCormick Steamship Company.

The fishing tender New Spray, owned by the Toyo Fisheries of Los Angeles Harbor, went ashore near Crescent City yesterday and was a total loss, though her master, Capt. Kuzmo Andries, and crew of five were rescued by a Coast Guard vessel. The tender left here Sunday for Alaskan waters for the salmon run.

New Brunswick Town Reached by De Pinedo

SHIPPEGAN (N. B.) May 19. (AP)—Commander Francesco De Pinedo, Italian four-continent flyer, arrived here at 5:55 p.m. from Quebec by way of Rimouski.

De Pinedo said he would await weather reports from Newfoundland tonight and if they are favorable he will hop off as early as possible tomorrow for Trepassy Bay, from where he will take off for the Azores on his way to Rome.

Grew Due for Appointment as Turkey Envoy

WASHINGTON, May 19. (AP)—Joseph C. Grew, Undersecretary of State, has been definitely decided on as Ambassador to Turkey. Announcement of his appointment, which had been expected today, probably will be made at the White House tomorrow.

Mr. Grew is expected to go to his new post in June. He will be succeeded as Undersecretary of State by Robert E. Olds, now assistant Secretary.

TRADE COMMISSIONER NAMED

WASHINGTON, May 19. (AP)—Walter Hertz of New York City has been named special trade commissioner by the Commerce Department to represent the American leather industry in the European field.

Will Rogers Remarks:

Plane Wing May be Clew to Flyers' Fate

NEW LONDON (Ct.) May 19. (AP)—Coast Guard cutter 229 was headed for the State Pier here late tonight with an airplane wing in tow. The cutter had been stationed off Montauk Point and sent word to the base by radio of its discovery. Hope was expressed here that the airplane wing might aid in the solution of the mystery of the disappearance of Nungesser and Coli, the French trans-Atlantic flyers.

A Coast Guard cutter was sent out from the base to search for any other portions of the airplane which might be found.

CHANGE OF VOW URGED IN NUPTIALS

Omission of "Serve" and "Obey" Recommended for Episcopal Denomination

PHILADELPHIA, May 19. (AP)—Omission of the words "serve" and "obey" from the marriage service of the Reformed Episcopal Church was proposed today in a report submitted to the general council of the church, in session here.

The report, submitted by the committee on revision of the prayer book, of which Bishop Robert W. Peach is chairman, was referred to the committee on doctrine and worship. A report on the proposal will be made at the next general council in 1930.

"The relation of husband and wife are vastly different nowadays from Bible times" Bishop Peach said in presenting the report. "The husband should obey his wife as the wife should obey her husband. It's a fifty-fifty proposition. We have cut out the 'serve' and 'obey' altogether, not even leaving it in as an optional part of the service.

"I expect no opposition to this proposed change. The Church of England is planning the same change. When the change is adopted the vows of the man and the woman will be identical.

Bank President Seized on Mail Fraud Charges

TOLEDO (O.) May 19. (AP)—Guy Huston, president of the Chicago Joint Stock Land Bank and fiscal agent for four other banks in the Middle West, was arrested by government authorities aboard the twentieth century limited at Union Station here tonight, on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

Postoffice Inspector E. R. Cochrane, who swore to the warrant, said the paper contained three specific counts charging misuse of the mails. Huston is under indictment in two cases in Mankato, Minn., in connection with affairs of the Southern Minnesota Joint Stock Land Bank of Redwood Falls, Minn., of which he is fiscal agent, the postal inspector said.

The charges there involve violation of the national banking laws and misuse of the mails in connection with the sale of stock in the bank, according to Cochrane. Huston also is fiscal agent of joint stock land banks at Des Moines, Iowa; Dallas, Tex., and Kansas City, Mo.

WOMAN EXONERATED OF KILLING HUSBAND

LINDBERGH SET TO GO

Flyer at Field in Early Hours

Hop-off Expected as Soon as Rain Stopped; Bellanca Crew Still Wrangling

Byrd Gives Test to Fokker Plane and Seems Satisfied; Weather Threatening

NEW YORK, May 20. (Exclusive)—Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at Curtiss Field at 3 a.m. this morning in flying clothes, and it was believed possible that he would start his flight to Paris at or before dawn. Preparations already were being made to take his Ryan monoplane from Curtiss Field to Roosevelt Field, where a special take-off runway is available. This was made advisable by the muddy condition of Curtiss Field, rendering a take-off there difficult. At 3:45, however, he said he would not start unless the drizzling rain falling then stopped.

Shortly before 4 a.m. the rain stopped.

NEW YORK, May 19. (Exclusive)—The Bellanca flyers are up in the air, but they are not going anywhere. Commander Byrd is still lifting heavy weights in his Fokker plane and "Lucky" Lindbergh is sitting up nights with a suspicious glint in his eyes watching the weather man.

Lindbergh may take his chance at dawn. He's getting tired of waiting, and, then, too, Byrd is almost ready for the hop to Paris.

But the Bellanca camp is busy debating. To fly or not to fly? That is the question that has been going the rounds among Lloyd Bertaud, Charles A. Levine, backer of the Bellanca project, and C. M. Bellanca, designer of the machine. The latest statement from Levine follows:

"Bertaud was released three days ago and now appears to be trying to get back into my good graces. I will fight the injunction and I still expect the flight will be made with some other pilot than Bertaud when the weather permits. I already have a pilot to replace Bertaud."

GETS INJUNCTION

The injunction referred to is that which Bertaud obtained last night to prevent the flight of the plane without him. This morning Bertaud apparently believed that all quarrels were ended and issued a statement that he would withdraw the injunction proceedings. Now he probably will not do so. Bertaud was taken aback by the new announcement.

"As far as I know I am still going on the flight," he said, and added that he had thought all the important points of difference between himself and Levine settled and that minor points could be cleared up later.

"I have no intention of withdrawing the injunction until the contract has been signed," he continued.

Meanwhile, weather along the 1900-mile stretch of ocean between Newfoundland and Ireland along the Great Circle Route was reported as rapidly improving, although fog persisted as usual off the Grand Banks. This Atlantic stretch is considered the most difficult to the airmen in their 3600-mile dash.

BYRD NEAR READY

Byrd still contends that he is not trying to make a race of it and that the America may not be ready until Saturday, but observers along the flying line believe the conqueror by air of the North Pole will not be far behind when his rivals take off.

The Fokker took the air today with Bert Acosta at the stick. With a load of 9000 pounds, it was in the air after a run of only 700 feet, which augurs well when the start is made with the 14,500-pound load.

This hop, which lasted for a quarter of an hour, was a speed and fuel test, rather than a load.

Emergency provisions of all sorts have been made. These load tests, as far as the commander is concerned, are nothing but routine work. He asserts that the giant plane will take the air with a load

CROSS-SEA AIR LINE NEAR

So Says Fokker, Who Predicts New York-to-Paris Commercial Planes Within Five Years

GARDEN CITY (N. Y.) May 19. (AP)—As the giant monoplane he designed made ready to hop off for Paris, Anthony Fokker expressed the opinion that within five years Paris-New York flying would be on a commercial basis.

"I think the great circle course will be followed by these commercial planes," he said, "and there will be stops at Newfoundland, at Ireland, and at London on the way. The whole trip should not take more than thirty-six hours, as by that time engines will have been improved and ordinary speed raised to 150 miles an hour."

Fokker revealed that the cost of operating the Byrd-Noville-Acosta three-engined America at present is 60 cents per mile per man, or $1.80 a mile with the present crew. On the basis of these figures the flight to Paris over a course of approximately 3500 miles will cost a little more than $6000.

The veteran airplane man estimated that by the time commercial lines are operating across the ocean this cost can be cut to 25 cents per mile per man. This will be done in part, he said, by having room for more men and also in carrying freight.

Development of better instruments and safety devices in the immediate years, Fokker said, would result in practically eliminating the difficulties which weather now places in the way of long-distance flying.

Wisconsin House Votes to Permit Making of Beer

MADISON (Wis.) May 19. (AP)—The lower house of the State Assembly today passed a "bill of rights for the home brewer" by a vote of 56 to 34. The bill would legalize the manufacture of beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content by persons in their homes.

The Wisconsin Assembly consistently has voted against prohibition in various measures during the present session. A previous measure, memorializing Congress to take a nation-wide referendum and decide "what the people want" failed in the Senate, however, by one vote.

DEFENDERS WIN 'WAR'

Atlantic Coast Impregnable

Attacking Force of 75,000 Unable to Land in Joint Maneuvers

Blue Forces Victorious in Air-Land Battle at San Antonio

NEWPORT (R. I.) May 19. (AP)—The war is over and the enemy has been repulsed. The sweeping victory won by the defenders of the 128-mile coast line from Chatham, Cape Cod, to the mouth of the Connecticut River has proved that this section of the United States is impregnable is sufficient mobile forces are available, Gen. Preston Brown, declared today. He is commandant of the First Corps area, and was commander-in-chief of the defenders.

In the greatest war game ever worked out in this part of the country a Black armada of seventy-eight vessels had striven unsuccessfully from midnight on Monday to noon today to land a theoretical force of 75,000 men on that part of the coast to capture the rich industrial cities of the area.

At noon today, when the officials declared they had failed of their objective, ten transports carrying a third of the Black troops had been sunk, 30,000 other troops were bottled up in a precarious position along the western shore of Buzzard's Bay and seven bombing planes had been shot down.

FAIL TO ADVANCE

At that hour the defending Blues had lost a cruiser and two destroyers of the small naval force allotted them and had thrown two of their five available divisions into attacks on the Black invaders.

The Black forces which landed early today had failed to advance more than ten miles inland and had been checked and thrown back toward the shore until they had been split on either side of the west branch of the Westport River.

As soon as the umpires had pronounced an end of the war, the Black and Blue fleets together put about and steamed for Newport Harbor, where all of next week the crews will be feted in connection with the annual naval week. The army forces will begin their dispersal to their regular posts on Saturday.

BLUE ARMY WINS IN TEXAS MANEUVERS

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) May 19. (AP) Hostilities ended today in the Blue-Red warfare, carried on as part of the joint army-air-land maneuvers, with the Blue army holding the advantage on every front.

General opinion among observers was that the Blue army staff had handled its orders and strategy for an imaginary army driving toward the Red capital so skillfully that the Red capital was menaced. The Blue army, according to the observers succeeded in turning the Red right flank and was all ready to take the Red capital at New Braunfels.

JURY FREES WOMAN WHO KILLED MAN

Defendant Acquitted; Another of Sex Must Die for Murder in Chicago

OAKLAND, May 19. (Exclusive)—Mrs. Anna Fiorentino, who said she shot and killed Frank Parisi to keep her home intact, was acquitted by a jury in the court of Superior Judge Wood today. The woman collapsed on the shoulder of her husband when the verdict was returned and her four children cluttered about her skirts as she left.

"We have some queer verdicts in this court," remarked the court. "The evidence is almost as strong as in the case of Jacob Fuhr, and I sentenced him to the death penalty." The case mentioned was one in which Judge Wood protested, at an unqualified verdict but, under the law, had to impose the death sentence.

Testimony in the Fiorentino trial was that Parisi had tried to induce her to leave her husband and children, eventually giving her a gun to kill her husband and get him out of the way. She took the weapon, subsequently met Parisi on a downtown street and shot him.

CHICAGO, May 19. (AP)—Mrs. Catherine Cassler, 35-year-old mother of Crown Point, Ind., today was found guilty of murdering William Lindstrom, a cabinet-maker, by a jury which fixed her penalty at death after deliberating only three and one-half hours.

"I hope the wives of all the jurors die," was the hysterical comment of the woman slayer as she was led back to her cell.

Mrs. Cassler is the mother of a 16-year-old son and three younger children.

Two others, Mrs. William Fraser and Loren Patrick, confessed to participation in the slaying and testified against Mrs. Cassler.

Lindstrom, with whom Mrs. Fraser said she had been living, was beaten to death here last December. Patrick said he killed Lindstrom to satisfy Mrs. Cassler who, he said, induced him to enter into the conspiracy because she had paid a fine assessed against him in Indiana for violation of the prohibition law. He said Mrs. Cassler offered to help Mrs. Fraser rid herself of Lindstrom and collect his insurance when Mrs. Fraser tired of him.

Taxicab Meter Ordered to Stop at Open Bridge

CHICAGO, May 19. (Exclusive)—Judge Phillip J. Finnegan ruled yesterday that taxicab passengers need not pay extra fare metered while cabs are waiting for bridges to be lowered. The decision was made in the case of Miss Bobby Tremaine. On her way downtown in a taxicab driven by Anthony Mosal the meter registered 20 cents while the cab was waiting for the Michigan-avenue bridge to be lowered. Miss Tremaine refused to pay the 20 cents so the driver took her to a police station.

"The cab company is not responsible for the bridge going up," Judge Finnegan said, "but it is an unfortunate situation. It seems to me that cab company should interest itself in the open-bridge nuisance."

"They make money by it," interposed Miss Tremaine.

The attorney for the taxi company contended that an open bridge or a traffic jam was something a passenger encountered at his own risk, but Judge Finnegan seemed to consider Miss Tremaine's case an exceptional one and ordered her to pay the taxi bill, less the 20 cents waiting time.

Hasty of Nashville, Tenn., to be often due to swimming in city pools filled with unsterilized water.

"Although strenuous efforts are made toward sterilization of water in swimming pools and the number of bacteria is often controlled," he said, "the type of bacteria is a factor not widely considered.

"These infections have become so frequent in recent years that almost every family has been brought to grief in one way or another from swimming."

INTOXICATION TEST

Laboratory tests should always be included in determining whether a state of intoxication exists, Dr. Emil Bogen of Cincinnati, said in addressing the section on pathology and physiology.

Research shows, he declared, that there is a constant ratio between concentration of alcohol on the breath and in body fluids and the actual stage of intoxication, adding that this was the most reliable factor in such diagnosis.

The house of delegates of the association brought its sessions to a close with its annual election of officers and selected Minneapolis as the place of the next annual meeting of the association.

Dr. William Sydney Thayer of Johns Hopkins University, is elected to succeed Dr. Jabez N. Jackson of Kansas City, Mo., as president of the association, with his term of office commencing a year from now.

Dr. Charles A. Elliott of Chicago is elected vice-president, succeeding Dr. John O. McReynolds of Dallas, Tex. The other officers chosen all succeed themselves. They are: Dr. Olin S. West, Chicago, secretary; Dr. A. A. Hayden, Chicago, treasurer; Dr. F. G. Warnshuis, Grand Rapids, Mich., speaker, and Dr. Allen H. Bunce, Atlanta, vice-speaker; Dr. Edward B. Hecjel of Philadelphia and Dr. Rock Sleyster of Wauwatosa, Wis., were elected to the board of trustees.

JUDICIAL COUNCIL

The following were elected to the judicial counsel: Dr. Donald McRae, Jr., Council Bluffs, Iowa; Dr. Emmet P. North, St. Louis; Dr. Frank H. Lahey, Boston, and Dr. Frank W. Gregor, Indianapolis.

Dr. D. G. Gill of Montgomery, Ala., asserted before the scientific session that typhoid is still a major problem in the Southern States despite a steady decline throughout the country generally. An analysis of the location of the cases, he said, shows that the small towns and strictly rural districts supply the greater numbers. He blamed defective sanitation are careless supervision of typhoid cases, as the easiest way of spreading the disease.

Dr. John O. McReynolds of Dallas, Tex., retiring vice-president of the medical association, was elected president of the Medical Veterans of the World War at a session of that organization today.

Water Sweeping from Break in Mississippi Levees Engulfs Villages

St. Martinsville in Peril; Many Still Refuse to Quit Home Region

NEW ORLEANS, May 19. (AP)—Flood damage in Louisiana alone already has reached the proportions of a major national disaster, Secretary of Commerce Hoover said here tonight just before boarding his train for Alexandria. Secretary Hoover said that he was not taking into consideration the damage in other States, and added that "the end is not yet." Approximately 250,000 persons have been affected by the flood in Louisiana so far.

NEW ORLEANS, May 19. (AP)—The extent of the flood waters sweeping down the Atchafalaya basin to the Gulf of Mexico was deemed so great tonight that the Weather Bureau at New Orleans issued a warning to the inhabitants of St. Martinsville that the lake probably will enter that town between the 25th and 30th inst. St. Martinsville, approximately seventy-five miles south of the breaks along Bayou Des Glaises and on the western extremity of the twenty-five-mile-wide path being cut by the waters down the Atchafalaya basin, previously had been regarded as safe from the flood.

The outflow from the crevasses along Bayou Des Glaises and at Melville on the Atchafalaya was estimated at 500,000 cubic feet of water a second, which, the Weather Bureau said, will carry an average depth of eight feet above the rails of the Southern Pacific branch line between Lafayette Highlands and the Atchafalaya River, and overflow the lowlands behind Bayou Techedown to and around St. Martinsville.

FLOOD SWEEPS ON

Already the flood had spread far down the valley from the crevasses which are between 130 and 170 miles northwest of New Orleans and on the opposite side of the Mississippi. The spread had carried backwater into Iberville parish. Port Barre, Cortableau and a dozen smaller towns in Avoyelles and St. Landry parishes already had disappeared and the sweep was carrying the flood southward into St. Martin's parish.

Thousands already had evacuated their homes, but many clung to their little farms until the water drove them from the fields where they had been working. Refugee camps at Lafayette, Marksville, Alexandria and Maneura were crowded. So densely were some of them packed that it became necessary to open another at Eunice and 1000 refugees had been taken there today.

Motor boats, trucks and special trains continued their work of rescue, boats being used in the Upper Atchafalaya basin and trucks aiding in the evacuation of the lower valley.

REFUSE TO LEAVE

Hundreds had remained until the waters rose about them, driving them to be removed by boats. Many refused to leave even after the waters had left them located on levees or high spots, preferring to remain in the vicinity of their homes rather than to take up quarters at refugee camps.

Two hundred persons remained on the levee at Melville, refusing to leave. Arrangements were made by the Red Cross send them food regularly.

The Texas and Pacific Railroad found it necessary to discontinue all train service across the flood-torn area today, running only local trains from New Orleans to Red Cross, La., on the edge of the lake. On the other side of the flooded sections, their trains will operate from Fort Worth to Bunkie.

Along the main Mississippi a slight decline was noted. The fights at McCrae and Bell Helene were continued by hundreds of workers as the embankments began to crumble. At both points, however, the levees were reported in better condition tonight.

ALHAMBRA GIVES BAY CITY FIRE FUND BALANCE TO FLOOD RELIEF

The balance of a fund raised in Alhambra twenty-one years ago for the San Francisco fire sufferers is to be turned over to the Alhambra-San Gabriel chapter of the American Red Cross for the Mississippi Valley flood relief. The amount on hand from the old fund is $600. Its existence had been forgotten except by a few.

The money has been on deposit in an Alhambra bank, but drawing no interest, since the Red Cross campaign for the San Francisco relief in 1906. At that time Alhambra's quota was raised and sent to Red Cross headquarters. Additional contributions came in later and were placed on deposit until the amount reached $800. At various times since efforts have been made to withdraw the money for Red Cross use, but difficulty was encountered in getting the authorization of the members of the committee originally in charge of the fund. It was not until yesterday that Judge W. M. Northrup, who was one of the active workers in the San Francisco relief drive obtained the signatures of a majority of the committee for the withdrawal.

The committee in charge of the old fund consisted of N. W. Thompson, former State Senator; Frank L. Hilton, S. F. Wuest, J. F. Hall and Gail Borden. All were city officials at the time the fund was raised.

Financial statement showing the names of subscribers to the San Francisco fund has been kept by Judge Northrup. Only a small number of them are living today, and only a few reside in Alhambra.

DR. PARRISH TO JOIN RELIEF

Health Commissioner to Supervise Flooded District; Los Angeles Fund Reaches Total of $287.283

Replying to the urgent request of Henry M. Baker, national director of the Red Cross, for medical as well as financial assistance for flood-stricken Mississippi River Valley States, Dr. George Parrish, City Health Commissioner, will leave here this morning for Memphis to assume supervision of one of the sanitary districts in the inundated South.

Several weeks ago when the Mississippi flooded the lowlands, Chairman D. C. MacWatters of the local Red Cross chapter wired Director Baker, recommending Dr. Parrish's enlistment in the work as one of his chief lieutenants. By virtue of the Los Angeles city health officer's sanitation experience, he is the only person in the West to be drafted into the line of duty.

DR. GEORGE PARRISH

Dr. Parrish will be accompanied by A. L. Peterson, chief sanitary inspector of the Los Angeles Board of Health. They will reach the Tennessee city on Monday morning and be assigned to a district to begin their work.

TOTAL OF SUBSCRIPTION

The Los Angeles relief fund yesterday totaled $287,283, including The Times fund of $150,412.37, leaving approximately $63,000 to be raised before the volunteer quota of $350,000 is reached.

Donations received yesterday included $100 from "Little Jimmy" Rogers, son of the Beverly Hills wandering Mayor. The sum represents a large slice of Jimmy's dime bank savings. The money was turned over to the Beverly Hills Chamber of Commerce and sent to Chairman MacWatters with an additional $25.

The Big Bear Lake and Menlo Parent-Teacher associations each donated $25, the Burbank Chamber of Commerce added $90 to its previous contribution, employees of Cochran Brothers, 1601 Griffith avenue, sent in $71 and the Nash Motor Car Dealers of Los Angeles forwarded $308.95. Joseph Scott, local attorney, contributed $50, and the Illinois Electrical Company and its employees augmented the fund by $105.40.

The city of Orange is planning to give an entertainment Monday night at the Orange High School for the fund to increase its present contribution of $2212. Helen McLellan and Catherine Foster of the Frazee Production studio and a number of other film players will appear.

READY FOR CARNIVAL

Preparations were completed yesterday by officials of the Army, Navy, Red Cross, Chamber of Commerce and representatives of numerous other organizations for the Red Cross air carnival to be held at Clover Field, Santa Monica, Sunday, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., in behalf of the relief fund. It is estimated that at least 20,000 persons will witness the aerial vaudeville, in which seventy-five planes will participate.

MISS CORNELIA McLAUGHLIN.

The contests will be judged by the program committee, of which E. G. Walsh is chairman, and prizes are to be awarded by Mrs. Palmer H. Cook, chairman of the Red Cross aviation unit, and her lieutenants, Mrs. Alexandria Macdonald and the Misses Lillian Van Dyke and Cornelia McLoughlin. Miss McLoughlin, granddaughter of the late Senator Cornelius Cole, may appear in one of the flying events.

Several musical organizations promise to provide the music, including Smith's Greater Los Angeles Band, the Firemen's Band, the Hollywood American Legion Band and others. Ample parking space will be available within the field, according to Lieut. Burgess, commander of Clover Field, who will be marshal of the day.

Richmond A. Edwards, vice-president of the Aero Corporation of California, announces that the company will enter three planes in the carnival. Lieut. Paul Richter, holder of the world's altitude record for 100-horsepower planes, and winner of the last "around the Southland" race at Clover Field, will fly the ships. The corporation stunt flier, Jenny in the dead-stick landing, and Jenny scramble contests, and a short-wing Eaglerock plane in the speed contest, as well as a long-wing Eaglerock in the altitude climb.

SPIRITUALISTS CONTRIBUTE

A check for $600 was turned over to the Red Cross as a result of the California State Spiritualists' Association benefit meeting on the 16th inst. at First Spiritualist Temple. In presenting the money, Fred E. Stivers, president, announced that various affiliated churches of the association have been asked to continue the work in behalf of the fund.

Among other benefits scheduled for the fund is the presentation of the Danish play, "Nei," tomorrow night at the Danish Auditorium, 1359 West Twenty-fourth street by Los Angeles Danes; the Eagles annual picnic barbecue and hi-jinks Sunday at Whiting's ranch, at which 5000 persons are expected, and the oratorio concert in the Shrine Auditorium on the 27th inst.

J. H. Abraham, president of the Los Angeles Fruit Peddlers' Protective Association yesterday appointed a committee to direct the sale of fruit supplied by the association Monday and Tuesday between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. The committee includes A. Madilblatt, H. Cohen, George Brower, Charles Rosen, Jack Fisher, S. Latir, H. Nathanson, D. Kavinsky and I. Lewis. Three trucks, furnished by the city, will be stationed on Caahuenga at Hollywood Boulevard, in Bullock's department store alley, and on the west side of Broadway near Fifth street. The entire proceeds will go toward the fund.

FLOOD VICTIMS' CARE UP TO AMERICAN PEOPLE

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—The American people, "through the Red Cross and other associations," and not the Federal government should take care of the Mississippi River flood relief problem, John Barton Payne, chairman of the board of the American Red Cross, said today on returning from a trip around the world.

"The government never has given anything in cases of this kind, and I don't think it will begin now," he said, referring to a suggestion of a special appropriation by Congress for flood relief.

"The greatest responsibility in an emergency like the Mississippi disaster," he asserted, is that of the newspapers, which "have to paint the picture" and "arouse the sympathy of one locality for another."

"TIMES" RELIEF FUND FOR FLOOD VICTIMS

The Times, which started the Los Angeles fund for the relief of the Mississippi Valley flood victims with a contribution of $1000, will receive, acknowledge by publication and forward to the Red Cross any contributions sent to this paper. Checks should be made payable to The Times Relief Fund and mailed to The Times, Los Angeles, Cal. The need is desperate and The Times urges all who are able to contribute any amount to do so quickly and as generously as possible

If preferred, contributions may be sent direct to the local Red Cross, Transportation Building, Los Angeles.

BAKER ACT MADE LAW

Governor Signs Crime Bills

Carries Life Penalties for Third Conviction of Specified Offenses

List of Measures Sponsored by Commission to Speed Justice Approved

SACRAMENTO, May 19. (AP)—Habitual criminals received final warning from the California government today that henceforth sterner punishment will be meted out to them for their numerous infractions of the laws of this and other States, when Senator Baker's habitual criminal measure was signed by Gov. Young.

The new law provides that criminals upon their third conviction of specified crimes shall be punished by life imprisonment and will not be permitted to ask parole until they have served at least twelve years. For those convicted of four felonies, a life sentence is made mandatory and provision is made that they shall never be eligible for parole.

LIST OF CRIMES

The crimes specified in the bill on which two prior convictions will bring a "life sentence include robbery, burglary, burglary with explosives, rape with force or violence, arson, murder, assault with intent to commit murder, grand theft, bribery of a public official, perjury, subornation of perjury, train wrecking, felonious assault with a deadly weapon.

In order to bring the habitual criminals under the new law the Governor also signed Senator Baker's bill providing that "every person who has been convicted in any other state or county of an offense, which, if committed within this State, would be punishable by imprisonment, is punishable for any subsequent crime committed within this State and to the same extent as if such prior conviction had taken place here."

Another bill affecting the sentences of criminals signed by Gov. Young was that by Senator Inman providing for consecutive sentences for persons convicted of two or more crimes at the same trial, except in exceptional cases when the court may specify that the terms are to be served concurrently.

OTHER BILLS SIGNED

Five other bills sponsored by the Crime Commission to revolutionize the criminal procedure of the State to insure more speedy justice and fewer loopholes through which criminals may escape, also gained the approval of the executive. These were:

Senate Bill No. 363, Baker, giving the State the right to appeal in habeas corpus proceedings.

Senate Bill No. 372, Baker, providing that appeals shall not stay execution of judgment except on special order of court and that no such order shall be made in death penalty or life-imprisonment cases, wherein the prisoners must be taken to prison to await the outcome of their appeals.

Senate Bill No. 383, Baker, increases the State's peremptory challenges to make them equal to the number allowed the defense.

Senate Bill No. 391, Baker, providing that when information or indictments do not charge all prior convictions the accused has suffered they must be amended as soon as the discrepancy has been discovered.

Senate Bill No. 392, Baker, providing that no error shall invalidate a complaint as long as it does not prejudice the substantial rights of the prisoner.

CONVICT PAY

Placing of additional convicts upon the highways of California in the immediate future was made possible this afternoon when Gov. Young signed two Assembly measures appropriating funds for convict compensation.

One of the bills, Assembly Bill No. 1284, by M. J. McDonough, Oakland, appropriates $600,000 for paying the convicts placed on the highways and specifically provides that the men shall benefit from the Workmen's Compensation Insurance and Safety Act.

The second measure, Assembly Bill No. 1292, by William Byrne, Los Angeles, authorizes the Prison Board to transfer $100,000 of their support funds to the Highway Commission for supporting the prison camps. The administration believes the removal of the men from the prisons to the camps will save the prisons this much.

SMALL TOWN OFFICERS GIVEN NEW DIGNITY

SACRAMENTO, May 19. (AP)—Public officials of California cities of the fifth and sixth class henceforth will occupy positions of dignity and carry titles equally as important as those of their brother officials in the metropolitan centers instead of the so-called "hick" appelations.

Gov. Young made this possible today by signing a bill by Assemblyman Jacobson of San Francisco which changes the names of the offices of the smaller cities.

From now on the judges will be city judges instead of recorders; the city's governing body will be the city council; the present president of the council will become the mayor, the marshall will become a chief of police and the recorder's court will become the city court.

The executive also signed a measure by Senator Nelson, Eureka, providing that all future highway rights of way shall be eighty instead of sixty feet wide.

Other bills approved by the Governor include:

Assembly Bill No. 26, Bernard, providing that the prison board must fix the price on jute bags manufactured at San Quentin prison.

Assembly Bill No. 1200, Scofield, providing for the formation of sewer districts in unincorporated territory.

Assembly Bill No. 1215, Ball, authorizing the Attorney General to bring suit in Federal court to collect claims of California Indians.

BYRD ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR SOUTH POLE FLIGHT

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—Confident of landing in Paris in the "America," Commander Byrd, Lieut. Noville and Berta Acosta packed their civilian clothing in trunks today and shipped it on the Leviathan for Paris.

Commander Byrd told the New York Evening Post that he would attempt to complete his aerial conquest of the globe two years from now, if luck was with him.

With his plans for his nonstop flight to Paris complete and merely waiting now for fortuitous winds for its achievement, the conqueror of the North Pole said he is planning his flight to the Antarctic regions.

A tentative selection of his crew will include Floyd Bennett, who piloted the Josephine Ford over the Polar seas, Lieut. George Noville, and Bernt Balchen, Byrd said.

The route has been set tentatively. It will probably be over much the same course taken by Roald Amundsen from the ice barrier to the South Pole.

Two planes will be built, both smaller than those used in the Arctic flight and the imminent trans-Atlantic hop. The cost of the expedition will be about $300,000, the commander said. Who will be the sponsors of the flight he did not state.

Ornithologists, explorers, and scientists will accompany Byrd, it was learned.

"The expedition is to be exclusively a scientific one," the aviator announced. "We are not out to establish new flying records, but to discover facts about an almost wholly unknown region."

FRENCH FLYER HOPS OFF FOR MOSCOW

LE BOURGET (France) May 18. (AP) Lieut. Thoret, holder of many French air records, hopped off for Moscow in a forty-horsepower airplane at 5:10 p.m., in an attempt to set a world record for continuous flight in a light machine. He carried 900 liters of gasoline (about 88 gallons) and 18 liters of oil.

His projected route will carry him over Soissons, Laon, Cologne, Berlin, Minsk and Smolensk. He hopes to make the 1500 miles in twenty-two hours.

COL. ROOSEVELT HAS INFECTED RIGHT FOOT

OYSTER BAY (N. Y.) May 19. (AP) An infected right foot, neglected the past six months while he attended to pressing business, forced Col. Theodore Roosevelt to bed at his home today. Col. Roosevelt has been instructed by his doctor to rest for several days to give the foot a chance to heal. Inflammation developed when a series of abscesses were neglected while Col. Roosevelt was occupied with business matters. The trouble is not serious.

in parts of Northern Mexico. Yaqui Indians were reported to have demanded the surrender of the Son. Although Mexican officials counted this report, it was believed that fifty soldiers from the garrison will leave for the border tomorrow morning.

A platoon of Federal soldiers was rushed to San Luis today, it was reported to be in line with instructions to capture or kill persons attempting to cross the border.

The battle started on the roofs of sniping from concealed positions on buildings and residences. Behind walls of the lawn which surrounded the prepared fortifications were placed pistol or berth, and a few machine guns on the United States side of the line. A group of armed men, under the direction of a United States officer, were on hand to prevent any emergency. The line was closed by order of the American authorities following the seizure of a considerable load of arms and ammunition by Mexican police on Tuesday.

Albert Cassasa, one of the group, and his wife, who were said to be in the town where civil war supplies have been lodged in jail during the Mexican troops.

LIGHT TURNED ON ACTUAL RESULTS OF PROHIBITION

Economic and Industrial Phases of Question Accurately Put Before People at Last

Prof. Herman Feldman of the Amos Tuck School of Administration and Finance, Dartmouth College, has prepared an exhaustive survey of the results of prohibition for the Christian Science Monitor, the several parts of which will appear in The Times. The first article, which is printed below, deals with the neglected aspects of prohibition which Prof. Feldman summarizes as the economic results.

"Article I.—The Neglected Aspects of Prohibition"

This series of articles summarizes the results of a comprehensive survey of the economic and industrial aspects of prohibition. The purpose is not to promote some particular point of view, but to present accurate data of a sufficiently comprehensive character to allow the thoughtful citizen to judge for himself. The articles may lead some readers to definite conclusions; they will leave others in doubt; in either case they will have achieved their purpose.

Have discharges for drunkenness decreased? Have there been fewer employees absent after pay days? Has labor turnover due to drink diminished? Has prohibition minimised the occurrence of industrial accidents due to drink? Has prohibition observed any effect on the productivity of workers? The facts and observations of the outstanding industrial plants, made available through personnel, directors and others on the firing line of industry, are summarized in half a dozen significant articles. A special article deals with the changes observed in the relations of salesmen to customers, as observed by seventy-five outstanding sales managers. To make sure of getting all the information possible about the relation of drunkenness to industrial accidents, every workmen's compensation commission or accident board in the country, Federal or State, was communicated with, as well as several of the larger companies writing employers' liability insurance.

MUCH HELP GIVEN

The attempt to get an intimate picture of the way that prohibition was affecting the lives of the wage earners was singularly fortunate in obtaining the co-operation of three of the largest insurance companies writing industrial insurance policies.

What is the relation between prohibition and the increased purchasing power and widespread industrial prosperity? An attempt was made to determine the extent to which prohibition may be credited with some of the economic results observed. Among the factors studied were the changes in the consumption of certain comforts and luxuries, such as automobiles, radios, commercial recreation and the like, and the rate of increase in thrift and insurance. As part of the consideration of thrift, a questionnaire was addressed to some of the leading savings institutions in the country. All of the officials in Federal and State bureaus administering laws for the protection of women or children were consulted. Their observations and those of others are used as the basis for an article concerning the effects of prohibition on the economic conditions of women, children and the family.

The rather scant information available concerning overindulgence in liquor as a factor in expenditures for charity has been brought together in another article.

A questionnaire addressed to seventy-five of the leading brewers of the country, another questionnaire to fifty of the locals of brewery workmen, and a similar investigation of the effects on the occupation of bartending, form the basis of two articles on these interesting economic aspects of prohibition.

LIGHT ON SUBJECT

To determine what has been the effect of prohibition on hotel business, on the number of conventions attracted by representative cities and on real estate values of streets or corners where saloons had been located, letters were written to hundreds of persons in touch with the facts. Interesting comparisons of conditions result from the information obtained.

It has been stated that the issue of prohibition is likely to be settled by the verdict of the small towns. With the co-operation of the American City, the chief municipal publication circulating among officials in such towns, a questionnaire was addressed to mayors in communities of from 10,000 to 40,000 population, in States that did not have prohibition before the Eighteenth Amendment. Replies were received from fifty mayors, and in conjunction with the American City, the significant conclusion summarized.

Whether the known increase in motor accidents has been accompanied by an increase in proportion of cases in which drunkenness was involved is a most pertinent inquiry.

Crime has been included in this series because it is decidedly an economic problem, as well as a legal and social one. Whether crime has been increasing or decreasing, and the share which prohibition may have had in any change observed, is a man's-size problem which one of the articles in the series bravely, and it is hoped informingly, undertakes to illumine.

CAREFUL SELECTION

In preparing the list of companies to which the questionnaire was to be sent, the purpose was to include as many as possible which had established employment departments since such concerns were most likely to have employment records. The best, and at the same time most representative list available was that of the American Management Association, because it includes hundreds of employment supervisors and production managers.

To fill out the list with a larger representation from the Middle West and Far West, the writer sent letters to the secretaries of the chambers of Commerce of the principal industrial cities, such as Detroit, St. Louis, Grand Rapids, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Los Angeles, San Francisco, etc., as well as Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Syracuse and others in the East requesting them to give the writer a selected list of the largest and most representative firms.

The list was further supplemented to some extent geographically by selections from the directory of the National Metal Trades Association, the Taylor Society and in other ways. In the case of the railroads, about fifty with the largest mileage were selected. A list of coal mines was obtained from the associations of mine operators in the various districts, along with 100 names suggested by Coal Mine Management.

From the annual report of the American Electric Railway Association, about seventy-five names were selected of street-railway companies throughout the country. The writer made an effort to get a thoroughly representative list industrially and geographically, giving preference only to firms in cities formerly wet. Of the 1200 or more concerns addressed the attitude of prohibition on the part of the company or of its principal officers was not given any consideration at all, and was known in only two instances.

WHERE IT CAME FROM

About 90 per cent of the information comes from States having no statewide restrictive legislation before national prohibition came into force. Concerns in New York, Massachusetts, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Ohio account for more than half the replies, and a considerable number come from Missouri, Wisconsin, Michigan, Rhode Island, Connecticut and California, in the order named. The replies from States dry before national prohibition are comparatively few and scattered, but their experience has not been disregarded, since some dry States were so close to wet States that their restrictions did not really matter.

The employees in the concerns returning questionnaires numbered more than 900,000, of which a little less than 80 per cent were male. Including the concerns visited by the writer personally, more than 1,250,000 employees were on the pay roll of the concerns whose experience had been summarized.

It was a pleasure to note the marked interest displayed, making it obvious that employers everywhere are eager to compare experience and get enlightenment on the economic and industrial aspects of prohibition.

Taking into account the large amount of effort put into the present survey, and the wide range of material obtained, one may be permitted to state that whatever be its merits or defects, it is the only investigation of its kind written since prohibition. The present investigation has the advantage of information based on longer experience with preprohibition conditions and postprohibition conditions than any as yet published.

What does this elaborate investigation show?

Has prohibition proved a desirable measure for the country from the economic and industrial standpoint or a detriment?

What have been its chief advantages? What its chief disadvantages?

We shall not attempt to answer the whole question until the concluding article of the series. We shall take up each of the aspects mentioned and try to arrive at some conclusion with regard to them one at a time.

JOHN COOLIDGE CALLED BUTCH

AMHERST (Mass.) May 19. (AP)—The Amherst College junior year book, just out, reveals that John Coolidge, son of the President, is known to his classmates as "Butch." How the nickname originated is not revealed. Although young Coolidge himself is on the editorial board of the publication, his fellow-editors did not spare him in their thrusts of wit. They mentioned his "second hand navy peajacket, evidently purchased with due regard for Coolidge economy," his "perfect schoolgirl complexion" and his "air of perfect boredom." They revealed that he keeps a scrap book of clippings from newspaper stories which have mentioned his name and asserted that he receives numerous letters from schoolgirls all over the country expressing admiration.

Mad 'Emperor' of Philippines Reaches Manila

MANILA, May 19. (AP)—Outwardly showing none of the insanity of which he was adjudged, Pior Intrencherado, self-proclaimed "emperor of the Philippines," whose followers in the Visayan Islands almost started a serious revolution last week, arrived here today for treatment.

The magnetic native leader, whose "empire" was founded upon promise of a country of no work and all play, appeared calm and rational to the lay observer. He was taken immediately to San Lazaro Hospital. There he will be kept under observation temporarily to determine the nature of his mental ailment, if any. Later he will be removed to a ward.

Under present arrangements, Intrencherado is only semiconfined. Gov.-Gen. Wood has stipulated that immediate members of the patient's family may remain with him.

With the leading members of Intrencherado's followers under arrest, authorities consider the "empire" incident closed. However, vigilance will be maintained to prevent an aftermath.

Number of Men Considered for Commissioner Job

Selection of Haynes Said to be Far from Likely

Doran and Lowman Declared to Have Good Chance

WASHINGTON, May 19. (AP)—Secretary Mellon has about decided on the man who will be permanent Prohibition Commissioner, and his decision probably will be made public tomorrow.

Roy A. Haynes, strongly supported by the Anti-Saloon League, is holding the post as acting commissioner, but other organizations vigorously have opposed him. Dr. James M. Doran of North Dakota, chief chemist of the Prohibition Bureau, and Seymour Lowman, former Lieutenant-Governor of New York, are among those who have been under consideration as appointees, Secretary Mellon said today. Several others have been considered.

TALKS TO COOLIDGE

Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League recently spent an hour at the White House conferring on the situation with President Coolidge. Afterward, he said Haynes was the man best fitted for the job. The President, however, has indicated that the appointment will be handled by Mellon, some of whose advisers are opposed to Haynes.

The executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League met here today to discuss plans in opposition to the candidacy for President of any one known to be hostile to the prohibition law.

In making his fight for Haynes, Wheeler has urged that an outstanding friend of the law should administer it.

Friends of Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of prohibition policies, have predicted that he will resign if Haynes is appointed permanently, but Andrews has indicated no intention of leaving government service at an early date.

Most officials at the Treasury expect Haynes to be replaced, although Mellon has made no definite statement to that effect.

WANTS REAL DRY

Reaffirming an attitude already expressed on the question, the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League, at a special meeting here today, adopted a resolution urging appointment of a Prohibition Commissioner "who is in sympathy with the law he will be called upon to enforce, who is capable of performing the duties of his office, and who has had adequate experience in prohibition-enforcement work."

The resolution made no direct references to Haynes.

The resolution concluded with the statement that President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon be reminded "of the unmistakable understanding that was had in the passage of the reorganization bill that the Commissioner of Prohibition would be entirely free and unhampered in the performance of his duties."

A copy of the resolution was sent to both the President and Mr. Mellon.

DAM-BREAK DEATH TOLL NOW SEVEN

Losses in Live Stock and Bridges Taken by Idaho Flood Yet Unknown

IDAHO FALLS (Idaho) May 19. (AP) Toll of lives taken when the Gros Ventre River "slide" dam went out yesterday remained at seven tonight, while property damages will go into tens of thousands of dollars. No concerted effort has been made to check the loss of live stock and the damage to several bridges spanning the Snake River, into which the torrent rushed, will probably not be known until after the high water recedes after the snow melts, some time next month.

The dead:

Mrs. Fred Lovejoy, Mrs. Smith, sister of Mrs. Lovejoy; Mr. and Mrs. Needy and son, given names unknown; J. F. Almy, all of Kelly, Wyo., and Cliff Stevens, Driggs, Idaho.

These persons lost their lives when they were caught in a wall of water twenty feet high, released when the dam formed by a slide June 24, 1925, from Sheep Mountain, went out under pressure of water from melting snows. They were at Kelly, three miles below the dam. The entire town, built on the river bottom lands and having a population of seventy-five, was wiped out.

The wave of water took everything before it and piled up a raft of timber more than 200 feet in length. As this piled up against bridge after bridge en route down the Gros Ventre and Snake rivers, the wave flattened out over the lowlands and by the time the water reached here its force had practically been spent. Some flat lands north of here were inundated, so the crop loss will not be so great as was at first feared.

HELP GIVEN BEREAVED

Victims in Blast Offered Aid

Michigan Governor Asks for State-wide Contribution for Sorrowing Town

Death List at Forty-four as Result of Explosion Set Off by Mad Farmer

BATH (Mich.) May 19. (AP)—The State of Michigan today took steps for the relief of this stricken village, into whose homes a demented farmer yesterday sent death and desolation by dynamiting its school and blowing to death more than two-score persons. Of the forty-four dead tonight, thirty-seven were children, pupils in the lower grades of the school.

Andrew Kehoe, 45-year-old treasurer of the school district—his mind deranged by financial reverses—alone conceived and executed the dynamiting, in the opinion of investigating officers. They abandoned an earlier theory that he had outside help in planting dynamite in the building and wiring it to set off the blast.

The little village of 300 persons in the heart of Michigan's agricultural district is virtually bankrupt as a result of yesterday's catastrophe.

AID APPEAL MADE

It was this situation that prompted Gov. Green today to issue a proclamation calling for State-wide aid in providing financial relief to Bath's stricken citizens and make possible the rebuilding of its school. The village itself is unable to rebuild the school. Gov. Green announced funds will be taken from the State coffers for the purpose, if voluntary aid of Michigan's citizenry proves insufficient.

"It is hardly possible," the Governor said, "to imagine a more terrible catastrophe than yesterday's at Bath."

He followed his proclamation with announcement that he personally will defray funeral expenses for those of the victims whose families are unable to do so. The Governor was on the scene of the blast yesterday and saw the tragedy in all its horror.

SCENE OF SADNESS

Bath tonight remembered that today was to have been the date of the annual school picnic. Nightfall saw no happy groups of children returning from a day of play, but nearly a score of homes observing the hush of death with funeral wreaths on the door. Here and there at a street corner stood groups of two or three, discussing in a low breath what might have been and what is.

Kehoe's part in the tragedy was brought more vividly to mind by Miss Bernice Sterling, teacher of the first grade.

Early Wednesday morning, she said, she called Kehoe by telephone and asked concerning arrangements for the use of a plot on his farm for the picnic site.

"When are you going to have the picnic?" Kehoe countered.

"Thursday," Miss Sterling replied.

"Well, if you're going to have a picnic, you'd better have it right away," was the treasurer's rejoinder as he ended the conversation.

Less than two hours later explosions socked the school building.

MYSTERY CLEARED

The fate of Kehoe's wife, recently returned from a Lansing hospital was cleared up.

Roye Cole, a Saginaw county deputy sheriff, searching through the ruins of the Kehoe farm home and outbuildings, found portions of the woman's body. The skull was crushed. State troopers advanced the theory that Kehoe, before throwing into operation mechanism which blew up his property, killed his wife and transported the body to the outbuildings on a light cart. The cart, with Mrs. Kehoe's personal belongings and some articles of jewelry, stood nearby.

The recent illness of Mrs. Kehoe, worries over financial reverses, brooding over what he considered excessive school taxes, and two serious accidents within the last eight years were advanced today as contributing causes of Kehoe's mental aberration. Foreclosure of a mortgage on the farm is believed to have been the incident that snapped his reason.

Neighbors of the farmer today pictured him as a man with few friends, harsh, unsociable, but withal of high intelligence until he fell into a brooding mood within recent weeks.

ENMITY FELT

A belief that Kehoe's accounts as treasurer of the district might have been in bad order was found untrue when a Lansing insurance agent, who served as his bondsman, received a package containing his records. All were in good shape.

Kehoe is known to have felt enmity toward his wife's relatives, for it was an aunt of Mrs. Kehoe who foreclosed the mortgage on his farm.

The townspeople tonight had abandoned plans for a group funeral for the victims of the blast. The decision was made in the belief that the scant comfort of individual burial ceremonies would serve in a measure to ease the sorrow of the parents and relatives. Plans have been made for a number of funeral services tomorrow and Saturday. Each family will bear its own dead to the grave.

ABLE TO HELP

Gov. Green in his proclamation called upon the people of the State to contribute to the relief fund, for "There is little we can do to lessen the grief of the stricken people.

"While not able to assuage their grief, we can help with the material problems that confront the community.

"The financial obligation of a new school at this time would be burdensome to a district already heavily bonded. I believe we will all feel better if we contribute something."

Sim Ewing, Bath township Supervisor, added a plaintive note by declaring that it would be almost impossible to rebuild the school and "I do not know what we are going to do now—go bankrupt I guess."

Commencement exercises in the village will be only a bare formality. Floyd Huggitt, principal, announced that the ceremony will consist only in presentation of diplomas to the graduates.

MURDERS LAID TO PIRATES

Rovers Supposed to Have Slain Managers of Fox Farms in Far-Off Aleutian Island

SEATTLE (Wash.) May 19. (AP)—Meager reports of the disappearance and possible murded of three men in what is thought by some to be an armed conflict between Arctic fox farmers and pirate bands have come out of the Far North.

The body of Phillip H. Munro has been found in a shallow grave on the bleak north shore of Kanaga Island, where he managed a fox farm for Kanaga Ranching Company of Seattle, his daughter was advised here yesterday by the commandant of the United States Coast Guard's Bering Sea patrol. Munro disappeared last August from the island, which is in the middle Aleutian group off Southwestern Alaska.

Discovery of Munro's body has given rise to speculation regarding the fate of two former managers of the isolated island ranch. They vanished under mysterious circumstances in March 1926, and no trace of them has since been found.

Rumors of the existence of organized pirate bands which are supposed to have engaged in the theft of valuable blue and silver foxes from the island ranches have for several months past been brought to Seattle by traders returning from the little-visited sections off the Alaskan coast. At least one death is said to have been attributed unofficially to the efforts of the ranchers to defend their islands against the pirates.

Kanaga Island, although one of the largest of the Aleutians, is populated sparsely and has no radio or cable communication with the outside world. The belief was expressed here that news of the discovery of Munro's body was obtained by a coast guard cutter which chanced to visit the island.

No theory has been advanced here as to why Munro might have been murdered. There are fewer than a dozen white persons and about 100 Aleut Indians on the far-off island.

BOARD SAYS IT CAN'T BAN CHAIN BANKS

House Committee Head Advised Law Gives No Power to Curb System

WASHINGTON, May 19. (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board is powerless to prevent chain banking, through purchases by holding companies, Governor Crissinger of the board has informed Chairman McFadden of the House Banking Committee.

The Comptroller of the Currency also has written Mr. McFadden that he has no authority to interfere with what the committee chairman had termed a vicious system of banking. Both officials said Congress should be responsible for any changes in the law.

"There is no provision of statutes which confers upon the board any authority to regulate or prohibit the holding of the stock of State member banks by any group or corporation," Mr. Crissinger said.

He said the board had unsuccessfully suggested an amendment to the McFadden branch banking bill designed to afford some check on the abuses which it declared occur frequently in chain banking.

Expedition to Study Weather of Arctic Region

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—An Arctic expedition designed to study polar weather influences on Northern Atlantic weather conditions was announced today by Dr. Constantin Dumbarava, glacial explorer.

The project will be headed by Dr. Dumbarava, 29 years of age, a native of Rumania. While the expedition will be under the patronage of the French Geographical Society and the Belgian Royal Geographical Society, the enterprise will be called the Rumanis Greenland expedition, in honor of his native country.

The party will have its base atop a mountain 1000 meters high, in the district of Angmalis, on the bleak eastern coast of Greenland.

Dr. Dumbarava will sail from New York on May 28, and leave for the north from Copenhagen about July 16.

Attorney's Wife Suing for Balm From Fair Client

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—Suit for $100,000 damages for alienation of affections was filed in the Supreme Court today by Mrs. Curley C. Hoffpauir, wife of a New York attorney, against Mrs. Olivette Corinne Cartier, divorced wife of Louis P. Cartier of Mobile, Ala.

It is asserted that Mrs. Cartier eloped to Los Angeles with Hoffpauir, who was her attorney.

The Hoffpauirs were married August 11, 1926. They have a daughter, Gloria Marilyn, 3 years of age. Mrs. Hoffpauir recently was awarded $60 a week temporary alimony pending trial of her suit for separation on grounds of abandonment and non-support. Mrs. Cartier is described in papers filed in the separation action as the cause of the marital troubles of which Mrs. Hoffpauir complains.

Oleomargarine Policy Nullified by Webb Decree

SACRAMENTO, May 19. (AP)—Interpretations of the general dairy laws by G. H. Hecke, director of the State Department of Agriculture, in formulating a policy for controlling the display and use of oleomargarine were hit today by Atty.-Gen. Webb in an opinion handed down here.

Among other things, Hecke proposed to restrict the use of yellow color on designs or illustrations of oleomargarine, prohibit the use of yellow samples by demonstrators of oleomargarine in stores or the use of yellow butter in making comparison, restrict the use of color in bakers' oleomargarine even though obtained by mixing the product with butter or the selections of yellow fats, require that oleomargarine be stamped on all wholesale shipping containers and printed on individual retail containers.

The Attorney-General held there is no authority in the law giving the Agricultural Department director power to enforce any of these proposed restrictions, prohibitions or requirements.

Wilbur Names Board to Study Dirigible Plans

WASHINGTON, May 19. (AP)—A board of five naval officers has been appointed by Secretary Wilbur to study competitive designs for a new rigid airship of approximately 6,000,000 cubic feet gas capacity. Congress has authorized $200,000 for preliminary work on the dirigible.

MORE MYSTERY IN SOVIET RAID

Home Secretary Withholds Statement to Commons

Sensational Revelations Set for Next Tuesday

Debate in House Scheduled for Thursday

LONDON, May 19. (AP)—The mystery of the disappearance of a secret state document from the British War Office, which led to Scotland Yard's sensational search of soviet house, became even greater today with the announcement by the Home Secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, that he was still unable to make a statement in the House of Commons regarding the raid.

The crowded chamber was hushed in an atmosphere of excited suspense when the Home Secretary arose, presumably to make a long statement on the raid, the grave consequences of which were admitted in all political and diplomatic quarters. Instead of making the expected statement, Sir William declared: "Information which has come into the possession of the police through the Arcos search is of such a nature that it has not been possible for His Majesty's government to complete the examination or determine the consequences of it."

BARRAGE OF QUESTIONS

The Secretary was immediately bombarded with questions from Laborites seeking to drag information from him, but little new was forthcoming.

Next Tuesday is the day now set by Sir William for his revelations, and a full debate over the raid is scheduled in the House for Thursday. Much political maneuvering occurred between the party leaders on the floor of the House today with regard to the character of this debate. The Laborites were most anxious to learn just what Scotland Yard had found, before formally launching a vote of censure against the government.

ONLY KNOWN FACTS

The only known facts about the raid are that it was instituted to find a state document which is missing from the War Office, and that it was carried out under the Official Secrets Act, thus indicating the high importance of the decision of the Home Secretary to authorize the police to ask a magistrate for a search warrant.

On the basis of these known facts London has been filled with rumors and reports, many of them of a most sensational character, ever since the raid was carried out. The fact that the missing document belongs to the War Office and assertedly is of value to the soviet authorities gives credence to the report that the document dealt with plans for meeting hypothetical Anglo-Russian military situations.

Conviction of Doble Upheld in Stock Case

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19. (AP)—The State District Court of Appeal today affirmed the conviction of Abner Doble, president of the Doble Steam Motor Corporation, on the charge of entering a conspiracy to violate the Corporate Securities Act. Conviction on this charge provides a prison sentence of from six months to five years in the State penitentiary.

Doble was sentenced in March, 1926. He was arrested with five other indicted members of his firm, four of whom pleaded guilty and were fined. The fifth, W. A. Doble, was acquitted. Abner Doble pleaded not guilty.

The method said to have been used by the Doble group in the sale of stock without permission of the State Corporation Commissioner was to send the stock to F. G. Cox in Portland, Or., who returned it to California to be sold. Thus Doble would not have to declare it.

WOMEN'S GOLF CHAMP DEFEATS MRS. PRESSLER

MRS. LIFUR STAGES FINE EXHIBITION TO WIN 2-1

Mrs. Jones Eliminates Opponent and Will Meet Titlist for Crown Today

BY BILL WISE

The two most representative feminine title-holders in local golf will meet at Hillcrest this morning for the Women's Southern California championship.

Mrs. Harry Pressler, 2 and 1, yesterday, while Mrs. Dan Jones, State champion, was having a slightly easier time disposing of Miss Anne Webster, 4 and 3, in the other semifinals clash.

Mrs. Lifur, defending the southern crown in much the dynamite manner that characterized her successful title drive at Midwick last year, pummeled pop Webster enough fight to sweep aside one time prize in Southern California. Mrs. Lifur, out in 41, one more than Mrs. Pressler, needed for a 38 coming home and a win on the match ended. Mrs. Pressler played good enough golf to stay nearly even, and was within striking distance of her opponent when she finally decided the affair on the seventeenth green.

Mrs. Lifur is one of the gamest golfers in the West and this same quality prevailed with her all through the match yesterday as she fought gamely to the finish in a low-scoring battle.

Mrs. Pressler played an important part in the feature match yesterday after having the first nine in par 4s, each skipped with a stiff on the long hole and Mrs. Lifur dropping first putts. Mrs. Pressler was unable to negotiate a stymie on five.

The Hillcrest player quickly squared the match with a par 3 on the 200-yard, downhill seventh with an original send for a birdie on the 350-yard eighth. The match halved in even figures. Mrs. Lifur taking 40 strokes going out, Mrs. Lifur was credited with two putts, but a partial lead by Mrs. Lifur won the hole just squared the match. Mrs. Lifur has been noted for her steady, but going for the green in the defending champion's approach from off the green for a birdie 3 to the hole, she never lost the lead of 1 point.

Mrs. Pressler, however, going to the turn, six, Mrs. Lifur increased her lead to 2 up with another to be played. Mrs. Pressler laid

Young French Golfer Takes British Title

NEWCASTLE, COUNTY DOWN, (Ireland) May 19. (AP)—Mlle. Simone Thion de la Chaume, 19-year-old French golfer, today turned a trick which American women have been attempting unsuccessfully for years in capturing the British women's open golf championship by a 5 and 4 victory over Miss Dorothy Pearson of Tunbridge Wells, Kent, England.

Mlle. de la Chaume is the first foreigner ever to take the trophy out of Great Britain, just as her compatriot, Arnaud Massy, was the first foreigner ever to win the British open by his victory at Hoy Lake in 1907.

Today's thirty-six-hole final match was a great fight. The two girls, both still in their 'teens, waged a steady battle over the County Down fairway. Mlle. de la Chaume laid the foundation for her victory with a five-hole lead during the first round this morning.

REDLANDS PREPS AND COLLEGE END SEASON

REDLANDS, May 19.—Redlands is to have plenty of baseball this week, a feast and then a famine for this week ends the season in both the high school and the university. The high school plays its final game in the Citrus Belt League and should defeat San Bernardino. If this happens Redlands will go through the season without a defeat, and in any case the local team has the league championship on percentage. Green, sophomore pitcher for the Terriers, has been largely responsible. The University of Redlands closes its season with a game with Whittier. In their first game Whittier won, 12 to 10, but the Bulldogs are all pepped up to turn the tables this time.

AD CADENA WALLOPS ESQUIVAL AT CULVER

Ad Cadena stopped Lewis Esquival in the second round of the scheduled ten round event at the Culver City arena last night.

Billy Abramson defeated Young Bello in the six round semi-wind-up. In one of the fastest fights on the card, Mickey Berno defeated Wellington O'Conner in six rounds. Brick De Hoag scored a knockout over Frank Abadeno in the third round of a scheduled four-rounder. Sandy Garrison walloped Joe Flores in the curtain-raiser.

BEST IN HIS LEAGUE - - By Feg Murray

Copyright, 1927, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

BACK in 1915, the Giants had a 19-year-old right-handed pitcher named Ray Kremer. McGraw decided not to keep him, however, and back he went to Vancouver, whence he had come, and proceeded to work diligently at his trade of throwing a baseball past the opposing batters. He worked so well at it that the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League got hold of him, and in six years he won just two less than 100 games for his manager and owners. The fact that during that time his losses exceeded his wins was not looked upon as a discouraging sign by the Pittsburgh club, which bought him because his 1921 record was good, his 1922 record better, and his performances in 1923 very worthy indeed.

So Ray, the "Wizard," came back to the majors and, unlike Paul Strand, another Coast League star who made the journey up at the same time, arrived with a bang and has more than made good. In 1924 his record was eighteen victories and ten defeats; in 1925, seventeen wins and only eight losses, and last season he led all other National League pitchers in percentage of games won and lost, with twenty and six to his credit, and also in earned-run averages, with 2.61.

That brings us up to 1927, which year finds Mr. Kremer doing his best to bring the Pirates once more back into the championship class. Ray pitched three games in the 1925 world series, losing one and winning two; the one that tied up the series at three games apiece on October 14, and then getting credit for winning the final victory over Walter Johnson the following day. He showed, by winning his first three starts in April, that he is going to do his bit to get a chance to pitch in the 1927 world series. He's the best pitcher in the National League, not barring Alexander the Great!

NEGRO HEAVIES TOP PASADENA BOUT BILL

Two negro heavyweights who make a specialty of quick knockouts will top the card which is to open the new Pasadena arena June 2. On this occasion Manager Morrie Cohan will present to Crown City fans Mack House and Neil Clisby in the main event. All ring fans know about House and his twenty-one first-round victories via the K. O. route. But few realize that Clisby, clever San Bernardino boy, has quite a record in the same direction. It took but twenty seconds for Clisby to dispose of Tony Fuente. He polished off Vic Alexander in one minute and eighteen seconds, Chief Metoquah in eighteen seconds, Frank (Kid) Williams in one minute, beat Tom King, the Australian champion, in two rounds. Four times Clisby has fought Tom Hawkins, beating him three times and once getting a draw.

The new arena is fast approaching completion. It will have a capacity of 1500 and give Pasadena a more important position in istic circles.

BORAH TO MEET WYKOFF

Fastest College, Prep School Sprinters Will Match Strides at Santa Ana

BY RALPH HUSTON

Charley Borah, U.S.C.'s sterling sprinter, who has pursued a 9-4s. record for the 100-yard dash with a commendable degree of consistency during the present season, gets a real chance to make the magic mark Saturday. Borah will face Frank Wykoff, Glendale's fastest prep school human, in the 100-yard dash at Santa Ana.

Coach Dean Cromwell of U.S.C. and Coach Hayhurst of Glendale High School, entered their stars in the A.A.U. meet simultaneously, and ignorant of the other's move. Cromwell figured it was a chance for a last workout for Borah before leaving for the I.C.4A. meet in the East, while Hayhurst decided to give his crack dash man one final burst of glory before ringing down the curtain on Glendale's State championship team.

CHARLEY BORAH.

BOTH SPEEDY

Borah has run 9.6 this season—three watches catching him at 9.5 at the time—while some timers have clicked Wykoff at 9.5 on the track at Pasadena. Borah has not been pressed this season. He has always seemed to have plenty left, no matter how fast he ran. If Wykoff is as fast

EASON MAKES STATEMENT

SACRAMENTO, May 19. (AP)—The Sacramento Bee today is publishing the following signed statement by Umpire M. W. Eason explaining the reasons for taking the Pacific Coast League umpires appeal over President Harry Williams's head to Judge Landis:

This is the only interview given of the assaults made upon Umpire Eason at Los Angeles by Manager Krug and player Brazill on dates of April 21 and 22.

HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

"To quiet all unreliable rumors, I wish to make this statement to the baseball public.

"The petition sent to M. H. Sexton, president of the National Association of Professional baseball clubs by the nine members of the Pacific Coast League umpiring staff requested, for the good of the game and the protection of umpires' lives, an investigation by President Sexton of the assaults made upon Umpire Eason at Los Angeles by Manager Krug and player Brazill on dates of April 21 and 22.

"Knowing that the constitutional by-laws would not allow President Harry A. Williams to make a just decision in this matter, we appealed to the higher authorities of baseball. Commissioner Judge K. M. Landis was sent all copies of this data.

[Signed] "M. W. EASON."

BY PAUL LOWRY

Does any Los Angeles promoter want to stage a bantamweight tournament with championship trimmings? A tournament including such celebrities as Bud Taylor, Bushy Graham, Tony Canzoneri, Abe Attell Goldstein and last, but not least, the newest Filipino flash, Ignatio Fernandez, now on his way to the United States and due to dock in Vancouver the 29th inst.

IGNATIO FERNANDEZ.

Frank Churchill is willing to switch the programmed destination of Fernandez, the banty king of the Philippines, from Chicago to Los Angeles if the Olympic or Wrigley Field promoters can coax the other gentry mentioned above to come West and wage warfare. Churchill will speak for Fernandez. The promoter will have to do the rest.

HUGE GUARANTEE

But, as a succulent bait, Churchill says he will guarantee either Taylor or Canzoneri $10,000 to meet Fernandez, who is said to be an even greater fighter than two other little Filipinos who passed away in harness—Pancho Villa and Clever Sencio.

In other words, Churchill says if either Taylor or Canzoneri's percentage of the gate receipts for fighting Fernandez falls below the $10,000 figure he will make up the deficit. He thinks such a fight will pack the Olympic if fought at the championship weight of 118 pounds, and there will be no guarantee, he says, except at the title poundage.

Churchill never has seen Fernandez fight, but he is taking the word of his partner, who runs the big fight stadium in Manila, and the unanimous opinion of the press that Fernandez is better than Villa, Sencio or Dencio.

Gambling on these opinions, Churchill is willing to rush Fernandez into a match right off the reel with the top-notchers in the 118-pound division instead of taking easier bouts and building the boy up gradually in this country.

He believes if Taylor, Canzoneri, and Graham could be brought to the coast for a series of fights in which Fernandez is included the winner of the tourney would be recognized as the undisputed bantamweight king. As the case stands now Taylor is the recognized champion in seventeen States, Bushy Graham, who has beaten Taylor, is considered the champion around New York, while Canzoneri, the New Orleans Italian, who beat Graham and drew with Taylor, is the "kink" in his home State and other quarters.

"OIL" HAMILTON HURLS VICTORY

Bells Held to Five Hits by Seraph Left-Hander

Wild Heave by Rodda Gives Cherubs Last Score

BY BOB RAY

"Oil" Hamilton, Marty Krug's veteran portsider, slowed the Mission Bells up to a walk yesterday at Wrigley Field and the Angels broke into the win column for the first time this week by registering a 3-to-1 victory.

EARL HAMILTON.

Hamilton, who specializes in slow stuff, had the Bells completely baffled with his assortment of floaters, sinkers and whatnot in all but the seventh inning, when Mickey Finn and Griffin laced out successive doubles to put over the lone Mission marker. In all, the Bells got only five hits off "Oil" and never had much of a chance to do anything to the lazy offerings of Mr. Hamilton.

Phil Weinert, who had trouble getting anybody out when he used to perform for the Angels and Tigers a couple of seasons or so ago, but has this year broken out into a winning hurler for the Bells, gave Hamilton quite a pitching argument. Phil had trouble locating the plate at times, issuing five walks and hitting one batter, but he got out of all jams except one in the fourth inning. A couple of hits, one a double by Art Jahn, a hit batsman and a sacrifice fly were combined off Weinert's left-handed shoots in this round to produce the Cherubs' two earned runs.

SCORE OFF ECKERT

After Weinert had been removed for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, the Angels picked up their final score off "Buzz" Eckert in the home half of the same round. However, it wasn't Eckert's fault that the Angels got that third run. A wild heave by

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19. (Exclusive)—"Dink" Templeton, Stanford track coach, will not be able to accompany the Cardinal team, which leaves Palo Alto Saturday for the I.C.A.A.A.A. meet at Philadelphia.

He is in the Dante Hospital, San Francisco. His trouble is said to be kidney stones.

There is just a possibility that "Dink" may leave Sunday or Monday to join the team, but neither "Dink" nor his physicians today held out any hope for even this. Templeton has been in the hospital seven days.

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—For the second time in twenty years of fight promoting, the proverbial "weather luck" that had followed the trail of Tex Rickard, deserted him today.

CHICAGO, May 19. (AP)—Tommy Thomas registered his sixth victory of the season today when he bested Lefty Grove, Connie Mack's star southpaw, in a pitching duel, which Chicago won from the Athletics, 3 to 0. Thomas allowed only five hits.

Ty Cobb, in hitting safely on his first trip to the plate, ran his string of consecutive games in which he has made one or more hits, to nineteen. Three former White Sox managers in addition to the new pilot, Ray Schalk, were present on the field. They were Eddie Collins and Kid Gleason, both with the Athletics, and Clarence Rowland, now an umpire. The Athletics had four managers on the bench, the quartet being composed of Ty Cobb, former Tiger leader; Connie Mack, and two of the former White Sox pilots. Score:

TIGERS LOSE

DETROIT, May 19. (AP) — Hollis Thurston pitched Washington to a 3-to-0 victory over Detroit in the second game of the series here today. Because he was effective with men on bases, Thurston became the first pitcher to shut out the Tigers this season. Topper Rigney, a former Tiger, now playing shortstop for the Senators, drove in two of the Washington runs and scored the other himself. Rigney tripled to the score board in the seventh inning after Judge and Ruel had singled, and came home on Bluege's fly to Fothergill. The score:

EASTERBROOK SWELLS MUSCLES BY ROWING

The origin of that terrific punch in the good right arm of young Mr. Harold (Bud) Easterbrook, who fights Tony Fuente in the main event at the Main-Street Athletic Club Saturday night, has been discovered. Easterbrook is the latest entrant in the channel rowing classic, which is to be staged between Long Beach and Catalina on June 12. He admits to plenty of experience as an oarsman, and claims to have developed his tremendous muscle, back and shoulder development through hours of active work on the water. Manager Carlo Curtis has put on a robby array of preliminaries, with Vernon Jackson and Art Molina occupying the semi-wind-up position.

WHITE WOULD MEET LEONARD

CHICAGO, May 19. (AP)—Charley White, once contender for the world's lightweight championship, dropped his affairs long enough today to challenge Benny Leonard, retired undefeated titleholder, to fight any number of rounds at any weight to raise funds for the Mississippi flood sufferers. In 1920, White and Leonard fought a savage battle in Benton Harbor, Mich., with Leonard winning in the ninth round after White had knocked him out of the ring.

Occidental to Close Season With Sagehens

Six baseball squads will clash tomorrow in three conference diamond contests closing the 1927 Southern Conference baseball season. Occidental and Pomona will do battle at Patterson Field, Eagle Rock, in the feature game of the day, while the U. C. Bruins and the Caltech Engineers will meet one another at Moore Field in a game that takes a mighty close second to the Pomona-Oxy scrap for interest. San Diego and La Verne will also try and settle a diamond argument at La Verne Field.

The Pomona fracas should prove a great battle, and for more than just a few reasons. The fact that some seven regulars on the champion Oxy ball team are ready to graduate this year and will be playing their last college ball game should make the Tigers all the tougher. These seven men include Bud Teachout, pitcher; Solly Mishkin, first base; Capt. Les Haserot, shortstop; Mike Godett, third base; Marion Hammersly and Jeff Deaver, outfielders; Vic Conde, catcher, and in addition, two promising substitutes, Soule and Roy Talt.

Pomona also loses four diamond stars via the graduation route. And add to this the main fact that the game brings together two ancient rivals, the Sagehens and the Tigers, and one has enough reason to believe that the game will develop into a nip-and-tuck battle for supremacy. Oxy has defeated the Pomonans in two of three major sports this year and the Claremont athletes are out to even the count.

Bud Teachout is slated to hurl for the home team with Conde behind the platter receiving. With such an infield that the Tigers boast, there is little chance for a Sagehen victory, but that's only on paper, and the dope has many times been upset.

The Bruins and Engineers should have a tough and close struggle also. Both teams boast a bit of heavy batting strength and some clever and fast diamond athletes. San Diego and La Verne hook up in the last of the day's battles.

MRS. LIFUR IS GOLF VICTOR

into two screaming wood shots, was home in 3 and ran down a ten-foot putt for her second birdie to win the 180-yard fourteenth. Mrs. Pressler came within inches of squaring the match on the short sixteenth.

First off the tee, Mrs. Pressler carried to the upper edge of the green. Mrs. Lifur's high pitch carried over the green into a trap. Both were over with their approaches, Mrs. Pressler rolling to the lower side of the green. Mrs. Lifur was short with an approach putt after Mrs. Pressler laid her long putt on the lip of the cup. Mrs. Lifur's ball caroomed off her opponent's ball and dropped for a 4, giving her a halve. Both were on in two going to seventeen, but a half-stymie that Mrs. Pressler was unable to solve, lost the hole and the match, 2 and 1.

Mrs. Jones, women's State champion, will meet Mrs. Lifur for the southern crown, this morning. The State titlist is the best player of the two, but the odds will slightly favor the defending champ. Mrs. Jones has been favored with the easiest draw in the championship test, while Mrs. Lifur, starting with a fine victory over Miss Kathleen Wright, is keyed up and ready to play the best game of her career this morning.

Mrs. Lifur is the one player in the tournament who will not be over-golfed after three strenuous early-round matches. Mrs. Jones was slightly off form yesterday, but is perfectly qualified to stage the rally that will enable her to remain in front of a conscientiously persistent golfer.

Semifinal results yesterday were as follows:

Championship:

Mrs. Grace Lifur defeated Mrs. Harry Pressler, 2 and 1.

Mrs. Dan Jones defeated Miss Anne Webster, 4 and 2.

SECOND FLIGHT

Mrs. Harry Yoorhees defeated Mrs. C. W. Fellows, 4 and 3.

Mrs. J. C. Owens defeated Mrs. Ike Wentworth, 3 and 4.

THIRD FLIGHT

Mrs. George Herald defeated Mrs. E. R. Eyke, 3 and 2.

Mrs. H. F. Collins defeated Mrs. Hector Turnbull, 2 and 1.

FOURTH FLIGHT (Finals)

Mrs. D. E. Hardy defeated Mrs. R. Knapp, 2 and 1.

"OIL" HAMILTON HURLS VICTORY

Krugs Get to Phil Weinert for Two in Fourth

Bill Rodda, who filled in at third base in place of Jones for the Bells yesterday, giving the Home Guards an unearned counter.

We don't know whether there is any significance, but it does look mighty funny that the Bells got out of their winning ways as soon as their manager, Harry Hooper, who was ill for a couple of days up north, rejoins them. Hooper got into town yesterday morning and was out on the sidelines trying to get his athletes enthused with the idea that they could knock Hamilton's slants every now and then, but somehow or other, his plan didn't seem to work.

Hamilton held the Bells to five hits, but the Angels didn't get any more, being limited to an even half-dozen by Weinert and Eckert. And at that, a couple of the Seraph lingies were right on the verge of being errors, depending upon the state of mind under which the official scorer labored.

NEW UMPIRES

There were new umpires on the scene, "Choey" Becker and Ed Goes handling the situation to the satisfaction of all except several of the Mission players. "Mal-de-mer" Eason and Fred Westervelt, who were brought down here only to testify in the Brazill case before Mike Sexton Tuesday, were ordered to finish the week in Sacramento, much to the relief of all local parties concerned.

One of the features of the afternoon was "Truck" Hannah's brilliant attempt to score from third base on a sacrifice fly to Wes Griffin in the third inning. Hannah had singled to start the round and went to third and Hamilton to second when Rodda tossed "Oil's" grounder elsewhere than into the first base guardian's mitts. Cox then rapped a fly to Griffin in fairly deep right. Hannah was away from third like Mercury in chains as soon as Griffin caught the ball and he was still on his way to the plate when Rod Whitney caught Wes's rapid throw-in to the plate. It wasn't even close, but it was unique.

Gordon Slade, who cavorts around short for the Missions and is expected to bring quite a chunk of dough into the McCarthy coffers when he is sold to the majors, provided the fielding features of the day. Slade came up with a couple of star plays, robbing Cox and Staley of base hits.

Ray Jacobs started the Angels off on their two-run rally in the fourth when he punched a single to left. Hood was hit by a pitched ball. Jake then swiped third, but Hood held first. Art Jahn allowed the count to reach three and two before he pummeled one to right center for two bases, Jacobs scoring. Hood came in on Hemingway's sacrifice fly to Rose.

BELLS RING UP RUN

Hamilton had his only troubled moments in the seventh, which Finn opened by driving a double to left. Hamilton got a couple of slow strikes over on Griffin, but Wes then doubled down the left-field line, bringing Finn home. Rose sacrificed, but McDaniel's best was a short fly to Jahn that did not give Griffin a chance to score, while Slade rolled out to Staley.

Jacobs singled off Eckert to open the Angel eighth. Hood bunted and Rodda picked up the ball and bounced it out in the general direction of right field. Jacobs scored and Hood went to third on the wild heave. Hood stayed right on third while Eckert retired Jahn, Hemingway and Mitchell on easy chances.

Griffin singled to center with two out in the Mission ninth, but Staley threw out Rose to peacefully end the struggle. Score:

HEAVYWEIGHTS CLASH TONIGHT

in the production of outdoor shows. In the spring of 1925, a downpour temporarily washed out Paul Berlenbach's assault on the light heavyweight title then held by Mike McTigue. Gene Tunney's quest of the heavyweight honors narrowly escaped the same hazard at Philadelphia last September, although rain on that occasion held off until the marine and Jack Dempsey had entered the ring.

Postponement of the match, generally disagreeable to the fighters themselves, held out for Rickard the prospect of an even larger gate than he had expected. With another day added for advance seat sale, already at the $175,000 mark, Rickard anticipated that the total receipts would exceed his original estimate of $300,000. Of that amount the fighters will share approximately $150,000.

The delay is hardest upon the physical conditions of Maloney and Sharkey, primed to peak trim for the crucial battle of their careers. Sharkey was caught in the midst of a "drying out" session, designed to pull his weight down from 192 to 188 pounds and increase his speed, while leaving him on fighting edge.

TAYLOR HERE TOMORROW

Terre Haute Bantam to Box Suggs at Olympic; Shade in Shape for Colima Go Tuesday

Bud Taylor, who boxes Chick Suggs at the Olympic May 31, will arrive in Los Angeles tomorrow accompanied by his manager, Eddie Long. The Terre Haute bantam, recognized in most States as the champion of the division, will make but one fight this trip since he is scheduled for an open-air show in Chicago the middle of June.

Next Tuesday night Dave Shade and Bert Colima hold down the spotlight at Doyle's and the match looks like it would pack the arena comfortably judging from the interest in the battle.

Bud Taylor

The angle back of this bout is that Colima defeated Shade in the four-round days and Bert will step into the ring confident of defeating the man who rates next to Mickey Walker and Tiger Flowers in New York.

Shade is showing his old weaving style in the gymnasium, but he is hitting harder than he did three years ago. Dave claims he can hit from any angle with the same steam. The punch with which he knocked out Jimmy Slattery came from the floor.

Colima has selected a crew of sparring partners who try to use the Shade style. Joe King Leopold, former four-round boxer and who was quite a bobber, heads the Mexican's list.

Shade weighed 158 yesterday after his workout and Colima tipped 157. The weight for the match is 158, but both are light middleweights. A win for Colima would make a complete upset in the 160-pound ranks and there is plenty of money being bet on the Mexican.

Ernie Owens is making a great showing in the gymnasium and he is being picked to whip the tough Benny Hill, who is doing his training at Soper's ranch with Jack Dempsey. Hill and Owens meet in the semifinal.

LACROSSE IS FASTEST

Lacrosse is one of the fastest games played on foot, being speedier than football and demanding more concentrative action. Two or three years of practice are necessary before the player masters the game.

BANTIES MAY BATTLE HERE

be here Saturday to prepare for a battle with Chick Suggs at the Olympic the 31st inst., and he may be talked into a match with Fernandez without any trouble.

If Fernandez is anywhere near as good as the Manila experts seem to think he is, a battle with Taylor would be a knockout here.

At any rate the idea is offered for promotional consumption. Churchill leaves Saturday for Vancouver, where Tod Morgan is to fight Vic Foley the 26th inst. He meets Fernandez and party the following day and if a Taylor match is cooked up in the meantime he will come back with Fernandez. Otherwise he will send the fighter on to Chicago to be cared for by Bill Miller.

Fernandez is coming to the States with Jesus Cortez, his trainer, and the latter's wife and Churchill is freighting the way, although he says he has as yet to sign a contract on the newcomer's services. He expects to attend to this matter in Vancouver.

POMONA SWIMMERS READY FOR OPENER

POMONA COLLEGE (Claremont) May 19. (Exclusive)—Coach Bob Strehle put his varsity swimmers through final splashing last night and has them all in shape for the annual Southern Conference swimming meet at the University of California at Los Angeles, tomorrow night. Strehle is entering five men, Capt. Emil Morhardt, Link Hall, Whit Henry, Harold Backstrand and Byron Farwell. It's more than can be expected to hope that they will win the championship, but they may pick up a few points here and there.

HEAVY HITTERS TOP BOUT CARD

Tommy Favored to Cop Honors from Mexican Rival

Dougherty Will Tackle Hard Boy in Chick Roach

Tommy O'Brien and Young Gonzales, Mexican, fight the main event at the Hollywood American Legion stadium tonight. O'Brien is expected to be favorite to win by a knockout.

TOMMY O'BRIEN.

O'Brien is carrying the Irish colors into the ring tonight against Young Gonzales, the Mexican ace. The bout will have the appearance of a grudge fight, but it is expected to be a clean affair.

Ten rounds are going to be at least 400 degrees to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer organization now being held in the city of the fights. The boys are actual in this city and they represent the sales forces of the famous picture corporation.

Manager Tom Gallery has arranged a fine card for tonight. The fights are interesting on paper and there should be plenty of action.

Jackie Cooper couldn't get in shape, so a pair on the card is being taken by Chick Roach. John Patrick, a great middleweight prospect, battles Roach and Doughboy is the favorite. John Patrick is a neat-looking prospect and as Roach is an old-timer the outlook is that John will outpoint Roach.

There are three other fights on the card that look good. The best is the semi-final preliminary. Bobby La Salle is matched to box Joe Bell. This is the fight that Bell has been looking for at Hollywood, but he is a good prospect. La Salle is the favorite.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By Paul Lowry

WE SEEM to be in for a siege of marathon races of one kind and another. No sooner had "Cash and Carry" Pyle announced his transcontinental running derby from Los Angeles to New York than a flock of other promoters leaped to the fore. "Dynamo" Levett proposes a solo race from Los Angeles to Gotham. Alameda is going to stage a swim around its island. Santa Cruz is to have a three-and-one-half-mile paddling excursion Sunday. The Redwood Highway Association has a 480-mile foot race up its sleeve for Indians exclusively this summer. You can't tell what's next, but maybe Dan'l O'Leary will create a little excitement on his own hook by walking across the continent on his hands.

The only kick I have about the whole business is that Brother Pyle departed without giving any aid and comfort as to entry rules and regulations for his derby. What to do with the letters and queries that roll in anent the matter is perplexing, to say the least. The "Galloping Swead" has written from Spokane to say he is interested, and the "Tacoma Flyer" wants to know where he "can get communication in regards to the race." And so on ad infinitum.

Frank Churchill's idea about a bantamweight tourney in Los Angeles in which Taylor, Canzoneri, Graham and the new Filipino sensation, Ignacio Fernandez, would be the contenders, is not bad at all. Instead of a trio of 118-pound champions, depending on your point of residence, we might finally decide on one as the supreme ruler of the roost, and with the heavyweights drawing all the thunder in New York, a banty get-together here might turn into quite a success.

Edwin Wide is going to live the life of a real collegian during his stay in the Southland by staying at the Sigma Chi house at U.S.C. and while this may not improve his standing with rival fraternities it will afford him a chance to be right next door to Bovard Field, where he is doing his training. The Swedish star is going at his work in a very systematic manner and is out on the track both morning and afternoon. By way of diversion he will give the natives at Santa Ana a treat by appearing at the track meet tomorrow. However, it will be only as a civilian, his appearance in running panties being confined to the meet at the Coliseum Saturday week.

Harry Williams is passing up the biggest chance of his life to burst out as a limelighter. By canning every one of the eight umpires who signed the famous round-robin letter to Judge Landis he could immortalize himself. Nothing like it has ever been done before. The record probably would stand for all time. And Harry has every justification for such an act. Other men in his capacity as Pacific Coast League president would do it. But Harry won't. Why? Because he is a sweet, mild-mannered gentleman who believes in the gospel of the second chance.

MRS. BOHLEN WINS TITLE

OAKLAND, May 19. (AP)—Mrs. Philena Bohlen of Los Angeles yesterday won the Pacific Coast women's singles bowling championship. Mrs. Bohlen rolled 600 in three games, setting a new Pacific Coast record. The former record was held by Mrs. J. Stecher of San Diego, with a mark of 540.

TILDEN WILL BATTLE COCHET

Rivals to Clash for First Rung in Top Bracket

PARIS, May 19. (AP)—Only one of France's three tennis musketeers—Henri Cochet—stands between William T. Tilden, American tennis star, and the final of the international hard-court championships, beginning at St. Cloud on Tuesday.

Cochet, incidentally was the man who eliminated Big Bill at Forest Hills last year in the American singles championship which Rene La Coste, who heads the second half of the seeded draw for the hard-court championship, captured.

La Coste and Jean Borotra, the other two members of France's big tennis trio, must fight it out between themselves in the lower half of the draw in order to meet America's foremost player. Francis T. Hunter, the American star who is accompanying Tilden on their present European invasion, also was seeded in the lower half of the draw.

La Coste's path to the final appears more arduous than Tilden's. Beside Borotra competing in the lower half of the draw are Pierre Landry and Jacques Brugnon, both ranking immediately after France's big three. J. C. Van Leenep of Holland, Henrich Kleinschroth of Germany and Eduardo Flaquer of Spain are others who will fight it out for the honor of meeting La Coste in the semifinals, where there is little doubt he will reach.

Outside of Cochet, Tilden's opposition is expected to come from Baron Von Kehrling of Hungary, Otto Froitzem of Germany, O. G. N. Tufnbull of England and Charles F. Aeschlimann of Switzerland.

The draw was seeded as follows:

Upper half: Tilden, Cochet, Baron Von Kehrling, Aeschlimann and Turnbull; lower half: La Coste, Borotra, Hunter, Landry and Brugnon. Sydney B. Wood and James Van Alen are other American entries, while Watson Washburn of New York will play only in the doubles.

Count Ludwig Salm Hoogstraeten, the former husband of Millicent Rogers, is scheduled to meet Nicolas Mishu of Rumania in the first round. French tennis fans, who always get a great deal of fun when these players appear, are looking forward to their match eagerly.

Seals Wallop Shellenback; Collect, 7-5

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19. (AP)—The Seals defeated Hollywood, 7 to 5 today. Suhr and O'Doul getting home runs, and the team chalking up eight hits off Shellenback in seven innings. The Stars' defeat was chalked up to Hulvey, who allowed two more tallies in the eighth after relieving Shellenback. Mulcahy took over Hulvey's job with two out, and retired the Seals.

Kunz, pitching for the Seals, allowed ten scattered hits, one of them a home run by McDowell. The Stars scored twice to the Seals once in the first inning, but the Seals kept up an unrelenting attack, climaxing the drive with four hits and two tallies in the sixth, and one hit and two tallies in the eighth. RICKARD'S ARENA IS MONEY MAKER

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—The new Madison Square Garden made a profit of $784,689 in its first year through such things as six-day bicycle races, boxing bouts, track meets, horse shows and the circus, Tex Rickard announces in his annual report to stockholders of the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

OBSERVATIONS

By the Innocent Bystander, Bill Henry

IF THE Trojan sprinters could knock pretty nearly two seconds off the existing world's record for the half-mile relay, we can see no particular reason why they shouldn't do considerable damage to the quarter-mile mark as well. Also, it will be worth a visit to Santa Ana to see Messrs. Wyckoff and Borah engage in a sprinting contest in the open 100. While we are perhaps prejudiced by the fact that we've never seen the boy from Glendale do his stuff, nevertheless and notwithstanding all the things that have been said about him our vote goes to Bro. Borah to trim him when they meet. Borah may not be the world's greatest sprinter in active competition at the present time, but until we see somebody trim him, we'll string right along with him.

Having been one of the parties who upbraided Hank Coggeshall on the ground that he is the world's most unreliable athlete, we now demonstrate our nobility of character by taking it all back—or thereabouts. We have just been presented with an array of facts and figures on the subject compiled by one Neal L. Miller, which tend to prove that Coggy is quite consistent at 6ft. 1in. on regular standards and at 6ft. 3in. when performing on the trick standards at Bovard Field. We aren't quite sure whether this proves that we were right or wrong, perhaps a little of both, but in any event, the figures are very interesting.

Look these over and dope it out for yourself, they are Coggy's performances for the 1927 season to date:

S. C. vs. Hollywood, 6.5½, first.
Relay Carnival, 5.10, unplaced.
S. C. vs. Hollywood, 5.11, first.
S. C. vs. Olympic, 6.1, first.
S. C. vs. California, 6.1, first—tie.
Interclass meet, 6.3, first.
S.P.A.A.U. meet, 6.6, first.
S.C. vs. Stanford, 6.3, second.
Fresno Relays, 6.23, first.
S. C. vs. L.A.A.C., 6.175, first—tie.

If the old boy had never jumped 6ft. 3in. we'd say that he was old man consistency himself. Maybe he is anyhow. He certainly has a fine record in any event.

Charley Ray, in making a fight picture at Universal called "Betty's a Lady" has a lot of expert assistance Phil Salvadore, the one-time unbeatable kid, heads a stable including Teddy Silva, Jackie Sherman and Young George, while such old-time demons as Kid Broad, Jack Clark and Nat Slott, of the amateur ranks, are assisting in the technical supervision or acting as trainers. Incidentally Jimmy Gleason, of "Is Zat So" fame, is also in the cast as a wise-cracking fight manager, needless to say. They certainly have plenty of experienced help, anyhow.

BENEFIT MATCH AT HOLLYWOOD

One of the outstanding features on the Mississippi flood benefit program will be the amateur-professional golf match, staged at the Hollywood Country Club course Monday, the 30th inst., Decoration Day. George Von Elm, national champion and Dr. Paul M. Hunter, undefeated West Coast amateurs, will meet Ed Dudley, club pro and Willie Hunter, California open champion, thirty-six holes, in what should be a great competition. Dudley warmed up with a 68 over his home course yesterday, making a final tour before the annual club invitational opens with a two-ball mixed foursome tourney Sunday.

SAGECHICKS HAVE NEW HURLER FOR OXY TILT

POMONA COLLEGE (Claremont) May 19. (Exclusive)—On the eve of the annual "little big game" with Occidental, the Pomona frosh baseball team has been strengthened by the addition of a new pitcher and had its hopes of victory considerably elevated here yesterday. The frosh played the strong Chaffee High School nine and won, 5 to 2, with Frank Dyer on the mound. Dyer has been stationed at third base all season, but got his chance in the box today. He hurled shut-out ball for five innings and then went back to his position at third. He may be used as a relief pitcher against the Tiger babes.

MOORE ENTERS CAR IN BANNING RACES

Lou Moore, western dirt-track champion, who withdrew from the Banning Memorial Day races several days ago, notified the Legion officials who are staging the races, that he would reconsider and defend his title.

Moore leads other drivers with a total of 705 points and all he has to do is finish first, second or third, the 30th inst., to win the Lefty Flynn trophy. With Moore out of the race six other drivers have an equal chance of winning the championship. For that reason there has been a lot of talk about the drivers combining to keep Moore in the rear.

RUSSEL VIS SIGNED TO MEET HENDERSON ON MAT PROGRAM

"Carnation" Lou Daro completed his card for the wrestling show at the Olympic Wednesday night, when he signed Russell Viz, claimant to Matty Matsuda's world's welterweight title, to meet Tommy Henderson in a special event.

This bout will precede two of the best grudge battles of the year, one between Paul Jones and Nick Lutze, who are trying to decide which of them is entitled to meet Joe Stecher for the world's heavyweight title, and the other between George Kotsonaros, the famous Montana cattleman, and Renato Gardini, the champion in the land of longitudinal food. Paul Sickner will be the third man in the ring.

Henderson is the "unknown" Matsuda was to have met last week, but Vis, who is the former amateur welterweight king, substituted for him when he did not appear. Matty refused to tackle Vis, who came in as a welterweight, and the Nipponese forfeited the match.

The other two bouts on the card will furnish the fans with a pair of the best grudge bouts they have ever seen. Paul Jones, the rough-riding cowboy from Texas, and Nick Lutze, a mat Adonis, will meet in a return go for a chance at Joe Stecher's title. They are so evenly matched that when Lutze claimed Jones gained his victory through an accident when each had a fall to his credit, Daro decided to let them go to it again before selecting the champion's opponent.

Renato Gardini, the proud papa of twins and the champion wrestler of all the Italians, and George Kotsonaros, the Hollywood Greek, will tangle as only these two know how. Their battle last year, which Gardini won, was a rip-snorter, and this one is expected to be rougher and tougher.

TO BAN ROUGH DRIVERS

Ascot Promoters Plan to Punish Dirt Track Men Who Make Racing Dangerous

Rough driving, such as has been witnessed at Ascot Speedway in recent contests, will be punished by permanent banishment from the track, according to an edict given the pilots last night by Promoters Newton and Marow, who have taken over the Alhambra avenue oval and will operate races once each month hereafter.

"Serious and fatal accidents have occurred recently," the promoters told the drivers last night, "and while we are making no accusations, we want it distinctly understood that there is danger enough in the game without adding to it by careless or deliberate, rough driving. In order to stop the practice at once we are issuing orders to the starter to flag down any pilot who is not observing the rules and permanently bar him from further competition at Ascot."

Several charges of rough driving have been made in the last month or two and several fist fights among the pilots have resulted from the charges and it is to stop this condition that drastic rules for driving have been adopted by the new management.

Newton and Marow take the position that hard driving and hot competition will cause a continuance of the popularity that dirt-track racing has enjoyed this season, but that rough driving will drive fans away from the track. To retain the support of the fans they will bend every effort to keep the pilots from weaving about the track and endangering the lives of the other men in the race.

Six events will feature Sunday's races with practically all of the speed stars of the West entered. Qualifying trials will begin at 10 o'clock Sunday morning and the racing program is to be started at 2:30 in the afternoon.

POMONA STARTS GRID WORK

Nixon Begins Late Spring Football Practice With Light Workouts Next Week

POMONA COLLEGE (Claremont) May 19. (Exclusive)—Contrary to a report given out earlier in the year, spring football practice will take place at Pomona, starting next week, according to Coach Eugene W. Nixon, local grid mentor.

Nixon will administer a weakened solution of the sport, merely running over the fundamentals and everybody will be dressed in track suits. Nixon originally stated that because of lack of interest and other duties, he intended to waive the annual custom, but couldn't resist the temptation to do something along the line of spring football, so this mock warfare will ensue.

Despite the loss of some of the bulky personages who helped so much toward placing the Blue right up with the best elevens last year, it isn't so unlikely that Pomona will have a strong football team in the fall. True, there isn't any glittering galaxy of stars ready to don moleskins and ruin everything in sight, but there are a few boys who have had some experience and like the rough going and that's all a canny mentor like Nixon needs.

BORAH TO MEET PREP SPRINTER

as the watches of high school timers say he is, then he can push Borah to the utmost. If he is the 9.8 sprinter that more efficient timers claim him to be—and that itself is sensational time for a high school youth—then he'll give Borah a good race, and may nose out Capt. Ed House of the Trojans, who also is slated to perform in the Santa Ana event.

Cromwell announced himself heartily pleased over the unexpected match. "It will be the first time this season Charley has had real competition," he proclaimed piquantly enough. Murray Schultz was expected to give Borah some argument last week, but failed to produce. Paddock has been unable to get in top shape to run the Trojan flash, and the Stanford and California dash men were only ordinary.

Cromwell himself has clocked Wykoff in 9.7s., and is confident of the Dynamiter's ability to run. On that occasion, the Glendale athletes met the U.S.C. freshmen on Bovard Field, Wykoff winning both sprints without trouble. On the same day, the Glendale relay team—four-man 440 quartet—met the U.S.C. varsity squad, composed of Borah, House, Smith and Parsons, and the Trojans were all out to win. They ran a little bit more than 440 yards, however, being on an outside lane, while the Dynamiters had the pole. In the course of the event, Wykoff showed his heels to House. Both ran the first 100 yards. Wykoff was away to an exceptionally good start, and maintained a slight lead over House. Herschel Smith made it up against Mainland, and gave Parsons a slight lead over Zahn. Johnny put Borah away in front of Slocum, but the Trojan had to keep stepping to stay ahead of the flying Dynamiter.

The event promises to be of as much interest as the long-awaited Paddock-Borah duel, which never materialized. The Santa Ana carnival thus may draw down the honor of presenting the feature track event of the entire local season, for Borah may set the new record of 9.4s. in this race. Santa Ana's track is exceptionally fast—fully as good if not a bit better than the Coliseum—and the Trojan runner, if he does not set a new mark, will come very close to it.

Borah and Wykoff will not be the only sprinters in the race. They will be accompanied by Capt. Ed House of the Trojans; Russ Slocum, Wykoff's team-mate; Weldon Draper, unattached Trojan star; Bert Darling, undefeated U.S.C. frosh runner; Al Clayes, well-known local sprinter; Hugh Pitney of the L.A.A.C., Murray Schultz of Caltech, and Karpelis and Sunderland of the H.A.C. may also be among the entries.

PREP NETTERS IN TOURNEY

Southern California Tennis Stars Clash Over Fullerton Nets Tomorrow Morning

Southern California prep racket wielders will gather at Fullerton tomorrow morning for the opening of the annual Southland High School tennis championships which will be staged on the courts of the Fullerton Union High School. The tournament will be played completely through first and final rounds and preliminary matches will be started at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning in order that the tournament may be finished in one day.

There are four events on the 1927 program, boys' and girls' singles and doubles. The entry lists in either of these events are unusually small, since the requirements of qualifying for the competition are fairly strict, the contestant being required to be the winner of his league, or, in other words, champion of his section, in order that he compete. In most cases, this requirement necessitates a playoff between several school teams and players in order to settle the dispute of who is the better singles player, or to find the most formidable doubles team. One entrant in singles from any Southland prep institution and two doubles teams at the most is the ruling of the tournament officials.

TOILERS TACKLE LINCOLN

Hollywood Takes on Tough Franklin Nine on Home Lot; Poly Plays at Jefferson

Featured by the Manual Arts-Lincoln game, the City League prep ball teams will play three games this afternoon in the fourth round of play.

The Toilers have been improving at such a rate that they are figured to give Coach Frank Mallette's nine a fair battle. The Railsplitters will be favored since they have the better record.

Coach Vic Kelley's Foothillers will attempt to recover the prestige they lost last week when Jefferson won a 4-to-2 game. Franklin also dropped a game to Manual Arts which was something of a surprise.

Jefferson will be slightly favored to trounce Polytechnic. Chino Mitre has been hurling a good brand of ball for the Democrats and will probably work part of the game.

WIDE TO SEEK TWO-MILE [illegible] WITH NURMI AFTER RAC[illegible]

To say that Edvin Wide, the Swedish running marvel, is ambitious is putting it mildly. The Swedish schoolmaster, who will attempt to shatter the world's record for a mile at the Coliseum on the 28th inst., will be far from satisfied with that great athletic accomplishment in itself. Wide, according to Gosto Sandemar, who accompanied him to Los Angeles as a trainer and interpreter, if successful at breaking the mile record, will next attempt to get Paavo Nurmi, the "Phantom Finn," into a two-mile match race for the purpose of breaking that record, which is considered the greatest of all Nurmi's performances.

EDWIN WIDE.

Wide believes that either he or Nurmi can take four seconds off the record, which now stands at 8m. 58s. The Swedish running master believes that he can run the distance under the record if Nurmi will race him. This would be by far the greatest running record ever made, Wide declares.

Wide worked out again yesterday at Bovard Field and will continue to work on that track until the day of the meet at the Coliseum. The Swedish runner is a little overweight, according to Sandemar, at the present time. He [illegible] five pounds [illegible] day of the meet.

Besides being one of the most gifted actresses of the screen, Norma Shearer is a renowned swimmer and tennis player. But her most popular "role" in the film colony is that of hostess, because of her exquisite taste in choosing foods and beverages. The picture below shows Miss Shearer in her Hollywood home.

Norma Shearer's Choice

a priceless tribute which points unerringly to the finest ginger ale in all the world

THIS brilliant young star stands in the spotlight of world publicity. Her next picture . . . how she lives . . . where she goes . . . what she wears, eats, drinks—to millions these are themes of interest.

What a striking tribute, then, when Norma Shearer and a score of other famous screen players say: "This is our favorite ginger ale. Drink it, we urge you, for we are sure you'll like it, too."

Quality alone brings this remarkable endorsement

In Filmland Hollywood Dry has broken down barriers of tradition. Changed the ginger ale "habits" of the stars. Its purity, its exquisite flavor, its inimitable blend of finest Jamaica ginger, instantly won them from former favorites.

Surely, only the world's finest could thus gain the co-operation of the $30,000,000 Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios and their world-famous stars.

An approval so sweeping that every bottle of Hollywood Dry bears the picture of one of these distinguished players:

Renee Adoree	Antonio Moreno
Roy D'Arcy	Carmel Myers
Geo. K. Arthur	Conrad Nagel
Eleanor Boardman	Tom O'Brien
Mae Busch	Sally O'Neil
Joan Crawford	Gertrude Olmsted
Lew Cody	Aileen Pringle
Karl Dane	Bert Roach
Greta Garbo	Norma Shearer
John Gilbert	Pauline Starke
William Haines	Claire Windsor

Perhaps "habit" is keeping you from enjoying "the drink of the stars." We suggest that, next time, instead of the ginger ale habit suggests, you ask for Hollywood Dry. Thereafter you, as millions do, will let the familiar, friendly face of a great screen personality guide you to the best ginger ale.

The foods and beverages of modern life, with its social and business functions, often induce mild attacks of toxicosis. BENEFIT MATCH AT HOLLYWOOD

One of the outstanding features on the Mississippi flood benefit program will be the amateur-professional golf match, staged at the Hollywood Country Club course Monday, the 30th inst., Decoration Day. George Von Elm, national champion and Dr. Paul M. Hunter, undefeated West Coast amateurs, will meet Ed Dudley, club pro and Willie Hunter, California open champion, thirty-six holes, in what should be a great competition. Dudley warmed up with a 68 over his home course yesterday, making a final tour before the annual club invitational opens with a two-ball mixed foursome tourney Sunday.

SAGECHICKS HAVE NEW HURLER FOR OXY TILT

POMONA COLLEGE (Claremont) May 19. (Exclusive)—On the eve of the annual "little big game" with Occidental, the Pomona frosh baseball team has been strengthened by the addition of a new pitcher and had its hopes of victory considerably elevated here yesterday. The frosh played the strong Chaffee High School nine and won, 5 to 2, with Frank Dyer on the mound. Dyer has been stationed at third base all season, but got his chance in the box today. He hurled shut-out ball for five innings and then went back to his position at third. He may be used as a relief pitcher against the Tiger babes.

MOORE ENTERS CAR IN BANNING RACES

Lou Moore, western dirt-track champion, who withdrew from the Banning Memorial Day races several days ago, notified the Legion officials who are staging the races, that he would reconsider and defend his title.

Moore leads other drivers with a total of 705 points and all he has to do is finish first, second or third, the 30th inst. to win the Lefty Flynn trophy. With Moore out of the race six other drivers have an equal chance of winning the championship. For that reason there has been a lot of talk about the drivers combining to keep Moore in the rear.

RUSSEL VIS SIGNED TO MEET HENDERSON ON MAT PROGRAM

"Carnation" Lou Daro completed his card for the wrestling show at the Olympic Wednesday night, when he signed Russell Viz, claimant to Matty Matsuda's world's welterweight title, to meet Tommy Henderson in a special event.

This bout will precede two of the best grudge battles of the year, one between Paul Jones and Nick Lutze, who are trying to decide which of them is entitled to meet Joe Stecher for the world's heavyweight title, and the other between George Kotsonaros, the famous Montana cattleman, and Renato Gardini, the champion in the land of longitudinal food. Paul Sickner will be the third man in the ring.

Henderson is the "unknown" Matsuda was to have met last week, but Vis, who is the former amateur welterweight king, substituted for him when he did not appear. Matty refused to tackle Vis, who came in as a welterweight, and the Nipponese forfeited the match.

The other two bouts on the card will furnish the fans with a pair of the best grudge bouts they have ever seen. Paul Jones, the rough-riding cowboy from Texas, and Nick Lutze, a mat Adonis, will meet in a return go for a chance at Joe Stecher's title. They are so evenly matched that when Lutze claimed Jones gained his victory through an accident when each had a fall to his credit, Daro decided to let them go to it again before selecting the champion's opponent.

Renato Gardini, the proud papa of twins and the champion wrestler of all the Italians, and George Kotsonaros, the Hollywood Greek, will tangle as only these two know how. Their battle last year, which Gardini won, was a rip-snorter, and this one is expected to be rougher and tougher.

TO BAN ROUGH DRIVERS

Rough driving, such as has been witnessed at Ascot Speedway in recent contests, will be punished by permanent banishment from the track, according to an edict given the pilots last night by Promoters Newton and Marow, who have taken over the Alhambra-avenue oval and will operate races once each month hereafter.

"Serious and fatal accidents have occurred recently," the promoters told the drivers last night, "and while we are making no accusations, we want it distinctly understood that there is danger enough in the game without adding to it by careless or deliberate, rough driving. In order to stop the practice at once we are issuing orders to the starter to flag down any pilot who is not observing the rules and permanently bar him from further competition at Ascot."

Several charges of rough driving have been made in the last month or two and several fist fights among the pilots have resulted from the charges and it is to stop this condition that drastic rules for driving have been adopted by the new management.

Newton and Marow take the position that hard driving and hot competition will cause a continuance of the popularity that dirt-track racing has enjoyed this season, but that rough driving will drive fans away from the track. To retain the support of the fans they will bend every effort to keep the pilots from weaving about the track and endangering the lives of the other men in the race.

Six events will feature Sunday's races with practically all of the speed stars of the West entered. Qualifying trials will begin at 10 o'clock Sunday morning and the racing program is to be started at 2:30 in the afternoon.

POMONA STARTS GRID WORK

POMONA COLLEGE (Claremont) May 19. (Exclusive)—Contrary to a report given out earlier in the year, spring football practice will take place at Pomona, starting next week, according to Coach Eugene W. Nixon, local grid mentor.

Nixon will administer a weakened solution of the sport, merely running over the fundamentals and everybody will be dressed in track suits. Nixon originally stated that because of lack of interest and other duties, he intended to waive the annual custom, but couldn't resist the temptation to do something along the line of spring football, so this mock warfare will ensue.

Despite the loss of some of the bulky personages who helped so much toward placing the Blue right up with the best elevens last year, it isn't so unlikely that Pomona will have a strong football team in the fall. True, there isn't any glittering galaxy of stars ready to don moleskins and ruin everything in sight, but there are a few boys who have had some experience and like the rough going and that's all a canny mentor like Nixon needs.

as the watches of high school timers say he is, then he can push Borah to the utmost. If he is the 9.8 sprinter that more efficient timers claim him to be—and that itself is sensational time for a high school youth—then he'll give Borah a good race, and may nose out Capt. Ed House of the Trojans, who also is slated to perform in the Santa Ana event.

Cromwell announced himself heartily pleased over the unexpected match. "It will be the first time this season Charley has had a real competition," he proclaimed pleasantly enough. Murray Schultz was expected to give Borah some argument last week, but failed to produce. Paddock has been unable to get in top shape to run the Trojan flash, and the Stanford and California dash men were only ordinary.

Cromwell himself has clocked Wykoff in 9.7s., and is confident of the Dynamiter's ability to run. On that occasion, the Glendale athletes met the U.S.C. freshmen on Bovard Field, Wykoff winning both sprints without trouble. On the same day, the Glendale relay team—four-man 440 quartet—met the U.S.C. varsity squad, composed of Borah, House, Smith and Parsons, and the Trojans were all out to win. They ran a little bit more than 440 yards, however, being on an outside lane, while the Dynamiters had the pole. In the course of the event, Wykoff showed his heels to House. Both ran the first 100 yards. Wykoff was away to an exceptionally good start, and maintained a slight lead over House. Herschel Smith made it up against Mainland, and gave Parsons a slight lead over Zahn. Johnny put Borah away in front of Slocum, but the Trojan had to keep stepping to stay ahead of the flying Dynamiter.

The event promises to be of as much interest as the long-awaited Paddock-Borah duel, which never materialised. The Santa Ana carnival thus may draw down the honor of presenting the feature track event of the entire local season, for Borah may set the new record of 9.4s. in this race. Santa Ana's track is exceptionally fast—fully as good if not a bit better than the Coliseum—and the Trojan runner, if he does not set a new mark, will come very close to it.

Borah and Wykoff will not be the only sprinters in the race. They will be accompanied by Capt. Ed House of the Trojans; Russ Slocum, Wykoff's team-mate; Weldon Draper, unattached Trojan star; Bert Darling, undefeated U.S.C. frosh runner; Al Clayes, well-known local sprinter. Hugh Pinney of the L.A.A.C., Murray Schultz of Caltech, and Karpelis and Sunderland of the H.A.C. may also be among the entries.

PREP NETTERS IN TOURNEY

Southern California Tennis Stars Clash Over Fullerton Nets Tomorrow Morning

Southern California prep racket wielders will gather at Fullerton tomorrow morning for the opening of the annual Southland High School tennis championships which will be staged on the courts of the Fullerton Union High School. The tournament will be played completely through first and final rounds and preliminary matches will be started at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning in order that the tournament may be finished in one day.

There are four events on the 1927 program, boys' and girls' singles and doubles. The entry lists in either of these events are unusually small, since the requirements of qualifying for the competition are fairly strict, the contestant being required to be the winner of his league, or, in other words, champion of his section, in order that he compete. In most cases, this requirement necessitates a playoff between several school teams and players in order to settle the dispute of who is the better singles player, or to find the most formidable doubles team. One entrant in singles from any Southland prep institution and two doubles teams at the most is the ruling of the tournament officials.

TOILERS TACKLE LINCOLN

Hollywood Takes on Tough Franklin Nine on Home Lot; Poly Plays at Jefferson

Featured by the Manual Arts-Lincoln game, the City League prep ball teams will play three games this afternoon in the fourth round of play.

The Toilers have been improving at such a rate that they are figured to give Coach Frank Mallette's nine a fair battle. The Railsplitters will be favored since they have the better record.

Coach Vic Kelley's Foothillers will attempt to recover the prestige they lost last week when Jefferson won a 4-to-2 game. Franklin also dropped a game to Manual Arts which was something of a surprise.

Jefferson will be slightly favored to trounce Polytechnic. Chino Mitre has been hurling a good brand of ball for the Democrats and will probably work part of the game.

WIDE TO SEEK TWO-MILE TI WITH NURMI AFTER RACE

To say that Edvin Wide, the Swedish running marvel, is ambitious is putting it mildly. The Swedish schoolmaster, who will attempt to shatter the world's record for a mile at the Coliseum on the 28th inst., will be far from satisfied with that great athletic accomplishment in itself. Wide, according to Gosto Sandenar, who accompanied him to Los Angeles as a trainer and interpreter, if successful at breaking the mile record, will next attempt to get Paavo Nurmi, the "Phantom Finn," into a two-mile match race for the purpose of breaking that record, which is considered the greatest of all Nurmi's performances.

EDWIN WIDE.

Wide believes that either he or Nurmi can take four seconds off the record, which now stands at 8m. 58s. The Swedish running master believes that he can run the distance under the record if Nurmi will race him. This would be by far the greatest running record ever made, Wide declares.

Local Engineer Paid $3000 in Valuation Hearings

Municipal Ownership Drive Expenses Still Rising

Estimated $50,000 Now is $341,856 and Climbing

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19. (Exclusive)—While drawing a salary of $12,000 a year as chief electrical engineer of the Los Angeles Municipal Bureau of Power and Light, Ezra F. Scattergood worked as a consulting engineer on the valuation now in progress of the San Francisco electrical properties of the Pacific Light and Power Company and the Great Western Power Company, it was disclosed here today by an examination of the records of the County Auditor.

Scattergood has been paid $3000 for his services here as consulting engineer and it is expected will be paid $2000 more when he testifies at the valuation hearings.

These hearings are the first step in the drive here of the public-ownership advocates to condemn these electric properties and to pay for their purchase by a bond issue, which the people of San Francisco will be asked to authorize as soon as the valuation is fixed by the Railroad Commission.

FIRST GUESSES WRONG

This valuation is of exactly the same kind as is being asked for by Chief Electrical Engineer Scattergood's Municipal Power Bureau in Los Angeles at the June 7 election in that city. Just as it has been declared that the Los Angeles valuation will cost only $50,000, the same estimate was made here three and one-half years ago, the valuation has cost to date $341,856, has taken three and one-half years' time instead of the six months first estimated and will probably cost $400,000 before the valuation is completed.

Chief Electrical Engineer Scattergood was one of the experts called in to examine the properties of the two companies. He made several trips to San Francisco to examine the properties and while working here it is assumed that his $12,000-a-year Los Angeles salary continued.

The County Auditor's records show that on February 4, 1925, Scattergood was paid $1000 by Demand No. 3217, another $1000 was paid on April 28, by Demand No. 4160, and the third $100 paid on June 13 by Demand No. 4722.

BEGUN IN 1923

The payments to Scattergood were part of the engineers' fee in estimating the value of the property and went in to make up the bill that is piling up against the taxpayers and rate payers of the two local companies.

The San Francisco valuation proceedings were under discussion before the Board of Supervisors of San Francisco during the greater part of the year 1923, although proceedings were not ordered officially until December 24, 1923, and were not formally filed with the Railroad Commission until February 11, 1924.

The probable cost was frequently debated. No estimate exceeded $100,000. Some estimates were as low as $50,000. A "Citizens' Committee" headed by former United States Senator James D. Phelan, as chairman, and with Henry Boyen, now attorney for the Public Administrator, as secretary, made the positive statement that the expense would not exceed $100,000. The estimate of the "Citizens' Committee" was given at a meeting of the Public Utilities Committee of the Board of Supervisors on January 14, 1924.

ADMITS COSTLINESS

At a meeting of the Board of Supervisors on August 18, 1924, Assistant City Attorney John J. Daily, who had by that time been put in charge of the condemnation proceedings, said:

"I believe the Railroad Commission's expense will amount to $100,000. I don't think you will get off any cheaper than that. I do not want you to feel that this is not going to cost money because it is going to cost money."

By the end of 1925 the costs were beginning to trouble the Board of Supervisors and the Railroad Commission was asked to state in writing how much more the city would have to put up. The commission reported under date of January 2, 1925, that approximately 55 per cent of the work of appraisement had then been completed. It was estimated that it would "require approximately six and one-half months" to finish the job. The commission stated that its work had cost up to December 31, 1924, approximately $69,600. It then added: "It is the present estimate that to complete the inventory and appraisal will cost an additional $60,000 or a total cost of approximately $130,000."

Instead of the commission's cost being $130,000 the books of the Auditor of San Francisco now show the commission has received in excess of $200,000. The exact figure as of April 30, last, is $236,529.

But that is not all. The total expense of the valuation to April 30, according to the auditor's accounts, is $341,856.38. The balance over the amount paid to the Railroad Commission went for attorneys, engineers and other experts employed by the city, including E. F. Scattergood's $3000.

No one connected with the city is prepared to state when the costs will cease piling up but around the City Hall it is generally understood that the proceedings will not be completed before the city has expended $400,000 or more. This, of course, does not include or have any reference to the money expended by the companies themselves, which may ultimately be charged against the city if the taxpayers vote not to buy the properties of the private companies. The companies' costs may exceed the city's $400,000 and in the end the city may be faced with bills reaching almost $1,000,000.

Woman Pilot Claims Record for Altitude

HAMBLE (Eng.) May 19. (AP)—Mrs. Elliott Lynn, Great Britain's first woman air pilot, accompanied by Lady Bailey as a passenger, today claimed a world's record for a light plane by reaching an altitude of 16,000 feet, or a little over three miles.

Mrs. Lynn, who only arrived here today, for the flight, was in the air two hours, thirty-three minutes and thirty-five seconds.

MORE WOMEN AMONG RICH

[Copyright, 1927, by Chicago Tribune]

PARIS, May 19. (Exclusive)—Woman is the child of wealth and idleness. This is the conclusion of sociologists after a glance at the new census report which shows that Paris, with a population of almost 3,000,000, has 300,000 more women than men and most of these are in the fashionable districts where the wealthy lead a gilded existence.

In the old aristocratic neighborhoods around the Invalides, the smart Passy quarter and in the Avenue De Wagram district there are almost 200,000 more women fashionables than men. The feminine surplus, in fact, averages 20 per cent in the Paris west end, while down in the eastern quarters, where the plain folk litter the narrower and darker streets and live mostly on bread, the feminine surplus is only one-sixteenth of the neighborhood population. In some workingmen's suburbs, the men hold their own, the census reports.

That this overstocking of women is the direct result of the World War everybody admits, but the peculiar concentration in the parts of town where life is easy is attributed to what is declared to be a biological fact that girl babies are the products of organisms whose cellular structure is softened and enlarged by good food, lots of leisure and exotic pleasures, while boys are likely to spring from organisms whose cellular structure is hardened by the struggle for existence. A male who works hard and is underfed and comes home at night dog tired is ironically credited with a far better chance to be the father of a male child than a wealthy uptown papa.

Appointments Made by Chief of Native Sons

Thomas, San Jose, board of appeals; J. M. Waterman, San Jose, transportation and mileage committee; Thomas Monohan, San Jose, ritual; Fred Campen, Mountain View, home industry; E. A. Hettinger, Palo Alto, State board of relief; C. E. Newton, Santa Clara, deputy grand president; Raymond Tinney of Palo Alto, deputy grand president; Charles A. Hunt, San Jose, district deputy grand president; C. A. Antonioli, Mountain View, district deputy grand president and Robley E. Morgan, Santa Clara, district deputy grand president.

Supreme Court Gets Question of Seized Car

WASHINGTON, May 19. (AP)—The Supreme Court was asked today to decide whether an automobile being purchased on the deferred payment plan could be confiscated when used in illegal transportation by merely prosecuting the driver on a liquor possession charge.

Declaring that recent decision on the subject had not removed all grounds of controversy, the Commercial Credit Company of Baltimore asserted that automobile interests throughout the country are deeply interested.

The case arose in Seattle, Wash., where the lower court held that an automobile could be confiscated without the credit company having an opportunity to assert title.

NATIONS TO FRAME AERO TRADE PACT

Convention Planned for Regulating of Commerce on Western Hemisphere

WASHINGTON, May 19. (AP)—Plans for a convention to regulate air commerce between republics of the western hemisphere, including among other things a prohibition of conveying war materials by commercial planes, have been prepared for submission to Secretary Kellogg, as chairman of the governing board of the Pan-American Union.

The convention in its final form will be drawn up by the governing board for submission to the various governments in accordance with the resolution under which the Inter-American Commission was created, adopted by the fifth Pan-American Congress at Santiago, Chile, in 1923. Definite action regarding the convention will not materialize until the sixth Pan-American Congress at Havana next January.

CREW SAVED IN SINKING OF HISTORIC SCHOONER

DUTCH HARBOR (Alaska) May 19. (AP)—The historic schooner Everett Haya, last of the Unalaska sealing fleet, sank yesterday after striking a submerged reef near Umnak, off Unalaska Island, in a heavy gale and snowstorm. The master and crew were rescued and brought to Dutch Harbor by the United States Coast Guard cutter Haida. A valuable cargo of blue foxes went down with the schooner. The vessel, equipped with Deisel power, was owned and operated by A. C. Goss of Dutch Harbor.

BREED - - - - - -

By ALBERT RICHARD WETJEN

He whispered through dry lips: "The Redstar!" Then louder, thundering: "The Redstar!"

THE first Osgard of history was Olaf, a thane under Hadraade, a sea rover and a land pirate. At the battle of Stamford Bridge, his legs hacked off at the thighs, he fought with a broken sword and on his stumps.

An Osgard was with the Black Prince at Crecy. An Osgard was at Sluys. One of the line swept the Spanish Main and fought against the Armada. When stirring times died somewhat the Osgards became peaceful sea merchants, but captains and free men as before. The sea was in their blood. Their homes were built within sound of the surf and near the flying beach spray.

So it was until Carl Osgard, the whaling captain, was washed up one gray morning on the coast of South Newfoundland, not a quarter of a sea mile from his home. The bones of his ship were washed up with him. Along the shore line his crew was found.

His mother, wrapped in a shawl, took Grant Osgard, who was then eleven years of age, along the shingle to view his father. Dry-eyed was the mother, but the boy cried to see the gray face and the raw, still hands. Terror swept him. He was destined to be a sailor. He had built dreams about the ships and the sea.

When he was fourteen he would sail as a deck boy. Later he would command his own craft. He would see far lands, the diving sperm whales, the paper lanterns of the Japanese coast, the dancing girls of China, the full-bosomed women of the big sea cities. His father had told him of them, firing his imagination and kindling his blood.

But on the shingle that gray morning, the stiff dead covered with canvas, the dreams died. So this was the end of it all. This was the end of the far voyaging, the scudding storms, the lazy tropic days, the bearded men of the water-front saloons. It all ended in this: Stiff bodies on the shingle. The boy whimpered. Fear ate into him.

His first voyage was a nightmare. Often in his watch below he would lie awake sweating coldly as every wave slapped the hull. He was all nerves. He was the best lookout aboard. He could spot a light or shoal water long before any other man. And when he called such a light or shoal his voice was almost a scream. Fear! It gnawed at him insistently. The able seamen knew it. The officers knew it. He did not care. He remembered his father.

The sea fear begot others. He cringed under blows. He never fought back. He suffered indignities. It seemed he had everything save the Osgard soul. One voyage end, in Walfish, he took to walking with Brunhilde, whose father owned and sailed the bark Redstar. She was a sea girl, a daughter of a sailor line, and she went with her father on his journeys afar.

Grant had loved her since he was small, when they played about the wharf piles together. He loved her braided golden hair that fell heavy over her shoulders. He loved her wide blue eyes and her light tanned skin and the strong grace of her. And she loved him.

About the time he made his first voyage she started sailing with her father for company, her mother having died. And it was not often that the Redstar and Grant Osgard were home at the same time. So they saw little of each other, though they wrote at intervals.

This voyage end Grant chanced to be home when the Redstar docked. He walked with Brunhilde on lazy summer days over the dark-stoned cliffs. He picked flowers for her in rocky crevices where the spray thrashed in bad weather. And he lay at her feet on starry nights and his voice was low.

She loved him for the might of his body and for his brave face. And she loved him because he was an Osgard and would some day be a great man. From pity the men held from her the news of his shame. Women told her, but she laughed, thinking they were jealous. And so it went until a strange sailor came to Walfish.

It was in the center of the narrow main street where it occurred. At least a dozen men and as many women saw it. The strange sailor swaggered up to the girl and spoke to her. She laughed. She stopped and listened. Grant Osgard stood by, a towering blond giant, and did nothing. A woman laughed somewhere. In the gloaming a man called a coarse jest. Suddenly aware what was happening, Brunhilde looked around and flushed. She would have hooked her arm in Grant's, but the strange sailor intercepted it and put it in his own.

Grant Osgard started to say: "Damn you!" Then he choked. The other man swung round swiftly, his head thrust forward. He let go Brunhilde and hunched his shoulders. Fear hammered at Grant's throat. His eyes grew wide. He licked his lips and backed.

"What's that?" snarled the strange sailor.

And Grant Osgard said: "Nothin'." Again in the gloaming a man jested. And somewhere a woman laughed. Grant Osgard hated himself as he turned and ran.

Next morning Brunhilde sent back his gifts. Silk shawls from Bangkok, hammered brasswork from Bombay, sailing ships in bottles, Gulf weed in jars, a devil-devil mask from Fiji: strange sailor gifts. And she would not see him.

In Sydney he shipped aboard a pot-bellied tramp. She was bound for London with a cargo of tallow and wool. Her master was Jan Svensen and Svensen had been shipmates with Carl Osgard in the old whaling days. The captain spotted the name as soon as it came to his eyes and he asked the natural question:

"Not Carl Osgard's son? Osgard of Walfish?"

"Yes, sir," said Grant, standing in the saloon doorway. He shuffled his feet and his face drained white. He saw again his father on the shingle. He licked his lips and the sweat started out on his forehead. Some day he too might lie on the shingle. Mention of Walfish too reminded him of Brunhilde and pain stabbed his eyes.

"Well, well," the captain rumbled kindly. "I heard your father was drowned years back. Too bad. He was a man." The captain nodded reminiscently. "What's your name? First name?"

The mate pushed forward. He had been standing on the deck outside and grinning nastily.

"Scary, they call him, sir," he stated. "I wouldn't have signed him if I could have got another man. The fellow's a rank coward."

The captain sighed. Then he noted the mate's grin and he stiffened.

"You needn't make it any worse for the man, mister. Wait till he refuses duty before you start anything."

The mate scowled and left the saloon. The captain went up on the bridge. The steamer sailed next morning, plunging out through Sydney Heads into the wide Pacific.

The storm had been brewing for days. The glass had been playing fantastic tricks for nearly a week. When things finally broke loose they were all that was promised. Day blotted out. The sea rose. For a long time, strangely, there was no wind. But it came in the end of the first four hours, a sobbing, shrieking torment that flattened the raging sea. A sailor, coming aft to relieve the wheel, was hurled against the steel bulkhead of the bridge house and knocked unconscious.

There were two men injured by the same sea that unshipped the rail. Counting the man who had been knocked unconscious by the wind throwing him against the bridge bulkhead, that made three men short. Another was at the wheel, three more were helping the carpenter batten down the smashed-in after hatch. There were two men left.

The mate, huge in his oilskins, found one on the lower bridge smoking a limp cigarette. The other was Osgard and he was on the fiddley, hanging with one hand to a funnel guy, out of reach of all but the biggest breakers. His blue eyes were wide with fear. His mouth and cheeks were sagging from want of sleep.

The mate stormed up to him, savage and angry that such a man should shrink at such a time.

Out of the gray smother another ship drove. She was a small bark, badly breached. Her fore and maintopmasts were snapped off. Her 'midship house was gone. Most of her rigging streamed overside. She was down by the head, seas running unchecked clear from the bowsprit to the break of the poop. On the poop itself tiny dark figures stirred.

Frantic, the captain roared to the helmsman. The mate gripped the companion rail with iron fingers and went white. The second mate felt in an inside pocket for a certain photograph he did not want to die without. The bark lurched right across the steamer's bows. The ships surged together in the trough, backed off without touching. Grant Osgard screamed. His blue eyes bulged. He stabbed the air with a rigid forefinger. He whispered through dry lips: "The Redstar!" Then louder, thundering: "The Redstar!"

He had seen her last in Walfish, that time he lost Brunhilde. He thought of her through flashing seconds. Her long, golden hair braids, white throat, strong body. He started down the companion to the main deck. He leaned against the rail and waved, inarticulate.

The mate's eyes flickered down for a moment and in the few seconds before his death came he sneered: "Scary Osgard! Yeller as a daffodil."

The ships surged together again in the trough. The steamer tried to plow clear, but the sucking drag of the sea was too great. She was a toy ship in a caldron. The bark jarred over, under the steamer's bows. There was a shock. There was a crashing, tearing noise, smothered in thunder. The engines stopped. The bark's mizzenmast crashed down on the steamer's bridge. There was a smother of foam and spray and dark, shapeless masses of wood and steel. The sea crests, inclosing, folded in and over. Capt. Jan Svensen died facing for'ard, one hand on the telegraph handle, a command on his lips, unafraid, smiling a little.

Grant Osgard, at the first shock ran for'ard. His giant strength enabled him to force his body through the water and against the jar. Shouting, he reached the steamer's bows. His eyes were fastened on a figure on the bark's poop. Sodden golden hair whipped in the wind.

Like a madman, Grant gripped the foc'sle-head rail. When the ships ground together he jumped. Solid matter dissolved to ruin around and under him. Yet he did not die. By some miracle he did not die. He found himself after vast minutes on the Redstar's roaring poop . . . Next he was holding to him a figure and shouting madly. Golden hair spattered across his mouth and he kissed it. Then the sea took him.

Timber thrashed at him, rending his clothes, half pulping him. He lost the use of one leg . . . His jaw set hard and he fought, clawing, struggling, his life all bursting out in one gigantic effort. He was no longer Scary Osgard. He was Olaf the Thane, at Stamford Bridge, fighting on his stumps and with a broken sword, unconquered. He had forgotten to be afraid of the sea. He only knew he could not bear to have Brunhilde lying on the shingle as Carl Osgard had laid, with the gulls hovering by and the tiny crabs scuttling over dead flesh. He laughed in the teeth of the water.

A lean schooner found them next morning, as the warm dawn broke. The second mate took a dory and went over to investigate the lumpy, half-submerged wreckage. He came back with two bodies.

He said to his captain: "The woman's alive. Man's dead as mutton . . . Looks as though he covered her with his own body . . . He's smashed to bits!"

CITIES HAIL TAX RULING WITH GLEE

Decision on Nonoperative Property Assessments Will Enrich Municipalities

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19. (AP)—The State Board of Equalization today made a ruling, hailed by local officials as of far-reaching importance in collection of city and county taxes in California, to the effect that the city and county of San Francisco can collect taxes on a garage leased by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company and used in their operations, but not owned by the corporation.

Attorneys explained that under California tax law a municipality or county may collect taxes only on "nonoperative properties" of utilities, the property actually in use being taxed by the State. Assessor Wolden listed the garage as "nonoperative" and the case was carried to the Equalization Board.

Wolden declared the decision will pour millions of dollars into the coffers of California cities and counties.

Enyeart, chaplain, Los Angeles; Dr. Wesley Thompson, medical director, Los Angeles; William Graham, Los Angeles, D. Huntington, Long Beach, Philip Lawrence, A. E. Vest, San Diego and M. W. Halsty, Pasadena, members of the executive council.

The following persons were elected to office in auxiliary organizations: Ladies of the Grand Army: Mrs. Ida E. Wheeler, department president, San Francisco; Woman's Relief Corps: Mrs. Cora Abbott, department president, Turlock; Daughters of Veterans: Mrs. Ada Belle Wagner, department president, San Francisco.

Pharmaceutical Body to Meet in San Diego Next

SACRAMENTO, May 19. (AP)—The California Pharmaceutical Association closed the business sessions of its twenty-first annual convention here today with the selection of San Diego as the 1928 convention city and the adoption of a number of resolutions.

Included was the recommendation offered Victor L. Schaefer, retiring president, that the convention go on record as favoring the removal of liquor selling from the drug store to government dispensaries to be handled in the "only proper way possible."

FIRST STEPS TAKEN ON NEW PHOENIX ROAD

PHOENIX, May 19. (AP)—The first official move in plans for a highway connecting Phoenix with Salt Lake City was taken today when, following a conference of officials here, State Engineer Lefebvre was ordered to make an inspection of the route north and south of Lee's Ferry, where construction of a new bridge across the Colorado River probably will be completed within a year. The new highway may be routed to pass through the Zion National Park, the Kaibab National Forest, Bryce Canyon, Cedar Breaks, Rainbow Natural Bridge, the Indian country south of Lee's Ferry, the Painted Desert, Coconino Plateau and the Grand Canyon.

Santa Fe Economy

Increases Capacity—Decreases Costs

Operating results on the Santa Fe for the year 1926 show, on the whole, substantial improvement over the year 1920 following Government control.

Revenue tons per train mile increased in 1926 to 709.70 tons from 569.21 in 1920.

Two Items of Economy in Operation Deserve Particular Attention:

FIRST is reduction of "loss and damage" freight.

In the year 1920 this totaled $2,817,596; in 1926, $1,350,429. If the rate of loss and damage in 1926 had been the same as in 1920 the total would have been $3,298,302, or 2.44 times as much as was the case. Loss and damage meetings devoted to careful study and instruction, the co-operation of all classes of employes handling freight, and better packing, marking and general co-operation by shippers have accomplished this saving.

SECOND is conservation of fuel.

In 1920 locomotive fuel cost the Santa Fe $28,372,475; in 1926 the cost was $22,604,116.

In 1920 the Santa Fe used 185 lbs. of fuel to move 1000 gross tons, excluding the locomotive, one mile in road service, and in 1926 it used 133 lbs., a saving of 52 lbs., or 28.11%.

In 1920 it used 16.4 lbs. to move a passenger car one mile, and in 1926 it used 13.6 lbs., the saving being 2.8 lbs., or 17.07%.

This conservation of fuel has been accomplished by a carefully worked out policy of

1. Lengthening locomotive runs, so less fuel is used in firing up and less time lost in cooling locomotives.
2. Reducing train delays.
3. Larger locomotives, bigger trains, and heavier carloads in which shippers have rendered very valuable aid.
4. Using the best fuel saving devices.
5. More scientific firing and handling of locomotives and trains by the men.

We Ask Your Continued Assistance in Meeting These Transportation Problems.

And we promise you our best efforts to render steadily improved service, although the Full Crew and Train Limit laws in some states limit greatly our possibilities for further economies.

W. B. STOREY, President

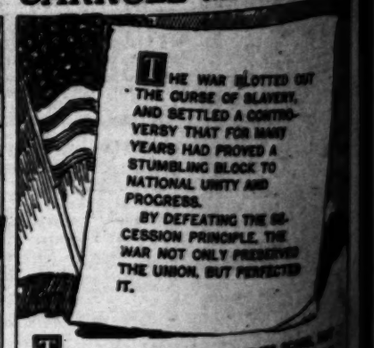
OUR HISTORY IN PICTURES 721 The Cost of the War. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

ON MAY 23-24, 1865, THE UNION VETERANS OF MEADE'S "ARMY OF THE POTOMAC" AND SHERMAN'S "ARMY OF THE WEST" MARCHED DOWN PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE, WASHINGTON, IN A LAST GRAND REVIEW. THE MUSTERING OUT OF THE FEDERAL FORCES, NUMBERING NEARLY A MILLION MEN, HAD BEGUN, AND CONTINUED UNTIL ALL BUT THE REGULARS HAD BEEN DEMOBILIZED.

THE LONG CIVIL STRUGGLE HAD COST THE NORTH AND SOUTH OVER 700,000 LIVES. DURING THE FOUR YEARS OF THE WAR, AN AVERAGE OF 500 MEN DIED EVERY DAY ON THE BATTLEFIELD OR IN THE CROWDED HOSPITALS. MANY MORE WERE DISABLED BY WOUNDS OR DISEASE.

THE COST OF THE CIVIL WAR IN WEALTH WAS A STAGGERING BURDEN TO THE NATION. THE EXPENSES OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT DURING THE WAR ROSE TO MORE THAN TWO MILLION DOLLARS A DAY, WHILE THE TOTAL COST OF THE GREAT CONFLICT INCLUDING THE AMOUNT TO BE PAID IN PENSIONS AND THE AMOUNT OF PRIVATE PROPERTY DESTROYED, IS ESTIMATED AT ABOUT TEN BILLION DOLLARS.



THE WAR BLOTTED OUT THE CURSE OF SLAVERY, AND SETTLED A CONTROVERSY THAT FOR MANY YEARS HAD PROVED A STUMBLING BLOCK TO NATIONAL UNITY AND PROGRESS.

BY DEFEATING THE SECESSION PRINCIPLE, THE WAR NOT ONLY PRESERVED THE UNION, BUT PERFECTED IT.

THE GREAT STRUGGLE LEFT ITS SCARS, BUT TIME HAS HEALED THE WOUNDS. THE ONCE DEFINED LINE OF PARTISANSHIP THAT ONCE DIVIDED NORTH AND SOUTH IS GONE, AND WE ARE ALL BROTHER AMERICANS UNITED IN PURPOSE AND PATRIOTISM.

Greece Confirms Rights of the Monks to Rule in Holy Mountain

ATHENS (Greece) May 19. (AP) Mount Athos, or "The Holy Mountain," as it is called throughout the Levant, now is an ecclesiastical republic under the new constitution granted by the Greek government giving the area autonomous powers. No female—human or animal—is allowed in the republic in which Greek and Slav monasteries have existed for many centuries.

By an annex to the treaty of Sevres in 1920, the Peninsula of Mount Athos became a monastic republic under Greek sovereignty. The new chapter confirms the right of the monks to settle their own affairs, but appoints a Greek Governor of the peninsula with the rank of prefect.

BRIDE BEWAILS FICKLENESS

Weeps While Police Hunt Man She Married on Way to Wed Another, and Who Stole Gems

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19. (Exclusive)—Frances Jane Lamarr paid her first installment on the total purchase price of fickle love today while police started looking for her erstwhile husband of a couple of days, described as Robert Jerrold Lamarr, Hollywood "motion-picture director" and self-asserted double for Harold Lloyd.

"Bobby," so the story goes, stepped from the role of a short, but much-loved bridegroom into that of a missing embezzler. He is accused of taking his bride's $1350 solitaire diamond engagement ring, a platinum and sapphire bracelet worth $75, and a diamond pin along with him.

Frances Jane, whose last name was Curtis when she left Denver last week, started out for Berkeley to wed another man, she explained between tears today.

"I don't want to give his name," she said, "I have caused him enough trouble now." Whoever he is, he was left waiting at the Ferry Building.

Seems that "Bobby" had those "breakfast eyes" and he couldn't keep them off Frances Jane in the diner. Finally, through the connivance of a porter, "Bobby" slipped into an introduction and right then and there Frances Jane forgot all about the man whom she had just wired to meet her in Berkeley with a minister. So when the train reached the bay Frances Jane and "Bobby" got married. At least "Mrs. Lamarr" thinks so, but she's not sure of much right now. Anyway, there was a ceremony.

They got an expensive suite at the Palace, and "Bobby" got suddenly embarrassed financially. He wired Hollywood for some money, Frances Jane thinks, and in the meantime walked out with all the jewelry. She has not seen him since. Incidentally, Frances Jane had to pay the hotel bill.

"Is today Thursday?" she interrupted herself. "Oh, this is the day we were to sail for Honolulu on our honeymoon. What a sweet honeymoon this is."

LAMARR SAID TO BE FUGITIVE FROM TEXAS

Robert Lamarr, accused of marrying and robbing Mrs. Frances Jane Lamarr, according to San Francisco dispatches, is an escapee from the Texas State penitentiary, and left another wife behind him in Hollywood last year when he was taken to Dallas on charges arising from the theft of an automobile, local police records show.

Lamarr, whose alias is Richard Cotton, was arrested here May 20, last year, on suspicion-of-robbery charges. Dallas police notified the local authorities he was wanted on an embezzlement charge. He was extradicted to Dallas and sentenced to two years in the State penitentiary on "theft by conversion" charges. He escaped from the penitentiary March 29 of this year.

With his wife, known as Mrs. Betty Lamarr, he came to Hollywood from Texas in the spring of 1926. They took an apartment in De Longpre avenue, remaining about a month and a half, according to John T. Allen, owner of the apartments.

"Lamarr never was a screen actor," said Mr. Allen last night. "He tried to get work in the studios, had some test pictures taken, but I don't believe he actually did a single day's work in that field."

Lamarr's police record dates back to August 9, 1921, when he was arrested in San Jose for grand larceny and given a suspended sentence of 180 days.

Mrs. Lamarr, according to local police, also was arrested May 26, 1926, as a fugitive from Texas, but was released. She was arrested again on August 28 and served a brief sentence on a vagrancy charge.

NICARAGUAN WAR ENDED, SAYS ENVOY

Stimson at Panama Avers Both Sides Are Turning Over Arms to Americans

PANAMA, May 19. (AP)—The war is over in Nicaragua, declared Henry L. Stimson, when he arrived here last night on the way to the United States from Corinto, where he negotiated peace between the warring factions as the personal representative of President Coolidge. During the past week, he stated, the Liberals and Conservatives had turned over to the Americans 6200 rifles, 272 machine guns and 5,000,000 rounds of ammunition.

He said that no American marine or sailor had fired even a single shot against either of the two factions.

Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, the Liberal President at Puerto Cabezas, Mr. Stimson stated, had a small group of men about him who do not represent Liberal opinion or the feelings of the army.

"Gen. Moncada (Liberal commander-in-chief) has the army behind him," he added. "He was friendly toward me and agreed that his men would lay down their arms and stop fighting, as they have done and are doing."

Mr. Stimson said the two American marines who were killed Monday morning were the victims of bandits. No clash occurred between the Americans and the Liberals. He asserted that the Americans now were organizing a constabulary which will supervise the elections.

Union Sued by Molder Shot in Labor Disorders

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19. (Exclusive)—Local No. 164, International Molders' Union, was made defendant here today in a damage suit asking $101,101.10 by Frank Tanner, a non-union molder.

Tanner was shot from a curtained automobile February 11, last, while en route to work in the Enterprise foundry. In his action he avers that the attack on him was part of a conspiracy on the part of molders' union officials to create a reign of terror among those who worked at their trade, but refused to join the union.

More than eighty individual members of the local are named in the suit, among them being Frank Brown, Robert Burton, Tony Mello and Earl Parente. All these are officials of the union and are under indictment for murder and assault in connection with strike disorders.

Reconciliation of Vanderbilts in France Fails

PARIS, May 19. (AP)—The "reconciliation meeting," provided for by failed of result, and it is stated that held today in the case of William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and his wife, the former Virginia Fair. The meeting failed of result, and it is stated that the divorce probably will be granted within due time.

Formal pleading, it is learned, will be held some time in June. This is more or less a formality inasmuch as the essential details of the property distribution have already been settled out of court.

The hearing, which was held in Camera at the request of both parties, occupied no more than ten minutes. The magistrate asked the usual question, if reconciliation was possible. Both Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt replied "no." Both seemed moved at their meeting.

The magistrate took note of the fact that the wife in her petition asked for the custody of their son, William K. Vanderbilt III. When the father raised no objections the court granted the request, remarking that the petition asked for no alimony.

BRIDGE FETE TO GO ON DESPITE INJUNCTION

SAN FRANCISCO, May 19. (Exclusive)—Regardless of the outcome of an injunction hearing tomorrow designed to prevent the scheduled opening Saturday of the Carquinez Straits bridge, the dedication ceremonies will be conducted as planned, it was said today by Oscar H. Klatt, president of the American Toll Bridge Company. The latter organization built the bridge, which is the longest suspended highway span in the world.

WEDDING TIMED BY STOP-WATCH

House of David Midnight Nuptials Revealed

Girl Made Bride Moment of Sixteenth Birthday

Another Woman Forges Chain Against Cult Leader

ST. JOSEPH (Mich.) May 19. (Exclusive)—The startling tale of a "stop-watch wedding," performed at midnight between an 18-year-old boy and a girl whose marriage occurred within five minutes after she attained her sixteenth brithday, was related before Judge Louis H. Fead in the Berrien County Courthouse here today. It proved another bitter chapter for the defense in the suit through which the State of Michigan seeks to dissolve the Israelite House of David as a public nuisance.

The weird story was told by the drafted bridegroom. He is Herbert Vogler of Benton Harbor. His bride was Mildred Vaughan, daughter of Hix Vaughan of Elgin, Tex., a former inmate of the colony and a State witness in this litigation. He preceded his former son-in-law to the stand, giving evidence supporting that of Vogler.

Vogler testified that he entered the colony with his parents at the age of 13, working for his keep. He had never known Mildred Vaughan, even by sight, until one of Benjamin's handmaids approached him on the topic of marriage as the duty of every young man, telling him that he should choose a wife from among the girls he knew.

Two months later, as he became tractable on the question, a meeting was arranged between himself and the girl, Mildred. They met for the first time the afternoon preceding their midnight marriage and talked for only a few minutes, the substance of the conversation being that it seemed all arrangements had been made and there apparently was nothing to be done except go through with it.

All the charges of immorality in the colony, on which a large part of the State's case against the House of David is based, particularly with reference to Benjamin Purnell, leader of the cult, and the self-styled younger brother of the Messiah, were embodied in the direct examination of Mrs. Elizabeth Smith Wheeler of New York.

Called by the prosecution, Mrs. Wheeler stated that she was brought to Benton Harbor and the colony by her parents at the age of 13, with her brothers and sisters. They had lived until that time in Barmingham, Ala.

Two years after she came to the House of David she was assigned to a room in his house, called Shiloh, she said.

She asserted that Benjamin continually had at least one girl with him, and that if for any reason one remained away he reproached her, declaring she must have something on her conscience. He repeatedly embraced girls in the presence of others, and on several occasions embarrassed her by referring to her as not a member of the "inner circle."

Eventually, after a few of these incidents, and after Benjamin had made her and a couple of other girls the butt of ridicule because they refused to permit him to visit them in their rooms, she consented to such a visit, she said, firmly convinced that he was putting her to one of the numerous tests to try her faith.

He first came to her room when she was about 16 years of age, and frequently for two years thereafter, she testified. Her silence was obtained by the assurance of terrible things happening if she told.

In 1910 another of the investigations into the affairs of the cult was launched, creating excitement among the members. She was called and told false accusations were being made against Benjamin concerning the girls, and that she must be married in order to circumvent incriminating evidence against him in case physical examinations were made, as threatened. She acceded and became the wife of Mark Wheeler.

Illinois-Pacific May Allot Block to Los Angeles

Move Intended to Encourage Customer Ownership

Work on New Local Factory Starting This Year

As a courtesy introduction of the company into this territory, directors of the Illinois Pacific Glass Corporation are expected to offer a block of the company's common stock for sale in Los Angeles, it became known yesterday, coincidently with the announcement that the company will begin construction of its new Los Angeles plant late in the summer. It is planned to have the new plant, which will have an initial annual capacity of 250,000 gross bottles, in operation by June, 1928.

Late last year the company acquired a valuable factory site on Fruitland avenue in the heart of the Vernon manufacturing district from J. B. Leonis, president of the First National Bank of Vernon, for a consideration of $165,000. The site will accommodate a four-unit factory and is ideally situated with excellent spur-track facilities.

CAPACITY INCREASED

The capacity of the company's Los Angeles plant will be increased as demand for bottles in this territory warrants, until its full capacity of 650,000 gross bottles is utilized. This will double the company's present output of 650,000 gross bottles, manufactured annually in its San Francisco factory.

When the Los Angeles factory is completed, it is estimated that $100,000 in freight charges will be saved annually, and by segregating types of bottles made between the two plants and other production economies, a further annual saving of $50,000 is anticipated.

Initial cost of the new construction in the Vernon district is estimated at $350,000. This, it is believed, could be comfortably taken care of out of funds on hand, and it is expected that expansion plans will be completed without additional financing. It has been found in San Francisco territory that customer stock ownership is "good business," and for this reason, it is expected that a block of common shares will be offered for sale in the Los Angeles territory.

MAKES GLASS BOTTLES

The Illinois Pacific Glass Corporation manufactures approximately 75 per cent of the glass bottles used as containers for milk, preserved fruits, vegetables, medicine, beverages, mineral waters and oils made on the Pacific Coast. The output now comes from the company's factory in San Francisco.

For the year ended November 30, last, the first year of operation under the present capital structure, net profits amounted to $403,794, after providing for depreciation and full reserves, including Federal taxes. Items incident to the formation of the new company and analogous to organization expenses were deducted in the sum of $110,909, leaving a balance of $292,884 applicable to the shares. This is equivalent to $6.81 a share on the "A" preferred stock before making the extraordinary deductions, and to $4.94 after such deductions. On December 1, 1926, current assets totaled $2,132,707, and current liabilities were $357,397.

London Daily Radio

BY ARTHUR W. KIDDY

[Copyright, 1927, New York Evening Post, Inc.]

LONDON, May 19. (By Wireless)—The markets were almost stagnant today, but, considering the disappointment by those who for so long expected a reduction in the Bank of England rate, the tone keeps wonderfully steady.

The Bank of England gained £1,300,000 gold in the last week, but chiefly from exceptional quarters like Cape Sovereigns and sovereigns from Germany, which might be earmarked any moment. The chief factor continued to be the weakness in American exchange. Gold demands from the United States give an element of uncertainty to the situation which is probably responsible for the stagnation in stocks. The undertone was good because of the sound technical position of the market.

Brazilian and Chinese obligations were the best feature.

Keen interest is manifested in the expected parliamentary statement concerning the circumstances of the Arcos raid.

BANKS ABSORBED

Security State of San Jose Taken Over by United of Bay City

SAN JOSE, May 19. (AP)—The Security State Bank and the Security Savings Bank of San Jose, affiliated institutions, have passed under control of the United Bank and Trust Company of San Francisco.

The announcement was made officially by George B. Campbell, vice-president and cashier of the local banks, who said interests affiliated with the San Francisco bank had just purchased a majority of stock in the local banks. He said the merger had been effected to permit of expansion, and that there would be no change in the banks' officers or staff.

HECLA MINING NET IN QUARTER HIGHER

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—First-quarter net profit of Hecla Mining Company was $556,089, equal to 55 cents a share, against $538,104, or 53 cents, in the preceding quarter and $581,571, or 58 cents a share in the first quarter of 1926.

INGERSOLL-RAND PROFITS HIGHER

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—First-quarter net profit of Ingersoll-Rand was $1,655,713, equal to $1.61 a share on the common, against $1,568,318 in the first quarter last year, or $1.53 a share.

BANKERS HONOR HARDACRE

Los Angeles Banker Nominated President of California Association; Wood Speaks Optimistically

BY EARLE E. CROWE
"Times" Staff Correspondent

DEL MONTE, May 19.—Ralph H. Hardacre, vice-president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank of Los Angeles, was today nominated for the presidency of the California Bankers' Association, which convened this morning in its thirty-third annual convention. While the formal election will not take place until Saturday morning, his nomination, following the custom of the association, is virtual assurance of elevation to the highest office within the gift of California bankers.

Three other Los Angeles bankers were also honored by the association. Charles F. Stern, president of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank and executive vice-president of the First National Bank, was nominated to fill one place on the executive council, the governing body of the association, and J. B. Chaffey, vice-president of the California Bank, was chosen for another. Leo S. Chandler, vice-president of the California Bank and past president of the association, was appointed chairman of the resolutions' committee.

Other nominees for office include W. F. Morrish, president of the First National Bank in Berkeley, vice-president of the association; A. H. Muller, vice-president of the San Francisco Bank, treasurer, and A. J. Crookshank, president, First National Bank of Santa Ana. George P. McNear, vice-president, Petaluma Savings, and Fred W. Kiesel, president, California National Bank of Sacramento, as members of the executive council.

WOOD SPEAKS

Will C. Wood, superintendent of banks, commented optimistically on banking conditions in California in his address on, "The Banking Department, an Agency for Service to Banks." The banks, he said, have handled admirably the problems arising from the deflation of agriculture, and in the last four years only three rural State banks have been liquidated, a record that few, if any, States can equal. In outlining the policy of the banking department under his administration, the new superintendent touched upon the certification of bonds, the investments of banks in securities and the holding companies as matters that will receive particular attention.

For the better analysis of the bonds submitted for certification as legal investments for savings banks, he announced the early establishment of a research bureau to study the security on which the issues are based. Irrigation bonds, Mr. Wood said, will especially receive the attention of the research bureau, and careful study also given to real estate building issues. On the question of holding companies owning banks, he intimated that the question of stockholders' liability may receive attention.

MAY DISCUSS TAXES

Suggesting that the subject of taxation will actively come before the convention, the report of the executive council recommended an amendment to the constitution to provide for the consolidation of the committees on legislation and taxation and the appointment of a research director to work under the direction of the committee. The banks, it is understood, are especially concerned over the tax rates applying to banks.

The report of the committee on standard forms prepared by T. E. Ivey, Jr., vice-president and cashier of the California Bank of Los Angeles, who was not present, was read by the secretary of the association. George H. Naegele, cashier of the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank of Los Angeles, read a cheerful report this evening on business conditions in Southern California, acting in the capacity of chairman of group No. 5 of the association.

When the new executive council is organized on Saturday it is expected that A. J. Mount, senior vice-president of the Bank of Italy, will be chosen as chairman, placing him in line for the presidency two years hence.

BUSINESS OF MEAT PACKERS IMPROVES

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—Chicago dispatches to Wall street say the position of leading meat-packing companies in the last month or so has shown improvement, partly of a seasonal nature. The present outlook appears to be better than at any time this fiscal year. The immediate cause of strength in packing securities is believed to be reports from London that the troubled South American beef-trade situation soon will be settled.

NEW HIGH PAID FOR TRADING PRIVILEGE

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—Sale of a seat on the New York Stock Exchange has been arranged at $215,000, a new high, and $5000 above the previous record. The transaction awaits approval of Exchange officials.

Edison Issues Continue to Lead Activity; Bancitaly Closes Up; Mines Gain

Southern California Edison issues continued to feature activity on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday, the 6 per cent preferred adding a fraction to a new record high, while the 7 per cent preferred and common each sold throughout the day at the record peaks established on Wednesday. The 6 per cent preferred closed at 25 5-8, while the 7 per cent preferred and common closed at 28 3-4 and 34½, respectively. Edison rights were in strong demand and sold from 75 to 77, closing at 75, 2 cents higher than the final transaction on Wednesday.

Bancitaly Corporation for the first time in a week closed fractionally net higher at 116 3-8. Bank of Italy held at 172. Merchants' National Bank added a point to 395. Pacific Gas and Electric common was sold at 37. Los Angeles Investment closed irregularly at 2.74 for a cent net loss.

Oil stocks continued to reflect the waiting attitude of investors. There was no trading in such usually active issues as Standard Oil of California and Union Oil of California, closing bids of both remaining the same as on the previous day. Richfield produced the greater volume and closed 1-4 of a point off to 19 1-4. California Petroleum was off 1-4 of a point to 24 5-8, while Rio Grande showed individual strength and added 5-8 of a point on a light turnover to 16 5-8.

Mines strengthened somewhat. Western Apex added 5 cents to 32 and closed 3 cents net higher at 30. Sunnyside Consolidated, after selling firm at 5 in the morning, rallied to 7 in the afternoon and closed ½ of a cent net higher at 5½. Great Bend added ½ of a cent to 64½. Boundary Cone and Black Range held at 7 and 3, respectively.

Debentures of Lone Star Gas Offered Today

An issue of $15,000,000 Lone Star Gas Corporation fifteen-year 5 per cent debentures, due May 1, 1942, will be offered today by a nation-wide banking group headed by the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh and including Blair & Co., Inc., at 98 3-4 to yield more than 5.10 per cent.

The Lone Star Gas Corporation is the largest natural gas transporting and marketing company in Texas, doing the entire gas business in Dallas, Fort Worth and seventy-nine other cities. The company owns approximately 1700 miles of transmission lines together with gas rights and oil and gas leases. The company's gas supply and pipe-line facilities are in excess of current market demand and it is believed no other gas system in the United States has a better outlook for the supply of gas in the future.

Proceeds of this issue will be used to purchase the entire capital stock of the Dallas Gas Corporation and for other corporate expenditures. Net earnings of the company, available for interest charges, were $3,280,000 in 1925, $3,874,000 in 1926 and $1,765,000 in the first quarter of the current year, as against annual interest charges of $750,000 on this issue. At current market quotations, the outstanding capital stock represents an equity in excess of $48,000,000.

GOLD IMPORTS FOR WEEK CONTINUE UP

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—The gold movement through the port of New York in the week ended the 18th inst. comprised imports of $11,993,000, of which $11,915,000 came from England. Exports were $624,000, of which $150,000 was shipped to the Straits Settlements and $134,000 to Mexico.

CATTLE OUTLOOK BRIGHTER

From all indications cattlemen in the West, and particularly in California, are about to reap some reward for their persistence in carrying on through the lean times that have followed the World War, according to Hubbard Russell, president of the California Cattlemen's Association.

"Few people realize the distress in which the cattle industry, suddenly found itself following the year 1919," Mr. Russell stated. "Markets vanished into thin air, droughty conditions existed in large areas, prices collapsed and foreclosures and bankruptcy were on every hand. Foot-and-mouth disease in California during 1924 only added to an already bad condition.

"The cattle industry is only now beginning to recoup some of its losses and the outlook for this year is the brightest since 1919. A good year is certainly well earned and deserved. This year cattlemen have more things than usual in their favor. Feed and water conditions in California are excellent, and are above normal in the adjoining States. Markets are good and there is every indication that they will remain good throughout the season.

"With such conditions prevailing there should be no rush of cattle to market during the summer months and there is no excuse for the marketing of half-fat stuff on the slaughter cattle market. Barring any serious weather conditions, there appears to be no reason why fat cattle prices should not remain steady throughout the season.

"We are not oversupplied with cattle, half-fat cattle will be conspicuous by their absence and there is a strong out-of-State movement because of late seasons to the North and no oversupply of cattle to the East. Cattlemen are making a special effort to keep informed on market conditions and on cattle supplies, as they realize the seriousness of selling against each other. They are practicing orderly marketing to an extent never before experienced in the history of the West.

"The fact that there is a good demand for cattle to the north and east of California, and that cattle are moving to market in these sections freely at steady prices, is the best evidence in the world that California markets should remain steady, and that the cattlemen can, if they will, go through the best year it has been their privilege to enjoy for over a decade."

The bonds will be secured by a direct first mortgage on the leasehold estate improved with the James Oviatt Building, a Class A steel frame, fireproof, limit-height office building, and on fixtures and equipment to be installed by the company. The total security is valued at approximately $1,941,000, or in excess of $2300 per $1000 bond.

The total net rentable area will be approximately 98,500 square feet. The Alexander & Oviatt Corporation will lease the first three floors and basement for a term extending beyond the maturity of the bonds at an annual rental of $73,000, which exceeds the maximum annual interest on the bond issue and the yearly ground rental under the lease.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, May 19. (Exclusive)—The cotton market was strong and active today with prices exceeding the high records reached on May 7 by 8 to 20 points. The maximum rise from yesterday's closing up to 2:30 o'clock was 30 to 35 points with May selling up to 15 7-8 cents, July 16.09 cents, October of the new crop 16.45 cents, December 16.68 cents and January 16.71 cents.

These are the highest prices reached since early last September before the trade had then begun to figure on the season's crop going above 16,000,000 bales. The maximum rise from the lowest prices reached early in December to today's high quotations ranges between 385 and 400 points or the equivalent of $19.25 to $20 per bale. On December 4 May contracts sold at 12.02 cents in this market, July 12.25 cents and October 12.46 cents.

A large number of traders who could not be induced then to buy cotton, have lately been coming into the market and buying freely on the present advance, on the current bullish sentiment, influenced principally by the effects of the flood on the new crop situation and the belief that the shorter yield now in prospect, together with the record-breaking exports and American mill consumption for this season, will cause still higher prices.

In addition there was a good deal of covering of shorts by local and southern operators.

More showers and thunderstorms reported in the central part of the belt made bullish factors in connection with the better Liverpool markets and the overflow of bullish sentiment from both the stock and grain markets, stimulating some new buying from those quarters.

BANK STOCKS COMING BACK

NEW YORK, May 19. (Exclusive)—By their feverish demands for bank stocks in the last few days, the investors of this country have in a manner highly romantic returned to their first love. When the founders of the stock exchange met under an old buttonwood tree on May 17, 1792, to draw up an agreement they were spurred in their efforts by a wave of speculation in bank shares. Most popular among these were the stocks of the United States Bank, urged upon Washington and Congress by Alexander Hamilton, and the Bank of North America, fathered in Philadelphia by Robert Morris. The country first, got its introduction to the stock market through bank shares long before railroad and industrial securities as we know them today were available for public subscription.

At different times over the last quarter of a century, buying of bank shares has reached new heights, but never in the history of the country has the market for bank stocks attained so high a pinnacle as this week. While spectacular gains have been made within the last few days, the beginning of the present movement dates back to the first of the year. Since the early part of January gains well in excess of 200 points have been made by such prominent issues as First National Bank, Manufacturers' Trust and Bowery and East River. An impressive list of stocks on the list have improved their position by 100 points since the first of the year. Advances of this sort are familiar enough to followers of the stock market where pool manipulation plays an important role very often in the price fluctuations, but the remarkable thing about the present upswing in bank stocks is that the demand comes largely from small investors.

Obviously those shxious to consolidate different institutions have bought heavily in the market this year, but those who watch over the counters where bank stocks sell, declare emphatically that the outstanding feature of the present demand is that it comes from small buyers all over the country. Doubtless, the adoption of the McFadden measure, which greatly broadens the powers of national banks to make money and definitely puts the Federal reserve system on a permanent basis, has contributed in a large way to the confidence in bank issues now so strongly expressed. Certainly the passage of this law was a bull argument for bank shares and those familiar with such matters have been quick to seize upon it.

Even the unprecedented movement of 1927 to date in bank shares has not brought them to the high-market position occupied early in the present century. At their highest peaks for all time established this week, bank stocks on the average yielded in the neighborhood of 2.2% per cent but they would have to rise a substantial distance to bring the average yield down to the low of 2.40 per cent, where it stood in early 1901. Bank stocks are among the few chosen issues that have a first claim upon earnings, since neither bonds nor preferred issues stand ahead of the common shares. This fortunate structural position enables investors in bank stocks to profit enormously from the rapid rise in the country's wealth so generally concentrated in banks.

BOARD HEAD NAMED

Discount Concern of Amsterdam Honors Dr. Zimmerman

NEW YORK, May 18. (Exclusive)—Dr. Alfred Zimmerman, late high commissioner of the League of Nations for Austria and late Mayor of Rotterdam, has been elected chairman of the Industrial Discount Company of Amsterdam, Holland, it was announced yesterday.

Negotiations are now under way with American bankers looking to the flotation of a loan for the company, which was incorporated in Amsterdam in 1923. The appointment of Dr. Zimmerman as president is being viewed with a great deal of interest. He will take up his duties upon his return from the economic conference at Genoa.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—Prompt absorption of two new issues of major proportions, the $60,000,000 Goodyear 5's and the $26,835,000 Union Pacific 4½'s, furnished the chief interest in bond circles today, and trading in the listed market was comparatively listless. Prices in all divisions were inclined to heaviness, partly due to liquidation in favor of the new issues, and partly to profit-taking.

New York traction issues were particularly weak, in consequence of apprehension felt over the outcome of the transit conference to be held shortly. Brooklyn Manhattan Transit 6's, the Interborough issues, Third Avenue 5's and New York Railway income 6's all sold down a point or so.

Chesapeake Corporation 5's continued to rank among the railway leaders, establishing a new record high, while Chicago and Eastern Illinois 5's duplicated their previous 1927 peak, and Burlington 4½'s changed hands in considerable amounts. Gains scored by all these issues, however, were lost later in the day when realizing set in.

Quiet ruled the industrial division. White Sewing Machine 6's, which have been advancing rapidly for several sessions, dropped back more than 3 points. Warner Sugar 7's gained a point.

United States government issues were exchanged in moderately large numbers, but with only slight price changes.

An issue of $15,000,000 Lone Star Gas Corporation debenture 5's is understood to be on its way to market.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transactions, sales in multiples of $1000 are omitted when same as low, and both low and close when same as high.

STOCKS UP TO RECORD HIGHS

Equitable Office Building preferred soared 18 points to 159 on an increase from $6 to $7 in the annual dividend on the common into which it is convertible.

Oil shares were liquidated freely as a result of the growing pessimism regarding the possibility of an early solution of the overproduction problem. Selling of the local tractions probably reflected nervousness over the outcome of the hearings of the unification plans which are scheduled to start next week.

New peak prices in the railroad group were attained by Union Pacific common and preferred, Baltimore and Ohio preferred, Reading, Chicago Northwestern preferred, Chicago and Eastern Illinois common and preferred, and Pittsburgh and West Virginia, the last named scoring an extreme gain of 13 points. Delaware and Hudson also was actively bought just before the close, showing a net gain of 5 3-4 points. Wabash common also closed 5 points higher.

The first April railroad earnings report to make its appearance, that of the Kansas City Southern, was disappointing, showing a decline in net income of nearly $135,000 below the same month last year. Wall street also heard vague rumors of an early rejection of the proposed southwestern railroad merger plan.

Both the rail and industrial averages closed the day in new high ground.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Sharp advances in wheat and cotton futures, based no unfavorable weather and crop reports, enlivened trading in the commodity markets. Coffee and sugar prices showed practically no change.

Renewed selling pressure against Japanese yen, which dropped over 100 points to 46.10 cents, the lowest rate in over three years, and a brisk demand for Norwegian kroner were the only developments of consequence in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling was fairly stable around $4.85 1-16 and French francs just above 3.91 cents.

Wheat and Corn Prices Up With Latter Leading

CHICAGO, May 19. (Exclusive)—Reports indicating that the winter wheat crop in the Southwest was deteriorating rapidly, with further rains in the Canadian Northwest, and consequent strength abroad, advanced prices 1@2c over the finish of Wednesday to a new high on the present movement, with September at a new high on the crop. Heavy profit-taking caused a reaction from the last and the finish was at net gains of ¾@1c, with May 1.41¾, July 1.39¼@1.39¾ and September 1.33¼@1.33¾.

Bullish sentiment was rampant in corn early, with July and September at a new high on the crop, and with May acting decidedly tight. The latter delivery jolted 3c on the July for the day and finished at 88¾, or 3¼@3½c under the deferred delivery, while September was 80¾@80¾. Net gains for the day were 1@2c, with May lagging. Oats were ¾@1c higher, with May 40¾, July 39 and September 47¾@47¾. Rye was up ¾@1c, with May 1.40¾, July 1.36¾ and September 99¾@99¾.

Drought, red rust, Hessian fly and the frosts late in April has caused considerable damage in parts of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, according to local crop observers, who are now going over that territory, and R. O. Cromwell, estimates that the three States now have a prospective wheat crop of around 200,000,000 bushels, compared with 223,000,000 bushels on the 1st inst., and 307,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

Commission houses were aggressive buyers of futures here early, with some stop-loss orders caught, and bulges of offers were found to protect themselves on the way up. A general profit-taking movement came toward the last, however, and the finish was well toward the bottom. Liverpool closed ¼@¾c higher on the unfavorable crop reports from the Canadian Northwest, but late in the day managers here received letters stating that conditions there were more favorable for field work. Export sales in all positions aggregated 800,000 to 900,000 bushels.

Buying of corn early was general, with commission houses and local bulls active on that side, which quickly absorbed the small offerings and pushed prices up rapidly. At the outside figure there was an advance of 3¾@3¾c over the low on April 30, and so far this week there has been a bulge of 5¼@6¼c, the latter on May. Executive sales order the Central West, with these inches or more at a number of points, but the bullish influence, but extremely heavy profit taking, headed by strong commission houses developed and a reaction of over 1c from the top came toward the last. Forgiest was for showers over the entire belt. Cash demand conditions relatively slow.

Crop reports on oats were less favorable, and with sales of 350,000 bushels for shipment from here, including 250,000 bushels, presumably for export, a higher level of prices was easily attained. Nat C. Murray estimates farm reserves in six leading States at 91,000,000 bushels, against 180,000,000 bushels last year.

Rumors with northwestern connections were fair sellers of rye and checked the bulge, but prices continued higher with wheat. Export demand was better, with sales of 200,000 bushels in all positions.

Limited selling pressure and good buying of April futures, especially for May, carried prices up sharply and closed at net gains of 17¾@20c, May leading. At the top, offerings were moderately increased. A little trade was on to holders, with net gains of 5@12½c, while short ribs were slow at unchanged prices.

(1925 or Mattoon Act)
Serial Maturities

Improvement District No. 32 . . . $48,151.94
Improvement District No. 40 . . . 34,864.06

BONDS issued under the 1925 Act are almost identical with bonds issued under the Road District Improvement Act as they are payable from an ad valorem tax levied annually upon all the land in the district, collected with and as a part of the general taxes. The law also provides for a transfer of money from the general tax fund to the district bond fund in case of necessity.

The 1925 or Mattoon Act provides that bonds issued thereunder are legal investments for all trust funds and for the funds of insurance companies, banks, both commercial and savings, and trust companies, state school funds, etc.

Bonds run serially from 1928 to 1937, inclusive, in even denominations of $1000 and $100 and one odd bond.

History and Business

The Bastian-Blessing Company is the largest manufacturer of Carbonating Machinery and Soda Fountain Parts in the world, and a large manufacturer of Soda Fountains and Oxy-Acetylene Welding and Cutting Apparatus. The Company has plants in Chicago and Grand Haven, Michigan.

The business was started 19 years ago with a cash capital of $45,000, and has grown to its present size almost entirely through the reinvestment of earnings.

The Company sells its output throughout the world exclusively to jobbers for payment on regular cash terms of 30 days net. Sales are not made on installment payments. Credit insurance is carried covering losses above 3/10ths of 1% of sales, but the Company has never collected under this protection.

Earnings

The business has reported a profit in each year since its inception in 1908.

Net profits for the five years ending November 30, 1926, after deducting depreciation on the basis of actual cost and Federal taxes at present rates, and after eliminating charges which will be non-recurring upon completion of present recapitalization (amounting to $35,430 in 1922; $37,370 in 1923; $42,510 in 1924; $52,530 in 1925; and $55,730 in 1926) are reported from the audit of Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., as follows:

Years Ending Nov. 30	Net Profits	Equivalent Per Share on New Common Stock, After Preferred Dividends, to
1923	364,553	3.57
1924	308,355	2.89
1925	324,678	3.09
1926	465,022	4.79
5 Year Average	360,912	3.52

Net profits for the five months ending April 30, 1927, after allowing for Federal Taxes, and eliminating non-recurring charges amounting to $23,220 are reported by the Company at $169,163.

Assets

Current assets, as shown in the Company's balance sheet as at November 30, 1926, after giving effect to present recapitalization and transactions incidental thereto, amounted to $1,023,162.59 as against current liabilities of $156,382.22. Cash is shown at $211,411.95 which is in excess of current liabilities.

The Company has a valuable lease on the Chicago plant at 240 E. Ontario St., which has about seventeen years to run at a low rental, and which is not shown as an asset on the Company's books.

Management

The management will continue in the hands of the present executives, who founded the business and have been responsible for its success, and who are retaining a substantial interest in the Company.

This constitutes the first public offering of the Company's stock, and is the result of the sale of part of the holdings of stockholders. The proceeds of this sale do not go to the Company, which has ample working capital for its current needs.

Dividends

The management will inaugurate quarterly dividends on the Common Stock commencing on or about September 1, 1927, at the rate of $2 per share per annum.

Application will be made to list the Common Stock on the Chicago Stock Exchange.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—Approximately 630 head of cattle were offered on yesterday's market, about 260 of which were counted in the fresh receipts. The run was about evenly divided between the steer and heifer, practically all of the supply being common and medium kinds. A fairly active trade prevailed throughout the yards. Prices were uneven, generally steady to weak with the week's 100@25c decline on all classes. A few-car string of 1179-pound Central California grass steers sold for 8.00, while loads of low medium steers cashed from 7.65@7.75, including weighty bullocks at 7.90 and 8.10, the 7.90 figure taking a load of 1327-pound Holstein steers. Odd head and small lots of common steers sold down to 7.00, with very thin kinds lower.

Odd head of cows and heifers went over for 6.50 and better, while bulk a load of 1104-pound cows made 6.10. The price spread of 5.25@6.00 took in the bulk of yesterday's she stock supply, including two loads of 831 and 886-pound Imperial dyes at 5.50. A few cutters went over from 4.00@4.50, with low cutters down to 3.00 and below. Bulls were scarce and held steady, a few medium kinds selling from 5.50@5.75, with good bulls around 6.00.

CALVES—The moderate supply was cleaned up readily at generally steady prices. A load of choice 311-pound California milk vealers cashed for 12.25. Odd head sold around 12.00, with plain kinds down to 10.50 and below. Calf offerings consisted of a load of 230-pound Arizonans at 10.00, with a choice lot of 304-pound weights at 8.00. Part loads of plain 377 and 395-pound Arizonas cashed for 8.25, with very common kinds and extreme heavies down to 6.00.

HOGS—The majority of yesterday's estimated run was late in arriving and with only fair demand only a partial clean-up was made, there being two loads still unsold at a late hour. Prices were uneven, mostly steady to the lower. Yesterday's top was 11.60, paid for a load of 171-pound weights, while a load of 172-pound averages made 11.35. A load of 179-pound Central California butchers made 11.60, with a part load of 213-pound weights at the same price. Two loads of 189-pound lard fed trucked-in butchers realized 10.25. No packing sows were offered in yesterday's supply, the general run of these being quoted from 8.50@8.90.

SHEEP—None. Medium to choice lambs were quoted from 12.00@13.75, with common to choice shorn ewes from 4.50@6.50.

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

A resumption of the conditon of the petroleum market in the Los Angeles basin is seen in the fact that during the past week or ten days contracts for the delivery of oil from Alamitos Heights wells at prices ranging from 25 per cent to 50 per cent below the posted price per barrel for oil of Alamitos gravity, the latter in dollars and cents, being quoted by the producer in the field at from 60 cents to 65 cents a barrel for oil which is worth $1.85, according to the posted prices.

The principal reason for these low prices at the present prospect that production of the wells at Alamitos Heights will not hold up in sufficient quantity to justify the market-ing expected in building expensive lines to handle it over any considerable period of time. Consequently the pipe-line companies require shipper to pay the cost of the pipe line for his oil.

The situation is practically as stated by the Standard Oil Company in its announcement just prior to the beginning of the production of wells in Alamitos Heights. This announcement, which was almost without precedent in Standard Oil policy, and which caused a considerable flurry in oil circles, said in so many words that the Standard was contracts to purchase Alamitos crude oil would be accepted for considerations such as a fair price to justify the construction of pipe-line facilities. This was the only feature of the situation at Alamitos Heights at present that was at all from the Standard-ment of it at the time the statement was made, is in the volume of production, which is far lower than originally expected.

Signal Hill Field

The Richfield Oil Company is starting operations on a branch pipe-line to connect the Alamitos Heights field with its main trunk pipeline to the Santa Fe Springs field, according to field reports. A right of way has been secured, and the line is to be laid immediately, it is said.

It is understood that the Standard Oil has several contracts to purchase oil in the Signal area for the next week, but no official announcement is available as to either the amount of the production, or the prices paid for it.

Huntington Beach Land

The Huntington Beach Oil Company is preparing for the erection of increased facilities at its refinery and tank farm at Hynes, on the Union Pacific, according to field reports. The company has acquired a tract just north of its holdings, and will use this for new tanks, it is said.

Santa Fe Springs Boring

Production of gas having been picked up in the Core wildcat well three miles south of San Juan Capistrano, by scooping a greatly reduced flow in the bubbling appeared on the oil company reports were not improved because of the gas showings are to be found anywhere in Southern California.

Whittier Well

Hoskins & Barbour, Mid-Continent lessees, have spudded in a well in Whittier field on the fifty-five-acre property of the Waco Petroleum Corporation, according to field reports. The property is in a district that has shown shallow production for many years.

Two wells have started drilling in the district in the past couple of weeks, being the Ozena Oil Company No. 1, and the Mayes

Huntington Beach Oil Company yesterday completed its Nasa No. 12 in the Signal Hill field, getting an initial production officially estimated at 1,000 barrels a day. Bottom of the sand was reached at 2,000 feet, and it is the intention to drill well in the Richfield has been drilled to the deep zone in search of the oil is 30.1

Well No. 9 was brought in last fall with production of about 9000 barrels, and is still producing at about 3000 barrels, according to field figures. Nasa No. 11 drilled in three months later at 3000 barrels, and is now flowing about 700 barrels a day.

The new penny has proved to be one of the most prolific single wells in the Signal Hill field. The well drilled twelve wells on the completion, all of them producing only four have been added to the lower zones.

RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, May 19.—With the dull trading in the outside crude rubber market prices were steady. London spot at 19⅛d buyer and New York spot 41c were unchanged. With very little trading, July futures were active, bidding somewhat the price to 36½c, a net gain of ⅛c from its previous close.

It was reported one of the manufacturers bought a large quantity between 37c and 37½c. The best upbidding in Para is due to the small supply on hand in Brazil.

A statement from Frank A. Seiberling, president of the Seiberling Rubber Company, states that the tire industry estimated there would be a 10 per cent increase in tire production this year over last and that ballon tires would exceed 50 per cent of the total.

WHALING FLEET ON FINAL CALL

Vega Factory Craft Brings in Harvest of Season

Withdrawal from Local Waters Announced by Chief

Bringing 9000 barrels of whale oil, valued at $180,000, as its first season's harvest, the factory-tanker Kommandoren and two killers arrived yesterday after closing the whaling season off Lower California and announcing its definite withdrawal from those waters forever.

The oil was being delivered yesterday to the Vegetable Oil Products Company and the Kommandoren will load fuel and gas oil for Rotterdam under charter to G. M. Bryde & Co., taking the whaling fleet's personnel home to Norway.

It will mark the disintegration of the Vega fleet, three other killers already going home, while the two here will remain on hopes of sale to Pacific Coast prospects.

Unsatisfactory returns were attributed to overfished waters, due to the presence off Lower California of the Mexico Whaling Company, another Norwegian concern.

The latter concern, however, encountered more favorable conditions and still is whaling at Magdalena Bay, with a record harvest of 15,500 barrels of whale oil to the 15th inst., and planning to remain there till late in June. The Mexico fleet's killer boats then will return to Los Angeles Harbor, while the mother ship Esperanza will proceed home to Norway to obtain a new crew. All will reassemble off the Lower California whaling grounds again in October.

CALL OF DOLLAR LINER CANCELED

The liner President McKinley on the trans-Pacific run for the Dollar Steamship Company will not call at Los Angeles this trip, due to delays occasioned by the throwing of a propeller on route to San Francisco from the Orient. She was due at San Francisco two days ago, but will not reach that port until Monday. The vessel will go on dry dock there and sail west in order to maintain her schedule. A thousand tons of freight from the Orient consigned to Los Angeles will be brought down on a coastwise ship, and 900 tons of Los Angeles cargo booked for the liner will be dispatched to San Francisco, as will several dozen passengers booked for passage from here.

Definite proposals by the Harbor Department looking toward erection of a new high density cotton compress were placed in the hands of the Cotton Exchange at a conference yesterday, and will be considered by the exchange at a meeting of directors at 10 a.m. today. It is understood a choice of sites has been offered, and that the city stands ready either to build the plant and lease it to operators, or let the exchange build and operate on city land. Details of the conference were withheld pending the exchange meeting today, but it was indicated the city, should it be asked to build the plant, did not contemplate an expenditure approaching $500,000.

One hundred and forty passengers are scheduled to take passage for the Orient on the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Koreo Maru, when she sails from Los Angeles at 2 p.m. today. Among the travelers are Mrs. E. L. Hubbard, en route to join her husband, an officer in the United States marines, stationed at Shanghai, and the wife and daughter of H. Dannenberg, head of a Los Angeles music studio, en route to Hongkong for a visit. The vessel dropped 1000 tons of oriental cargo and picked up an equal amount for the Orient. More than 450 passengers are said to be booked for the ship out of San Francisco, giving her a capacity listing of 600, according to J. Vincent Bragga, Southern California passenger agent.

Weldt Rock, the submerged pinnacle in the outer harbor, which has been a menace to navigation since the straightening of the fairway, faces demolishment, if the bids opened yesterday by the Harbor Commission prove satisfactory. Only two concerns sought the job, the United States Dredging Company offering to do the work for $9494, while the bid of Merritt, Chapman & Scott was $14,160. As offhand estimates set $15,000 as a reasonable figure for the work, an award to one of the bidders is expected at the Harbor Commission's next meeting.

The Sacramento County Bar Association today wired to President Coolidge protesting against the appointment of any person not a resident of Northern California to the position of Federal judge for the northern district.

El "Emperador" de las Filipinas Llega a Manila

MANILA, Mayo 19.—Flor Intrenchérado, que se proclamó a sí mismo "emperador de las Filipinas" y cuyos partidarios estuvieron a punto de armar una importante revolución la semana pasada, llegó hoy aquí para ser curado, por más que no muestra al exterior ningún síntoma de la locura que se le atribuye. El magnético caudillo indígena, cuyo "imperio" se basaba en la promesa de una vida sin trabajo y llena de dicha, parecía tranquilo y cuerdo a los observadores profanos. Fué llevado en seguida al Hospital de San Lázaro, donde será examinado detenidamente a fin de determinar la naturaleza de su afección, si es que padece alguna.

TREASURY RAID ATTEMPT MADE

Engineering Department Asks for 518 More Workers

Board Disregards Slashes Made in Budget

Total Salary Increase of $794,173 Demanded

Marking the most spectacular move ever made in the city's history, the City Engineering Department, backed by the Board of Public Works, has appealed to the City Council to authorize the addition of 518 employees to the department with salaries aggregating $840,360 a year. The attempt was made in spite disregard of the slashes already made in the municipal budget by Director Dyer and Director of Budget Mulvey Knox, and was generally regarded as a direct appeal to the people for one last gigantic effort before the June election to offset the reductions of the present budget.

The request, ordered automatically by the Efficiency and Personnel Committee of the Council, was presented in the form of a letter from the Board of Public Works transmitting a report from City Engineer Shaw recommending that the Council create ordinance providing additional positions "so that the work may be filled by July 1.

It is clear directly that the City Engineer is the last hope for the expenditure sought, the City Engineer's report, dated the 16th inst., states:

[illegible] BY KNOX

[illegible] Director [illegible] me that in preparation of the budget this year no 'additional' [illegible] be considered. [illegible] that the necessary positions [illegible] provided for as of July 1, I [illegible] recommend that the City [illegible] asked to create the positions as of July 1."

A total of 518 new positions the report seeks to have [illegible] following list mentions a few of the major financial burdens [illegible] be asked to assume:

	Total Salaries
[illegible]	$101,184.00
[illegible]	6,720.00
[illegible]	31,680.00
[illegible]	37,500.00
[illegible]	15,000.00
[illegible]	39,168.00
[illegible]	13,440.00
[illegible]	13,000.00
[illegible]	13,000.00
[illegible]	13,104.00
[illegible]	4,440.00
[illegible]	2,760.00
[illegible]	2,160.00
[illegible]	10,842.00

[illegible] TO BE ELIMINATED

[illegible] additional positions are also [illegible] following positions can be [illegible]—and then lists twenty [illegible] junior clerks, three [illegible] time room clerk and a [illegible] assistant, whose total [illegible] are $60,000. [illegible] made, the net salary increase [illegible] by the City Engineer-[illegible] through additional [illegible] would increase the city [illegible] annually.

[illegible] to make such an [illegible] meeting of the city [illegible] a whistle of sheer [illegible] from the line of Director [illegible] Mulvey Knox, when [illegible] was called to his attention [illegible] he had no open complaint, his attitude indicated [illegible] the attempt pecuniarily [illegible] In view of the unwillingness to the Engineer [illegible] when Knox and Dyer rejected the 1927-28 [illegible] recently.

[illegible] up that budget, the department was allowed [illegible] of $40,527,607, more than any [illegible] of the city government. Of that total, $6,029,424 [illegible] for salaries, an increase [illegible] the salary allowance [illegible] Also, $69,378 was allowed [illegible] equipment, in com-

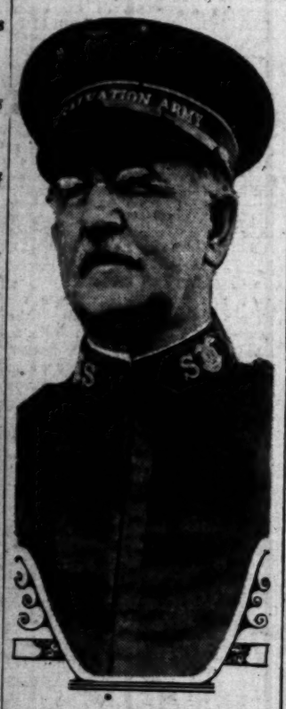
SECRETARY HERE TO FURTHER PARIS PLAN



Col. William S. Barker

SALVATION ARMY GOING TO FRANCE

Lassies Will be on Hand to Serve Grub to Boys at Legion Convention

"On to Paris" is the cry not only of the American Legion members for the forthcoming convention in September, but also of the Salvation Army, for plans are under way to send a delegation of officers and lassies "over there" to minister to the needs of Legionnaires as they did to the doughboys during the war.

This announcement was made yesterday by Col. William S. Barker, chief secretary of the army at western territorial headquarters, who is in Los Angeles for a few days in the furtherance of these plans.

Col. Barker will go over to the convention accompanied by as many of the original war-front officers and lassies as can be spared from their present posts in the United States. About thirty, he said, will go from this side and their forces will be supplemented by about 200 workers from England and France. Huts will be erected and coffee and doughnut stands will be operated throughout the battlefield areas.

During the World War Col. Barker was in command of the entire Salvation Army in France and was decorated by the French government.

DR. DEXTER SPEAKS AT JUNIOR CHAMBER

Dr. Walter P. Dexter, president of Whittier College, was the principal speaker yesterday at the bimonthly membership meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Alexandria. His topic was "Personality in Business." Plans were discussed for the national convention of junior chambers of commerce at Omaha next month and for the chamber's year pilgrimage to Ensenada. Leroy D. Owen was chairman of the day.

CHAMBER BANS POWER 'GRABS'

Refuses Indorsement of Two Bureau Measures

Action Severe Setback for Political Monopoly

Purchase of Electric Lines and Land Planned

Opposition to the Municipal Power Bureau's two "grab" ordinances on the June 7 city election ballot (Propositions Nos. 3 and 4) was voiced by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday who went on record as against both of these measures.

The first proposition (No. 3) proposes to start condemnation of the $40,000,000 electric properties of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, and the second (Proposition No. 4) asks authority for the Power Bureau to take over as a steam electric generating plant site twenty-five acres of harbor lands estimated to be worth $500,000.

The Power Bureau had counted strongly on receiving the indorsement of these two propositions by the Chamber of Commerce and had been working for weeks to obtain this approval as the chamber directors for years have indorsed the Power Bureau election propositions. The action yesterday of the chamber directors was, therefore, a severe blow to the Power Bureau's attempts to set up an unregulated political power monopoly in Los Angeles.

BUREAU LOSES FIGHT

The action of the directors was in line with similar action taken on Wednesday by the members of the chamber's water and power resources committee.

Consideration of the two propositions was given by the committee which had before it representatives of the Power Bureau, the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation and the Southern California Edison Company. The facts were laid before the committee and then a vote was taken, first on indorsing the harbor steam plant land grab, (Proposition No. 4.) The committee voted to recommend to the directors that this proposition be not indorsed.

Then the friends of the Power Bureau started in to head off an unfavorable vote on the Power Bureau's proposition to grab the $40,000,000 electric properties of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation (No. 3 on the ballot.) For two hours the committeemen favorable to the Power Bureau and the city political administration headed by Shirley C. Ward, president of the administration's "Water and Power Protective League," argued in favor of an indorsement of the power grab proposition, only to be defeated when the roll was called.

STATEMENT ISSUED

The following statement was issued yesterday by the chamber setting forth the reasons for the directors' opposition to the Power Bureau propositions:

"The board of directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce today considered Propositions Nos. 3 and 4, which will be submitted to the people at the June 7 election.

"The board went on record as being opposed to both of these propositions at this time.

"As to the acquisition of the properties of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation (Proposition No. 3,) this is not deemed to be an immediate necessity. A paramount requirement is the amplification of our water supply—and this will involve large municipal financial obligations.

"As to segregating certain filled lands at the harbor from 'uses for commerce, navigation and fishery,' the ultimate purpose being their use as a site for a 'steam stand-by plant' (Proposition No. 4,) it is thought that conflicting opinions as to an existing contract should be first harmonized or definitely adjudicated."

PREFERENCE EXPLAINED

The reference in the chamber's statement to the additional water supply and finances to bring that supply to Los Angeles refers to the future bond issues for the Colorado River aqueduct. Woman Struck by Automobile Seriously Hurt

Mrs. Ellen Richerson, 55 years of age, of 1048 North Kingsley Drive, suffered possible internal injuries broken ribs and a broken arm when she was struck yesterday at Santa Monica Boulevard and Normandie avenue by an automobile.

The car was driven, police say, by William J. Clark of 1550 North Wilcox avenue. She was taken to Receiving Hospital and her condition is considered serious.

MISSING MAN SOUGHT

A. Karum is being sought by his relatives here. Five weeks ago Karum, a Syrian, who is a carpenter by trade, left his home at 3106 Darwin avenue for San Francisco. Since then nothing has been heard of him. The missing man has lived in Los Angeles twenty years. He is five feet nine inches tall and weighs 200 pounds. COURT ACTS ON ARROYO SECO DRAIN

Permanent Injunction to Halt Third Section of Work Given by Judge

Construction of the third section of the Arroyo Seco storm drain was restrained by Judge Shaw yesterday, when he granted a permanent injunction against the city of Los Angeles asked in the suit of P. L. Johnson, owner of property in the district.

Two of the numerous causes of action cited by Johnson were selected by the court as bases for issuance of the injunction.

First, Judge Shaw held, the ordinance of intention, adopted by the City Council, is invalid because at the time of its adoption the city had not acquired the right of way over which it was proposed to construct the drain.

Second, the ordinance is ineffective in that the description of the proposed work was set forth in an ambiguous and uncertain manner, and not in such form as to be readily understandable.

Because of the urgency of the situation Judge Shaw heard the case on its merits, instead of merely passing on an application for a temporary injuction pending trial. His order leaves the city with two alternatives. It may appeal, or it may start its proceedings all over.

RABBI TO PREACH

At the regular Friday evening services of the Temple Israel of Hollywood, filmland's reform synagogue, at 8 o'clock tonight, Rabbi Isadore Isaacson will give the fourth of a series of sermons based on current books, his subject being, "What Availeth Power?" The address is based on Feuchtwanger's outstanding literary work entitled "Power." Services will be held in the church on the corner of Vine and Lexington streets, Hollywood.

HERALD RODEO BY PARADE

Cowboys and cowgirls of half a dozen nations and all the western states took part in a picturesque and colorful parade of an international character through the downtown streets yesterday to herald the first annual Los Angeles Rodeo, opening this afternoon for three days and nights of Wild West sports in the Coliseum.

To the stirring tune of "Rarin' to Go," the air made famous by the Calgary Stampede in Canada, officially adopted to open the rodeo, played by the One Hundred and Sixtieth Infantry Band, the cavalcade was headed by fifteen South American gauchos, the cowboys of the pampas, carrying their famous bolas, the substitute for the lariat in the southern continent.

In line of the parade were prominent business men in the picturesque California vaquero costumes, made famous by the early day Los Angeles fiestas, mounted on gaited saddlers with silver equipment furnished by Marco H. Hellman and the greatest assemblage of world-famed cowboys and cowgirls ever brought together in the Golden State.

INDIANS IN PARADE

The title-holders of Canada and Mexico and nearly every western State in the country were represented in the cavalcade, with a whole tribe of Flathead Indian braves and squaws mounted on their celebrated calico and buckskin ponies adding a colorful touch to the street pageant.

Everything is in readiness for the $200,000 spectacle by which the Los Angeles National Horse Show Association, its sponsors, expect to establish this city in the class of communities annually staging the biggest Wild West contests.

Eighteen events are on the program for both day and night performances starting at 2 and 8 o'clock, respectively. The program is the same for each presentation, except that different animals and riders will contest in the events. 'PUSSYFOOT' JOHNSON ON WAY TO CITY

Famed Dry Advocate and Aide to Open Series of Meeting in Los Angeles

"Pussyfoot" Johnson and Maj. F. B. Ebbert, both known for their services to prohibition, will begin a series of meetings in Southern California on the 22nd inst. They are now conducting meetings in the northern part of the State.

Johnson's subject will be "As the Orient sees America." He gained his sobriquet "Pussyfoot" by the suddenness with which he struck when he represented the United States government in efforts to protect the Indians in Oklahoma.

He was mobbed in London, where he went as the representative of the Anti-Saloon League upon invitation of the United Kingdom Alliance to further the cause of prohibition. Five years ago, after losing an eye when he was mobbed, he toured all the larger cities of the United States in behalf of the prohibition cause.

Four years ago he toured India, telling the story of American prohibition to 1,500,000 persons. Two years ago he toured New Zealand and Australia, and last year he visited Egypt, Palestine, Turkey and the Balkan states.

Associated with Johnson in the California tour is Maj. Ebbert, brother-in-law of Bishop Edward Hughes of Chicago, a lawyer who has had wide experience with prohibition.

HUERTA WARRANT SERVED

Ex-President of Mexico Appears Voluntarily to Face Charge of Neutrality Law Plot

Adolfo de la Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico, yesterday voluntarily appeared at the office of United States Marshal Sittel and was served with a warrant charging him with conspiracy to violate the neutrality laws of the United States. By agreement with Lucien Wheeler, agent in charge of the Department of Justice, and U. S. Atty. McNabb, De la Huerta and one of his asserted co-conspirators, Alfonso Gomez Morentin, who also voluntarily surrender, were allowed to remain free without bond until 4 o'clock this afternoon when they were instructed to appear before United States Commissioner Head to have their bail set.

De la Huerta and several other former Mexican subjects are named in complaints issued yesterday at Tucson with having conspired to smuggle arms into Mexico to further revolutionary activities.

NOTIFIED BY PHONE

The former Mexican President was notified by telephone at his home on Juliet street by Marshal Sittel that a warrant for his arrest had been issued and he was asked to appear at the Federal Building. This De la Huerta did, bringing with him Morentin who also was named in the complaints.

ADOLFO de la HUERTA

De la Huerta strongly denied the accusations made by Department of Justice agents at Tucson, although he has freely admitted that the revolutionary forces of Mexico are fighting under his banner.

OTHER WARRANTS OUT

Gen. Enrique Estrada, former military aide to De la Huerta, recently was convicted in Federal court here on a charge of conspiracy to violate the neutrality laws and is serving a Federal prison term of a year and nine months at McNeil's Island. During the trial of Estrada, the name of de la Huerta was mentioned several times as being the possible financial backer of the revolutionary expedition that Estrada was heading at the time of his capture near San Diego.

Marshal Sittel last night had in his possession several additional warrants and a number of subpoenas that he was attempting to serve in connection with the case. The names of those being sought were kept secret.

MISSOURIANS TO PICNIC

The Missouri State Society of Southern California will conduct its annual spring picnic reunion at Bixby Park, Long Beach, all day tomorrow. The program will be in charge of President S. A. Selecman.

INDICTMENT IN JULIAN TANGLE

Secret Accusation Voted; $250,000 Bond Set

Receivers Take Charge of California Eastern

Department of Justice to Check Records

After hearing testimony for several days said to have related exclusively to the financial entanglement of the Julian Petroleum Corporation and its asserted overissue of stock amounting to more than 3,000,000 shares, the county grand jury late yesterday returned a secret indictment before Superior Judge Burnell on which bond of $250,000 was placed by the court.

The $250,000 bond far exceeds others in the county's history. The bond on the indictment of "Big Hutch" Hutchings, notorious swindler, was placed at $100,000.

ACTIONS OF DAY

Other events in the day's investigation of Julian Petroleum Corporation moved rapidly. They included:

(1.) Placing of the California-Eastern Oil Company under the same receivership as the Julian Petroleum Corporation.

(2.) Arrival of E. Latimer, supervising accountant of the Department of Justice, to direct the government's investigation in the matter and check the records of the corporation seized under the orders of United States Attorney McNabb.

(3.) Appearance of S. C. Lewis, former president of the organization; William C. Kottemann, auditor, and T. P. Conroy, also a resigned official of the Julian corporation, before the grand jury where, it is understood, a charge of forgery of the latter's name to stock certificates was made.

AD INSERT

(4.) Seizure of records in the offices of A. C. Wagy & Co., Inc., brokers, by Deputy State Corporation Commissioner Wolch and threats by that official to blow the safe in the offices to obtain securities if necessary.

(5.) Announcement that unless the Federal receivers of the Julian Petroleum Corporation and the California-Eastern Oil Company accepted Lewis's holdings in Wagy, Inc., a bill in equity would be filed asking a separate receiver for the bond house.

(6.) Complaint to the Corporation Commissioner that his order prohibiting sale and transfer of Julian stock had been violated.

BUSINESS TO CONTINUE

(7.) Declaration by the receivers that although the California-Eastern Oil Company is under receivership "the purpose of the receivers is to continue the company in its operation in the most successful manner possible."

(8.) Emphatic denial by Lewis that he would surrender his holdings in eastern oil companies in the present financial tangle.

(9.) Ben Weinberg filed a suit in Superior Court against Wagy & Co., Inc., for $8310 charging loss of funds in stock transactions through asserted "bucketing."

(10.) Pledge from the foreman of the county grand jury, George H. Wallbouse, that "the jury intends to get at the bottom of this matter before it rests and if a crime has been committed those guilty will be indicted."

An important witness in the case under investigation is said to be J. Berman (alias Jack Bennet) former associate of Lewis and asserted operator in "pools," who is at present in New York where he has retained a firm of attorneys to represent him.

TELEGRAM IGNORED

Bennet is believed by the District Attorney's office to have important information relating to the asserted manipulation of overissued Julian stock and conditions within the concern prior to the time the stock was barred from the market.

Dist.-Atty. Keyes recently telegraphed to attorneys representing Berman in New York asking if he would return voluntarily to face the grand jury as a witness. The district

THRONGS AT ORANGE SHOW

ANAHEIM, May 19.—If anything was needed to add a note of interest to the official opening of Anaheim's seventh annual California Valencia Orange Show tonight it was furnished by the American Legion of Orange county. The organization acted as official sponsor for the formal opening and presented as speakers their former State Commander, Allen B. Bixby of Pasadena, and Lieut.-Gov. Pitts.

The afternoon was devoted to accomodations by H. E. W. Barnes, president of the show and to whose efforts are largely due the wonderful success of the event. Acting Mayor Miller of Anaheim extended greetings from the city while the county was represented by William M. Schumacher, president of the Board of Supervisors. George W. Reid, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and manager of the show, thanked everybody who had participated in preparation for the event, and said that every indication leads to the belief that this year's exposition will be the greatest in the history of the section of the State. Patriotic talks by Bixby and Lieut.-Gov. Pitts concluded the speaking program.

The event of most interest during the opening ceremonies was the crowning of Miss Margaret McFadden of Yorba Linda, as Queen Valencia, and a colorful climax was when Lieut.-Gov. Pitts, at the conclusion

THE rolled-down stocking seems to have emerged in screaming triumph.

After all these shrieks of alarm—about the future mothers of America—the American Medical Association discovers that the flappers of today are more fitted for motherhood than any other generation.

The doctors put it on the ground of better diet and better clothes; but there are other reasons, too.

No other generation of women ever were so thoroughly able to think for themselves.

SCOTT FITZGERALD

Scott Fitzgerald is the young gentleman who invented the flapper. Or discovered her, anyhow. His novel, "This Side of Paradise," started her on her merry way.

He was recently in Hollywood to write a movie. While here he rediscovered her. Mr. Fitzgerald said that the American girl, having recovered from her first wild whoop of suddenly discovered freedom—has now arrived at a state of real independence.

Whereas, she formerly smoked cigarettes because it was the thing to do, she now does exactly what her judgment dictates.

And it stands to reason that a girl with a magnificently sound body, plenty of good food, the foundations of a good education and an open road to choose, is bound, in the end, to develop good judgment.

FOOLS WITH MATCHES

This will be an unusually dangerous year for forest fires.

The hills, owing to the heavy rains, have fairly burst out with vegetation. The sage is beautiful with bloom, and in some sections the hills are like a star-lit heaven with yucca—"Our Lord's Candlesticks," as the Spanish call them.

THE HONOR OF JAPAN

There is no reason to doubt the sincerity of Japan in sending delegates to the naval limitation conference at Geneva.

You hear a lot of talk about the tricky character of Japan; but I can't figure out what there is for basis. During the last ten years Japan has lived through a difficult and dangerous period. Now and then she has made terrible mistakes—like the notorious "Twenty-one demands" on China; but in no way has she departed from the ways of honor and high-mindedness.

About the last thing Japan would want, in common sense and sanity, would be a war with the United States.

In the circumstances, it believes the nervous tension considerably to have the navy fighting an imaginary war against an imaginary invader on the Atlantic coast instead of under the sensitive nose of Japan.

Kelly's Fate on Murder Charge Expected to be Placed in Hands of Jury Mon

DOCTOR DEALS DEFENSE BLOW

Physician Testifies Raymond Died of Hemorrhage

Arguments Expected to be Begun This Afternoon

Actor's Case Rested When He Leaves Stand

With the completion yesterday of the cross-examination of Paul Kelly, young and debonair film actor, which was followed by the resting of his defense at his trial in Superior Judge Burnell's court on a charge of murder for the death of Ray Raymond, musical comedy man, it was predicted that the fate of the defendant will be placed in the hands of the jury of eight women and four men some time Monday afternoon.

Arguments to the jury are expected to be begun this afternoon after the State completes its rebuttal testimony, which was started late yesterday and through which the prosecution struck at Kelly's medical defense that Raymond died from natural causes and not from injuries he suffered in a fist fight with him over the affections of Dorothy Mackaye, widow of the dead man.

VIOLENCE BLAMED

This blow was struck through the testimony of Dr. Cecil Reynolds, well-known brain specialist of Los Angeles, who gave his opinion that Raymond died primarily from a subdural hemorrhage. He expressed this opinion after he had heard a 1800-word hypothetical question which was propounded by Chief Defense Attorney W. I. Gilbert to two medical experts he called to the stand. Defense medical experts attributed Raymond's death to a series of disorders and alcoholism from which, they said, the hemorrhage could have resulted.

Kelly, his face and neck a crimson red, left the witness stand shortly after 3 p.m. when Dep. Dist.-Atty. Murray completed his cross-examination, which was brief, and concerned only a few matters of the testimony the defendant gave on direct examination.

According to predictions made yesterday by court attaches, the arguments will be completed by Monday afternoon at the latest, when Judge Burnell will read his instructions to the jury and then send them out to deliberate on the question of the guilt or innocence of Kelly. In event the arguments take more time than anticipated, the case will go to the jury Tuesday morning, it was stated.

REYNOLDS TO BE CALLED

Dr. Reynolds was still on the witness stand under cross-examination of Mr. Gilbert when court adjourned yesterday and will be recalled this morning when the case is resumed. But one more witness remains to be called in the case, it is said. This witness will be County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner to rebut portions of testimony given for the defense by Dr. W. J. Sullivan, who attended Raymond. Dr. Wagner said Raymond's death was due to subdural hemorrhage.

Mr. Gilbert closed the direct examination of Kelly by asking him some questions pertaining to an occasion shortly before Christmas when Raymond ordered him from his home. On this occasion, Kelly admitted he told Raymond he was in love with his wife and that was the reason he had ordered him from the house.

TALKS IT OVER AGAIN

As he was driving away, Kelly said, he thought over what Raymond had said and then decided to go back to talk things over with him. He added that Raymond had accused him of being in the habit of breaking up married people's homes. He said Raymond came out on the porch and talked with him and that he told Raymond not to make such remarks as he had just come here to work and was trying hard to make a success of his picture career.

He said Raymond expressed himself as being sorry he had brought the subject up.

"When was the first time you saw Miss Mackaye after that trouble?" Mr. Gilbert asked.

"About five days later I accidentally saw her on New Year's Day for a few minutes," he answered.

"What did you do on New Year's Eve?"

"I went to bed about 9 o'clock because I had no place to go."

WAITED TO SPEAK OF LOVE

Kelly declared he did not express his affection for Miss Mackaye to her until a week after New Year's, when she told him that she had separated from Raymond because they "couldn't go along together."

On cross-examination, Mr. Murray asked Kelly if he didn't actually know the reason why Raymond ordered him from his home on the occasion before Christmas. The witness said he did not.

"But you told him it was because he thought you were in love with his wife and you admitted you were, isn't that true?"

"I guess so," he replied.

The name of Max Wagner, Kelly's room-mate, was brought up when Mr. Murray inquired if Wagner was asked to live at his apartment merely to "fill out a foursome" consisting of Kelly, Miss Mackaye, her "girl friend," Helen Winkinson, and Wagner. Kelly insisted he asked Wagner to live with him because he was out of funds and work. He admitted, however, that Wagner still kept his room at a Hollywood hotel during that time.

NOT JUST A FOURSOME

"Isn't it a fact he was just there to fill out the foursome?" Mr. Murray inquired.

"Oh, no, sir," Kelly said.

"Well, it's a fact the four of you were there most of the time?"

"Yes."

On the Saturday night of the fight, Kelly testified, Miss Wilkinson told him Raymond wanted to see him. This was at his apartment when Miss Mackaye, Miss Wilkinson and Wagner were present. Five minutes later, he said, he telephoned Raymond and left the house immediately. He denied he told any of those present where he was going.

Medical Defense Refuted on Stand

Dr. Cecil Reynolds Testifies

SIDELIGHTS ON DOINGS OF DAY AT PAUL KELLY MURDER TRIAL

Paul Kelly proved a headliner at the trial yesterday afternoon for every seat was taken long before opening time and the bailiff was forced to bring his best judicial knowledge into play to decide whether "my husband's sister" or "my wife's cousin" really should be squeesed in or not. It is an every-day occurrence for women to come early in the morning and bring their lunches, so that they can be the first ones in for the afternoon sessions.

A number of little flappers in court, during the time Kelly remained on the stand, gazed intently at him with melting, sympathetic eyes. He in turn let his eyes rove over the courtroom once in a while in rather an enertaining manner as though he sought a friendly glance somewhere.

In several instances as he testified, a deep flush crept up into his neck and face, but otherwise his composure remained undisturbed. Several times he smiled faintly as though the implications carried in some of the questions put to him were altogether too ludicrous to be taken seriously. When he left the stand, after about half an hour more of examination, he made hurriedly for a drink of water and his face and neck were purple.

Mrs. Sharp, Kelly's landlady, and her husband dropped into court during yesterday's recess to speak to him and he seemed very much pleased over their manifestations of friendship.

The defense called Ethel Lee, the housekeeper, for one question, which being efficiently answered, she was excused and at 3:45 the defense rested its case.

Decided blondes led the field yesterday in the matter of coloring. One of them was a most enthusiastic gum-chewer with a technique that is generally outgrown with grammar school. At frequent intervals the gum was pulled out in a long string and wound back in the good old style by a rotating motion of the tongue. All that was lacking to make the performance complete were snapping maneuvers.

Things moved very slowly yesterday afternoon because the opposing counsel had so many offside little arguments to settle that it was difficult to make much headway with the witnes sees.

And it seems impossible to finish up with this medical business. It becomes more and more involved. The chances are that the audience is completely in the fog concerning most of it and it's also an almost even bet that counsel don't know what they're talking about half of the time. While Dr. A. D. Zeller was on the stand he couldn't refrain an amused grin now and again over the startling scientific statements that were being propounded.

Dr. Cecil Reynolds, on the stand for the State's rebuttal testimony, lent quite an air to the trial with his charming English accent—rawther. And then the impressive list of royal medical academies in London from which he has been graduated, not to mention Oxford University—well, it just was impressive, that's all.

Dr. Reynolds was an irrepressible witness, too. If he had something that he wanted to say there was simply no stopping him until he had if off his chest. Several times when he must have felt that Gilbert cut him off a bit abruptly, he bobbed up again while the next question was being asked and gave the rest of his answer on the last one. The sparks flew between him and Gilbert and the atmosphere was surcharged with antagonism.

This morning will probably see the finish of talking testimony and it won't be long now before the fate of Paul Kelly will rest in the hands of the jurors, who will have to try to make some head or tail out of the mass of evidence that has been tossed out to them.

"You were in a pugnacious mood at the time?" he was asked.

"I said that in my statement to the police," the witness declared, "but I didn't exactly mean that, as I was nervous. I was irritable and nervous from the way Mr. Raymond had talked to me on the telephone."

The witness admitted Miss Wilkinson stayed all night at his apartment Friday and Saturday nights, but he explained it was merely an accommodation to her, as she had been living with Miss Mackaye and there was no room for her there when Raymond came home from San Francisco.

LETTER EMBARRASSES HIM

Kelly denied he knew the $800 he sent to Miss Mackaye by Wagner on the Tuesday Raymond died was to be used to defray the cost of Raymond's hospital and doctor bills and for burial expense. He admitted, however, that when he gave the money to Wagner he told him he thought that was what it was to be used for as she was broke. The first he heard the money was actually used for this purpose, he said, was when he read the newspapers.

The face of the witness flushed a deep red when Mr. Murray displayed to him the fervid "my brat face—my wife" love letter, which he admitted he sent to her while she was playing in San Francisco.

"I note a passage in the letter where you said the reason you hadn't written was because you were afraid to and that you said you would thereafter address all your letters to the theater. If you knew before that they were separated, why did you say that?" Mr. Murray inquired.

"I wasn't exactly afraid of anything, but they were still man and wife," he said.

"Didn't she write a letter to you and say it would be best to address your letters to the theater?"

"No, she didn't.

As he left the stand Miss Lee was recalled. She verified Kelly's statement that he returned on the occasion before Christmas when he was ordered out by Raymond and had a talk with him on the front porch.

Mrs. Gladys Earlcott, a friend of the Raymonds, was then called to give testimony to verify testimony of Miss Mackaye that on New Year's Eve her husband beat her and dragged her into a closet. The court ruled this testimony was inadmissible.

NEPHRITIS SYMPTOMS FOUND

The first rebuttal witness for the prosecution was Dr. A. H. Zeller, who was questioned by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Kemp, who is assisting Mr. Murray. Dr. Zeller identified a slide with a cross section of one of Raymond's kidneys.

"What was the condition of the kidney?" he was asked.

"It showed a mild degree of nephritis," he answered.

Question: Was the condition such as to cause a subdural hemorrhage?

Answer: No, I couldn't see anything that would cause it.

Q.: Anything there to cause coma or death?

A.: No, there was not.

On cross-examination Mr. Gilbert sought to show that one section of a kidney might be normal while another section extremely diseased, but Dr. Zeller said such was not the rule, particularly in the case of nephritis.

CRITICIZES QUESTION

After Mr. Kemp read to Dr. Reynolds the defense's 1500-word hypothetical question, he was asked his opinion of the cause of the death of Raymond.

"The question is so devoid of medical terms and so replete with contradictions and inconsistencies, it is difficult, but I would say the primary cause was a subdural hemorrhage," he answered. "The weight of the evidence as set forth would be subdural hemorrhage."

He said he thought the injuries sustained by Raymond caused the hemorrhage.

The remarks of Dr. Reynolds concerning the hypothetical question brought Mr. Gilbert to his feet with a barrage of objections as to the contents of the question. Dr. Reynold's response seemed to irritate Mr. Gilbert very much, and when it came time to cross-examine the witness he called upon him to go into minute detail as to his education in London and his career as a physician and surgeon before he came to California in 1911.

DISEASE RARELY CAUSE

Dr. Reynolds readily answered him. He told Mr. Gilbert a subdural hemorrhage usually was the result of violence and that only in two other cases during his entire experience as a brain specialist had such a hemorrhage been caused by disease.

The defense attorney called upon him to recite cases which he had treated where a subdural hemorrhage was caused from injury. He did. When court adjourned, Mr. Gilbert requested Dr. Reynolds to come into court today prepared to recite a case he had attended in which the physical condition of the patient was similar to that of Raymond and where death was from a subdural hemorrhage. The doctor said he would.

DEFENSE BEGINS IN KERRICK CASE

Court Denies Motion to Dismiss Accused

Miss Davis and Isabell Describe Party

Shooting Scene Re-enacted at Kitchen Table

The Arizona cowpuncher's boast that he "can ride anything that moves" had a sequel in the testimony at the Tom Kerrick murder trial yesterday when witnesses said that Joe Hunt, Arizona cowpuncher who financed the fatal party, stepped out of an automobile moving thirty miles an hour because he didn't like the conduct of one of the girls.

The drawling cowhand from Tucson apparently knew how to alight from a speeding automobile, for intoxicated as he was, he was brought back to the automobile uninjured and the party continued, according to witnesses.

The State brought its presentation of the case to a close yesterday shortly before noon and the defense opened by putting Anita Davis on the witness stand. Superior Judge Hardy refused to grant a motion by the defense to dismiss all defendants on the ground that the State had failed to substantiate its charges of murder. At best, the defense argued through Attorney Booth, the evidence showed that Tom Kerrick, the film cowboy, was accidentally shot during a drunken brawl.

DENIES SHOOTING

Miss Davis, in answer to questions from her attorney, Stanley Visel, gave the details of the party which was climaxed with the killing of Kerrick. The erstwhile sarcastic blonde, as the police characterized her, hung her head and struggled hard to check the tears of mortification and shame as she was forced to narrate some portions of the account.

She wound up by saying that just before the shooting she saw Sarah Kerrick, widow of the deceased, with a gun in her hand. As Miss Davis caught Mrs. Kerrick's arm, the witness said, the weapon wis discharged.

"I will ask you," said Attorney Visel, "did you shoot Tom Kerrick?"

The young woman stiffened in her chair and with a show of spirit said, "I certainly did not!"

Her common-law husband, Henry Isabell, followed her on the stand and repeated virtually the same story as to the party. He said, however, that he did not see any fight nor did he hear any shot fired. All he knew was that he was "bawled out" by Mrs. Kerrick for "trying such stuff with Iris Burns" in her house. And the next thing he knew was when he took a gun away from Mrs. Kerrick out in the kitchen.

SCENE RE-ENACTED

The table from the kitchen nook in which the shooting occurred was set up in the courtroom and the defendants were seated around it as they sat when the shots were fired. Isabell staged the scene as he recalled it, even to the part of throwing Joe Hunt's automatic on the courtroom floor with a gesture of disgust, as he said he threw it on the kitchen floor. The Widow Kerrick, in deep mourning, looked piteously at the jury as she was forced to take her seat at the table.

Both Miss Davis and Isabell were subjected to what was virtually a merciless cross-examination by Attorneys Booth and Mayock for Mrs. Kerrick, as part of the so-called direct examination of the defense. The purpose of the two defense attorneys' questioning was summed up in the final question: "As a matter of fact, Mr. Isabell, isn't it true that you and Tom Kerrick, and Mrs. Kerrick and Anita Davis were struggling for that gun and you all lunged into the kitchen table when the weapon was discharged?" This the witness spiritedly denied.

Defense Attorney Andreani for Hunt and Miss Burns refrained from any cross-examination, as did Dep. Dist.-Attys. Richardson and Dennison for the State.

Wife Confirms Jack Pickford Divorce Plans

Marilyn Miller, actress, admitted in Chicago yesterday that she and her film-acting husband, Jack Pickford, had agreed to go their separate ways via a Paris divorce as quickly as it can be gotten under the circumstance.

She made the admission in response to a statement by her husband here Wednesday that a trial separation of almost a year had been a dismal failure and that consequently they had agreed on the divorce, though good friends and likely to remain so.

It was Pickford's second venture into matrimony. The first ended tragically when his young wife, Olive Thomas, also a film actress, died in Europe in 1920 after swallowing a poison by mistake, according to reports at the time.

Bridge Estate Gives Books to Local Library

From the Norman Bridge estate a gift to the Los Angeles Public Library of about 1500 volumes is announced by the Board of Library Commissioners.

Though many of the volumes are duplicates of titles now in the library, the gift is a valuable addition to the library collection. Encyclopedias, scientific works, standard fiction, Emerson's Journals and the Eliot Harvard classics are among the sets which will be placed on the shelves when catalogued and classified.

attorney's wire was ignored, according to Chief Deputy Davis.

According to information in the hands of Dist.-Atty. Keyes, Berman had "inside" knowledge of the operations of the "pools" or contributed sums of money to operations which he accredited as the basic cause of the present financial entanglement.

Funds were "pooled" in the scheme to provide loans for the Julian Petroleum Corporation, according to the District Attorney's analysis of the situation. These funds were loaned to the corporation and in return large bonusses and asserted exorbitant rates of interest were demanded as reward, it is said.

DUMPED ON MARKET

In order to meet the demands of the creditors or "pool" operators overissued stock was dumped on the market, it is said, and as time went by the overissue increased until the receivers of the corporation announced there were outstanding 3,000,015 shares of preferred and 665,000 shares of common stock over the authorized issue, which, according to par value, amounts to more than $130,000,000.

Bennet is believed by the District Attorney to have considerable knowledge of the "inner workings" and his testimony is generally regarded as valuable to the grand jury, although no move has been made, at least not publicly announced, toward bringing him back to Los Angeles.

Concerning the receivership of the California-Eastern Oil Company in connection with the Julian receivership, Frank P. Flint, chairman of the board of directors of the former company, issued the following statement:

"This action was taken," said Flint, "as a prudential step in order to protect the interests of stockholders and safeguard the properties. A large part of the company's indebtedness, including that owing to banks, is secured by and was incurred in the acquisition of substantial producing oil properties now owned by the California-Eastern Oil Company. These include the Marine Corporation and valuable producing leases in Montana and Texas, and production in the Huntington Beach field in California.

CONSTRUCTIVE HELP

"The attitude of the banks and other creditors throughout the period in which the various properties now comprising California-Eastern were being acquired and consolidated into a well-rounded oil company has been most constructive, their main objective having been to build up the equities of the Julian stockholders.

"If the California-Eastern is to continue as a going concern, which course offers the most hope for a substantial recovery of inherent values by stockholders of the company, further indulgence and assistance will have to be had from creditors and others in this community interested in the protection of the stockholders' equities. However, before any aid can be sought or rendered even by those willing to assist further, it is necessary to remove some of the uncertainties, legal and otherwise, now surrounding the properties of California-Eastern and their ownership. If further financial aid is to be obtained to enable the company to complete its drilling campaign and to maintain control of its properties, they must be placed in the hands of some centralized and unquestioned authority with ability to protect all concerned.

"The most logical course to pursue is to ask the court to appoint receivers who will operate the property under the court's protection. We have now fourteen wells being drilled. It is necessary that this work should not be interrupted, as there is every prospect of producing from Alamitos field sufficient oil for our present requirements, and it will be necessary to obtain further financial assistance from banks and other interests identified with the company and this money could be best obtained by having the company placed in the hands of receivers, and I am satisfied that the stockholders, after consideration, will be convinced that this is the best course to pursue to protect their interests and develop this valuable property."

BONDS INCREASED

As result of Judge McCormick's receivership order, the bonds of Receivers Carnahan and Scott were increased $200,000 each, making a total for the two officials $600,000. Suits in connection with the receivership were filed by the Perkins Oil Well Cementing Company and Michael Harris, a stockholder in the Julian Corporation, who claimed the assets of the Julian Petroleum Corporation were held by the California-Eastern Oil Company.

U. S. Atty. McNabb declared he will lend all possible assistance to the county grand jury in its probe of the Julian affair and intimated that Federal grand-jury action on the case would probably be delayed pending the determination of facts by the county grand jury.

Receivers Scott and Carnahan issued a statement to the employees of the California-Eastern Oil Company yesterday establishing the status of the employees and commending them on their loyalty.

"It is not contemplated at this time that any changes in the present personnel will be made. The purpose of the receivers is to continue the company in its operations in the most successful manner possible," the receivers stated.

Seizure of records in the offices of A. C. Wagy & Co., Inc., bond brokers and heavy dealers in Julian stock, was made by Deputy Corporation Commissioner Wolch, who declared his move was in protection of the stockholders and to furnish information for the grand jury, receivers and other officials.

WILL OPEN SAFE

Mr. Wolch said he would attempt to open the securities' safe in the Wagy, Inc., offices Monday. It was shut and time-locked last Wednesday by Frank Creasey, manager of the Wagy, Inc., offices, when several representatives of the various authorities engaged in a dispute as to who would seize the securities.

Mr. Creasey twirled the time lock on the safe and the date it will open is not known. While it is believed it will open readily on Monday, Mr. Wolch said he would blow the safe if necessary to get at the securities.

FRIEDLANDER TO ACT

"I feel that it is incumbent upon me as Corporation Commissioner to take charge of these records," Corporation Commissioner Friedlander declared. "I shall assume the entire responsibility in that and co-operate to the fullest extent with the other authorities who are investigating."

Mr. Friedlander, who is leaving today for San Francisco in discharge of his duties, has ordered his assistant at the Los Angeles office to conduct an investigation of an asserted violation of his order prohibiting sale and transfer of Julian stock. The order was issued on the 7th inst.

LEWIS MAKES STATEMENT

Recently Resigned President of Julian Corporation Gives Story of Stock Transactions

S. C. Lewis, recently resigned president of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, a witness before the county grand jury in the investigation into the corporation's financial tangle involving overissued stock, issued a 6000-word statement last night, the highlights of which are as follows:

"When I took over control of the Julian Petroleum Corporation the latter part of December, 1924, Price, Waterhouse & Co., certified public accountants, prepared an audit and balance sheet showing the condition of the corporation as of December 31, 1924, at which time the former officers of the corporation were still in control.

"This report showed total assets as of December 31, 1924, of $6,663,757.19, and total liabilities of $1,060,262.13, leaving a net worth of $5,603,494.06. Included in this $5,603,494.06 was an item of $500,000 consisting of producing properties, which under the contract between myself and the Julian Petroleum Corporation and the former officers of the Julian Petroleum Corporation were assigned to the Julian Petroleum Corporation in consideration of shares of preferred stock of the corporation. There was also an item of $730,150.93, covering undeveloped leases as carried on the books of the corporation and which subsequently proved to be worthless and was charged off. The aggregate of these two items, amounting to $1,230,150.93, should be deducted from the net worth as given above, $5,603,494.06, which will give us a net tangible value of $4,373,343.13, against which there were 169,166 shares of preferred stock and 167,935 shares of common stock of no par value outstanding. Of the liabilities above mentioned there was an item of $300,000 bank liabilities arranged on December 29, 1924, for the purpose of retiring that amount of obligations due the Dominguez Land Company and other bank liabilities in the purchase of lands by the Julian Petroleum Corporation, which were then past due and foreclosure proceedings were being prepared.

STOCK $9 PER SHARE

"The market price of the 169,000 shares of preferred stock then outstanding, shortly before I became conencted with the corporation is determined by the quotation on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, of $9 per share, which would equal $1,521,000.

"When I took over the active management of the company about January 1, 1925, the former officials of the Julian Petroleum Corporation continued these efforts in behalf of the Julian Petroleum Corporation and the stockholders, operating through the Loew's State Building, in escrowing the stock and prevailing upon stockholders to contribute to a pool, which had some months prior thereto been formed. Mr. Jack Bennett, who had had some experience in the New York market in stock operations was invited to assist in the plans and accordingly he joined Mr. Julian, taking an office in the Loew's State Building and working directly with him in carrying forward what, in my opinion, was to be constructive, both in behalf of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, and its stockholders.

"I, myself, contributed to this pool, as the records will show, as well as some of my associates, including Mr. Bennett and other officials of the Julian Petroleum Corporation and as the development of the company progressed, the stock or pool operations continued for three months, with very little success when it was continued only for the liquidation of the pools.

"I recognized that the escrow plan as well as the pool plan of accumulating the stock and centralizing same in hands where it could be controlled was fundamentally sound.

REACTION IN MARKET

"The spring of 1926, promised better days and a more satisfactory market condition. Again in March, there was a reaction in the stock, caused by four distinct factors, as follows:

"(1.) There came into the market a mining stock that was proving extraordinarily attractive from a market standpoint and thousands of Julian Petroleum Corporation stockholders traded their stocks in for this mining stock, with the result that Julian stock was thrown on the market immediately after it had been exchanged for the mining stock.

"(2.) The 'bear element' and an element 'shouting' the stock.

"(3.) The treachery of certain brokers who were handling the market in behalf of what I considered the Julian Petroleum Corporation stockholders.

"(4.) Insufficient capital to back up the market at a time when every stockholder apparently had decided to sell, which created a burden too great to stand under.

"The drop in the price of the stock caused a great loss to the backers of the market and reached a point where I considered it advisable for the protection of Julian Petroleum Corporation stockholders and myself that an interest in A. C. Wagy & Co., Inc., be obtained, not as a matter of realizing profits therefrom but as a protection and as a means of taking care of the market situation that was rapidly developing. From this conclusion, I purchased a one-half interest in the firm, making an initial outlay of $350,000, and subsequently acquiring the remaining one-half interest. This was followed by heavy additional investments to assist the Julian stockholders in carrying stock on margin. The investment in this instance was considerably above $1,000,000, and as above stated was actuated only in protecting the interest of Julian stockholders and not with a view of making any profit therefrom.

EASTERN TRIP EXPLAINED

"In April, 1926, I proceeded to New York City for the following purposes:

"(1.) To make application for listing Julian stock on the New York curb market.

"(2.) To negotiate for permanent financing, as the J. G. White engineering reports had been completed and were ready for use.

"(3.) To negotiate with some eastern bankers with respect to combining the Julian Petroleum Corporation's properties with a new company to be formed, taking in the New England Oil and Refining Company and also to consider other negotiations for the sale of crude oil in storage, etc.

"In February it developed that some of the overissued stock that had been put up to protect margin accounts for stockholders or had been placed in the pools to secure loans had been sold and was in the hands of the public, and that each point the market dropped would call for another large raft of stock to be issued to protect the then-existing pools until permanent financing could be done and money made available to pay off the pools and retire the stock. I made a check as far as I possibly could, as of that time and unfor-

INQUEST CLOSES POWELL KILLING

Witnesses Testify Miss Pike Frequently Melancholy.

Body May be Sent to Father in South Dakota

The tragic Powell-Pike case has been closed officially and with a funeral service for one victim tomorrow and the hastening completion of arrangements for that of the other the case will have passed into history.

Marie Pike killed George J. Powell, 52, and then killed herself, the verdict of the Coroner's inquest yesterday of Powell and thus ended the case officially. Powell's body was taken to Pierce Bros., where a service will be held at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow. Miss Pike is to be undertaker D. C. Turner & Stevens' parlors, where a service will be held at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow. Miss Pike, it is understood, is to be buried in accordance with her own determination that if she should die whether it shall be here or sent to her father, James Pike, St. Lawrence, S. D., where she was born and reared.

FIVE WITNESSES HEARD

Coroner Nance and the jury heard five witnesses at the inquest. Each witness who knew Miss Pike or investigated her life testified that she was of a melancholy disposition or at times despondent.

Roland W. Davies, assistant manager of the Dixmoor Corporation of which Powell was vice-president and general manager, related that Powell was discharging Miss Pike as his secretary of about a month's duration of her "irrational" conduct, that once before he had discharged her, but re-engaged her out of sympathy for her pleadings to be retained. As one evidence he recalled had no social associations in the city. Davies testified that two hours before the shooting, Powell had his last pay check, he asked Miss Pike, will be admitted to probate Khoury, will be administered June 1, which was granted June 30 to continue pursuing any changes it as submitted. It was yesterday that the engineering department of Public Works, a desperate hope that any of whose present number would be retiring from office—Mayor-elect Porter will sanction a bonus grab."

TOO MANY LAWS TO BE FOUGHT

Exchange Clubs Will Present Program on Subject Late This Month

Members of the Exchange Club of Los Angeles, with hundreds of other Exchange Clubs throughout the United States, will give a meeting during the last week of May on the topic of "Too Much Law Making." National Secretary Herold M. Harter has asked every Exchange Club to set aside a meeting at this time for the consideration of the "law-making" evil.

The Exchange Clubs believe that by throwing the light of publicity on this tendency to overdo the business of making laws, State and national legislatures can be brought to see the trend of popular opinion.

GIRL OF MYSTERY

Myrtle Eaton, 2530½ West Fourth street, in whose apartment the girl had rented a room a month ago, said Margie was "a girl of mystery," that she was despondent and often came home and cried herself to sleep.

No evidence in support of the District Attorney's office early theory that there might have been some connection between the deaths and the Julian Petroleum Company case was presented.

The jury made its findings after a few minutes of deliberation.

ACTION URGED FOR SEWER EXTENSION

Declaring that "an extremely serious situation" has existed during the last year due to the filling up and overflowing of cesspools, the City Health Officer yesterday urged the City Council to take steps to provide sewers in certain sections of the western part of the city. The matter was referred to the City Engineer and the Health and Sanitation Committee.

FIRST FIGHT ON TAX-LIEN FEES OPENS

Precedent Expected to Be Set in Ruling on Suit by Compton Property Owner

Marking the first legal action to determine whether or not bonding companies dealing in assessment liens are illegally charging excessive attorney fees and costs in assessment bond foreclosures, a decision that will set a precedent is expected to be handed down today by Municipal Judge Haas at conclusion of a civil action brought by Attorney Marshall Stimson, representing George W. McKee, a Compton property owner.

The suit names the Park Bond and Finance Corporation and Harry K. Smith, attorney for the corporation, as defendants in an action to recover $92 said to have been paid by McKee in foreclosure on an Elm-street improvement assessment bond. The sum represents attorney fees and other costs which Stimson contends were not actually paid by the company and which he says were illegally added to the assessment lien.

Basing his suit on allegations of fraud and misrepresentation, Attorney Stimson contends an attorney's fee of $75 was added to the bond cost when the legal work was done by the corporation's own lawyer. Other costs involved, Stimson says, were not paid out, but the work was done by the firm's representatives.

Hundreds of similar cases waiting to be filed by property owners will be affected by the outcome of the case, as the decision will determine the legal status of the prospective actions. According to Stimson, in many cases the legal fee is far in excess of the original assessment charge.

Testimony in the action began yesterday and was continued until today.

PAINTINGS ON DISPLAY

A splendid collection of portraits and paintings from the Theodore Kosloff art galleries will be on exhibition at Brandstatter's Hollywood Montmartre Cafe this evening in conjunction with the celebration of college night.

Cinema Actor Badly Hurt in Attack by Lion

Gordon Standing, cinema actor, was in a critical condition at Roosevelt Hospital last night after having been severely bitten and slashed about the neck and shoulders by a lion while making a serial film, "The King of the Jungle" for Hercules Productions, Inc., in the jungle arena of the Selig Zoo.

Standing had been working with the lion right along and with several other wild animals without difficulty. On Thursday afternoon he changed his make-up, putting on a beard, and it is believed that the lion failed to recognize him. It took fifteen men to pull the animal away from him.

A member of a prominent theatrical family, Standing came to the west coast a few months ago. He had played in Lasky, Vitagraph, Inspiration and D. W. Griffith productions on the east coast, and also played Horatio in the "Modern Hamlet," and a number of other stage roles. He is a nephew of Herbert Standing, well known actor. During the World War he served with the marine corps and was wounded several times. He lives at 1800 North La Brea avenue.

Dennison Sues to Break Will of Half-Sister

Milo F. Dennison of Santa Ana, who was cut off with a bequest of only $1 by the will of his half-sister, Carolyn A. Alchin, has filed suit to set the will aside on the ground that Mrs. Alchin was unduly influenced by Esther Nelson, her confidential companion, who was bequeathed practically all the estate. Property appraised at $90,041 is involved.

Mrs. Alchin was a writer on the theory of music. She bequeathed the royalties on her books to Vincent L. Jones, during his life, and directed that after his death these funds should be used by the University of Southern California for the aid of deserving music students. She died June 24, 1926.

TRIO JAILED FOR QUIZ AS BANDITS

Suspected in Shooting of Foster and Coltzau

Tentatively Identified by Girl in Hold-up

Officers Fired on While Hunting Stolen Car

Three persons were lodged in jail yesterday for questioning in connection with the shooting by bandits Wednesday night of Officers George H. Foster, 35 years of age, and Emil H. Coltzau, 34, at Florence avenue and McKinley street. Those arrested are Charles Wood, 46, of 827 East One Hundred and Sixth street, his son, Henry Wood, 22, and Leonard Thompson, 26, of 915 North Avenue 67.

EMIL H. COLTZAU

GEORGE H. FOSTER

The arresting officers, working under Detective Captains Williams and Bean and Acting Captain Lyons, say the trio have been tentatively identified by Miss Juanita Blackwell of 425 South Fremont street as men who held up her and Frank Govice of 4057 South Main street at Florence avenue and Truck Boulevard about half an hour before the shooting.

Officer Foster, suffering from the effects of a bullet which struck his head near the left eye and glanced down into his cheek and another which pierced his shoulder, is at White Memorial Hospital, being prepared for an operation by Chief Police Surgeon Goodrich. He is expected to recover. Officer Coltzau received a scalp wound and is at the home of his mother, 3700 Victoria Drive.

The officers started to investigate an automobile, when its occupants fired upon them, wounding both. The bandits then abandoned the car and fled on foot. The car, police said, had been stolen from Dan Longo of 427 East Twenty-eighth street and its license plates changed. Investigation of the license plates, officers said, led them to the home of the Woods.

Strazelle Under Arrest Again on New Complaints

J. V. Strazelle, president of the defunct Los Angeles Automobile Association, was arrested again yesterday on two charges of embezzlement and officers were seeking Charles W. Clark, an employee of the concern, on similar charges. Strazelle faces two previously made charges which are set for trial Tuesday before Municipal Judge Frederickson.

One of the new charges was made by William Nilsson of Van Nuys. He asserted he joined the association and was arrested last February in Burbank, on a speeding charge. He sent the association a money order for $25 to pay his fine, but the fine was never paid and Nilsson was arrested on a warrant and spent a night in jail. The second complaint was signed by Harry Tobin, a city employee, who declared he paid the association $39 for insurance and never received the policy.

City Prosecutor Lickley and Deputy City Prosecutor Concannon said they believed several thousand persons had received similar treatment from the association.

VERSATILITY

STILL OPEN
A great many more people can talk about their closed cars than about their closed car accounts.

MORE THAN EVER
They still talk a good deal about the gold rush to Weepah, Nev., but probably there are more genuine gold diggers at Reno.

VERY FOOLISH
Penny-wise Americans are the exception rather than the rule, but four-fifths of all the stout people you see are pound-foolish.

CARRYING ON
Persistence can accomplish wonders. Even a small-bore intellect, by perpetual expression of itself, may become a very great bore.

NO, INDEED!
Tell me not in mournful numbers
Life is but an empty dream,
With ripe cantaloupes in market
And fine weather for ice cream.

SYMPATHY STRIKE
Up in Petaluma the chicken pickers have gone on strike. And if they value their liberty those on Hill street had better do the same.

NO CHANCE TO LEARN
"Staying on" is the English expression for extending a stay. But H. R. H. is kept on the go so that he never has time for that, not even when on horseback.

IMITATION FACTS
An efficient defense lawyer in a murder trial doesn't always strive to bring out facts. Sometimes, it appears, he seems to prefer what might be called fact-similies.

ISRL NAILED
It is hardly fair to say that modern youths are too much given to arguing with their parents. More frequently they just go ahead and do what they want to without arguing.

A HINT TO HIM
In these days when marriageable girls are so much impressed by smart dressers of the male persuasion a young man had better have his suit pressed before pressing his suit.

WHY WORRY?
State legislators do not want the citizens of New York to have their shoes shined on Sunday. But the man on the golf course doesn't care to have his brogans gipsey, anyhow.

IMPOLITE
It would have been a bad breach of royal etiquette, but it would have tickled American listeners if to his speech of welcome to the President of France King George had added the terse query, "Why don't you pay your bills?"

FAST WORKER
There seems good reason for calling H. G. Wells the most remarkable writer of the day. He must be able to write with both hands at the same time and simultaneously manipulate—or pedal, rather—some sort of typing machine with his feet.

PITY THE JUDGE
Five hundred and ninety cases of traffic law violation heard by a single local court on one day. It's bad enough for one offender to have to tell it to the judge, but think of the man on the bench who has to listen to 590 separate and distinct alibis!

NEWS
The unusual, remarkable or astounding is always news. Except for events of great importance, only news of exceptional or startling happenings gets on the first page. But a little five-line dispatch from Augusta, Me., got there the other day. The headline read: "Wrecks Car Rather Than Hit Aged man."

RUSSIAN WAR FOOTING
Despite all the soviet protestations of peaceful intent toward the powers of earth, it is reported that Russia has of late greatly increased its standing army, which now numbers 650,000, while its militia forces raise the total to more than 1,000,000 and the reserves amount to 8,000,000. British correspondents at Moscow say that the soviet authorities are making greater preparations for the use of poisonous gases in warfare than are being made anywhere else in the world. This does not look much like peaceful intent. One would like to know what the overtaxed peasants, staggering under the heavy burden of soviet rule, think of the situation.

PEACE IN NICARAGUA
After lasting a little over a year the civil war in Nicaragua has come to an end and the political differences of the opposing factions are to be settled without further fighting. At least this is the report made by Henry L. Stimson, personal representative of President Coolidge in Nicaragua, and it is to be hoped that there is to be no new outbreak, for the recent fighting down there has given the United States trouble enough.

Our government had no desire to take sides, to meddle with the internal affairs of the little republic. But lives and property of foreigners were threatened; and the European governments made plain to our Secretary of State that if we did not protect their interests they would send their own marines to do so. In fact, a British war vessel was dispatched to Nicaraguan waters when there was a protest in the Senate against keeping our marines there.

It is distressing to note that with the news of the final defeat of the Liberals comes the report of the first serious casualties in the ranks of our marines since they were dispatched to Nicaragua. A captain and private were killed in a clash over the disarming of the rebels, and two other American marines were wounded. Our forces had gotten off very luckily in previous skirmishes, but it seems that it was their fate to suffer some loss in spite of their fine tact in the handling of the situation.

All this trouble in Nicaragua may be laid directly at the door of Gen. Emiliano Chamorro, leader of the so-called Liberals, whose outrageous political conduct precipitated the year-long civil strife. By a coup d'etat in October, 1925, Chamorro made himself Minister of War and afterward chief executive. As Chamorro had seized the Presidency by force, our government and those of most of the Central American States refused to recognize him under the terms of the Central American treaty of peace and amity of 1923.

A separatist movement was begun in October and Chamorro found himself out of a job. Dr. Sacasa succeeded him as leader of the Liberals, while at Managua a constitutional government was formed of which Diaz lately has been President. Sacasa's forces went on the warpath, made easy conquest of the west coast and engaged the Diaz troops in many battles. American interests at Bluefields and elsewhere were menaced by Sacasa, and American lives were endangered. On this account and for the restoration of peace in the embattled country our government sent several detachments of marines to preserve order and protect our own and other foreign interests. Our task was not a pleasant one. Primarily we had not the slightest desire to interfere and had hoped that the Diaz government might be able to settle affairs with the Liberals without our assistance. But this hope proved futile.

All we wanted, so far as Nicaragua was concerned, was the protection of the lives and property of our nationals, and when no assurance was given by either side to that effect we felt compelled to intervene, and did so. This action was protested most vigorously by certain Congressmen, among them Senator Borah, but President Coolidge, despite this protest, hearkened to the voice of duty by directing the marines to protect the lives and property of all foreigners.

This has been done, and what has followed has been all to the good for Nicaragua and American and other foreign interests there. Sympathy with our course in the little republic has been expressed openly by other Latin-American nations and tacitly by Argentina when it declined to act as arbiter in a settlement of the affair on the plea that this is not an opportune time to request the withdrawal of our marines from Nicaragua. But Argentina need have no grave concern on that score. Our marines will not be withdrawn until we are given full assurance that our nationals and our property in Nicaragua are in the hands of a local government strong enough to protect them.

TO OUTLAW STRIKES
On Monday the twenty-five labor-union members of the British Parliament marched out of the House of Commons in a body as a protest against the government bill declaring general and sympathetic strikes to be illegal and providing penalties for attempts at coercion or intimidation of independent workmen. But the House continued its deliberations, and there was no revolt anywhere in the kingdom. So the twenty-five labor unionists slipped back quietly on Wednesday to continue their futile opposition.

This bill is viewed alike with disfavor and alarm by the labor unionists and the radicals of Great Britain; for it deprives them of a weapon that has been used on the continent to coerce governments and start revolutions. The experience of the people of Great Britain last year with the general strike called by the labor unions was one that they do not care to repeat. Mass attacks by the labor unionists proved to be masked assaults on the government. They were shown to be Communistic movements and to be instigated in Moscow.

The present bill will write the word strike for the first time into the laws of Great Britain; and the word "strike" has its first legal definition. A strike, in the English legal interpretation, is "a concerted action of a number of persons employed acting in combination to cease or refuse work."

Four principles are enunciated in the present bill: The illegality of the general strike; the illegality of intimidation and coercion; no compulsion to subscribe to political funds; undivided allegiance of civil servants to the state. All these things are very objectionable to the labor-union leaders and to the British Communists. They destroy the very foundations of the Communist structure. But the bill is welcomed by the majority of the people of England and by their representatives in Parliament. The opposition has not been able to muster more than forty opposition votes in the House with a membership of several hundred.

So long as the general strike was used as a political weapon only on the continent of Europe—by the French Syndicalists, the German Socialists and the Russian Communists—the British Parliament took no official note of it. But when the British labor unionists sought to use it last year to bring an unsympathetic government to its knees public opinion was thoroughly aroused. The general strike ended in a humiliating defeat and, if the present bill becomes a law, those who attempt to foment a similar strike in the future will meditate on their folly in penal servitude.

This country had a slight experience a few years ago with the general strike. It was attempted in Seattle; and, while it proved a failure, its perpetrators went unpunished. That strike, it is well to remember, was indorsed by the American Federation of Labor. Public opinion in this country is so opposed to such forms of political coercion that another general strike is not likely to be attempted during the life of the present generation. The necessity is not yet apparent for a similar law here; but, if we were to have the experience of Great Britain, our reaction would probably be the same.

PROOF OF THE PUDDING
Advocates of public ownership of so-called public utilities studiously avoid extending their investigations to the rapidly developing republics of South America. Their growth in the last ten years has been almost beyond comparison. They have ceased to be revolutionary centers and are rapidly progressing in the art of government.

In the first decade of the present century they experimented, as did most other countries, with public ownership and operation; but where they found that a service could be performed more economically and efficiently by private interests they did not hesitate to discard experiments which were at the same time expensive and unsatisfactory.

Six years ago the Peruvian government entered into a contract with the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company to control and operate the postal, telegraph and wireless services of the country. The postal and telegraph service never paid expenses under government operation. Every year there was a substantial deficit. Under private operation the deficit has been turned into a profit to the government and to the people of 800,000 Peruvian pounds.

Like Peru, Bolivia was forced to face an annual deficit in the operation of the postal and telegraph services; and, profiting by the experience of a neighbor, Bolivia entered last month into a twenty-year contract with the Marconi Company for the operation of its telegraph and postal service.

Irrespective of locality, whenever political operation and business operation come into competition business operation wins. When one turns to the so-called liberal magazines of twenty years ago one finds pages devoted to the successful operation of the Glasgow municipal railways. Dalrymple, their general manager, was brought to Chicago to advise the city administration as to the advisability of municipal operation of the electric railways. He extended his investigations to Chicago politics, and the report which he made was never published. But it ended for the time the aspirations of the administration to operate municipal railways.

Dalrymple has passed; and Glasgow is still operating its electric railways, but now under a rising storm of protest from the taxpayers. For the accounts are running in red. The community protests any rise in rates; but political influence has caused a rise in wages; and the operating expenses, including interest payments, are so far above the annual income that there is every year a deficit, to be made up by borrowing, or taken from the tax fund.

Wherever the experiment has been tried there is adequate demonstration that the less the government, whether municipal or Federal, has to do with business the better it is, alike for business and for the government. At the present time only communities dominated by political rings are taking fliers in public ownership and operation of services that can be operated under public control by private interests.

A WAY OUT
If bootleggers must file income-tax returns, as reported from Washington, they had better give up their poisonous trade and peddle Volstead punch or Wayne Wheeler bitters. Otherwise there's going to be a little embarrassment somewhere, believe us.

The Thinker and the Problem

[Protected by George Matthew Adams]

NOT ON THE LEVEL
There is a fundamentalism of science and one of its orthodox tenets is the sea level. Nobody has dared to question its reliability.

Einstein may disprove that the sum of the angles of a triangle is two right angles and we surrender our theorems and axioms without a sigh. Possibly our early struggles robbed them of all sentiment.

However, when some modernist comes along and declares that sea level is different at different ports we begin to rebel. Sailors may have wives in every port; but we expect something better of the staid old sea. Its reputation has been as stable as the Ten Commandments. If a scientist were to prove that the sea level is variable confidence in all physical and moral laws would be shaken.

Yet this very thing is what H. G. Avers of the Coast Geodetic Survey has done. He is utterly conscienceless in uprooting our preconceived notions. He proclaims that the sea has hills and valleys just like the land. It is as unstable as a politician.

The mean sea level at Biloxi, Miss., is two centimeters below the mean sea level at Galveston, Tex. In turn the mean sea level at St. Augustine, Fla., is twenty-four centimeters below that of Galveston. At Portland, Me., it is thirty-one centimeters higher than at St. Augustine.

Man may be one of the variables; but to have the sea play fast and loose with us is exceedingly disheartening. If you cannot depend upon the sea being on the level, how can you be assured of the height of any mountain, the temperature and elevation at which water will boil? All our standards seem to be in a state of flux. Our minds have to be so open that an idea can blow in or out at the slightest whim.

STILL SOUND
Folks talk about modern decadence, but one can't help feeling faith in any country in which the recipe column and the hints to mothers are the most eagerly read departments in the papers.

OVERLOOKED
In a long magazine article headed "Advice to Wearers of Artificial Teeth" one notes the omission of the most important admonition of all, "Keep your mouth shut."

REASSURING INFORMATION
By James J. Montague

As through the years I've hurried
My destined race to run,
I've frequently been worried
By spots upon the sun.
I've spent long hours dreading
With deeply bated breath,
That these dark clouds by spreading
Would choke the sun to death.

And if the sun should perish
As suns are known to do,
This planet that we cherish
Would swiftly perish too.
And I and you together,
Deprived of light and air,
Would slip our worldly tether—
And go we know not where.

The sun have I inspected
Through telescopes to trace
The spots that were collected
Upon its flaming face;
I've watched them flare and quiver—
One, two and often three
And many a quake and shiver
The sight has given me.

But scientists inform us
To calm our foolish fears—
The sun is going to warm us
For fifteen trillion years.
And then if to perdition
Is swept this mundane sphere,
I harbor the suspicion
That I shall not be here.

PARLOR TRICKS

BY THE SUBURBANITE

I fear that I can never be known as "a gentleman to the fingertips" because I have the indefensible bad habit of biting my nails.

I've been doing it for years, though first my sisters and then my wife have not failed to lecture me unceasingly. I've grown so dependent on the habit that it seems I can't think properly without it. How many of these effervescent essays, on which countless thousands of readers count for continual guidance and enlightenment, would have died at the end of the first paragraph had I not stopped to bite a nail! It makes me shudder to think what humanity might have lost. And yet—

I am not one who believes that a gentleman can be made by a manicurist any more than one can be made by a tailor. Yet I readily admit that I cannot be called a gentleman while I persist in such an annoying habit. It is proof positive that I have not the consideration for others which is the first sign of a gentleman. It shows I have not the self-control a gentleman must have. The fact that I bite my nails unconsciously, while my mind is absorbed in other things, is no defense.

It comforts me to note that some of the ablest men I know have queer tricks of their own. One cannot concentrate without vigorously brushing his hair with one hand. Another makes odd clucking noises with his tongue whenever he gets greatly interested or excited. Another repeatedly pulls at his left ear. Another taps on his right cheek as if trying to telegraph his brain.

But they're all gentlemen. There's nothing distressing about their mannerisms. They are not beyond the pale, as we nail-biters are.

It's very silly for intelligent beings to cling to stunts like those. Yet so many of us have 'em that if any random dozen of us were thrown into a cage the monkeys would have great fun watching us.

FILOSOFISMS

BY FOOTHILL PHILOSOPHER

Righteous indignation? Well—did any little boy or girl in the class ever see an angry man who looked as if he were preparing to pose as a model for the painting of a saint?

You'll never get anywhere by gloating over the expose of a fake religious leader. There's more spiritual profit in contemplating the goodness of the truly good.

The counterfeit proves the existence of the genuine. There always have been and probably always will be hypocrites in every man-made organization—but are they worth thinking about and spending precious time talking about?

It is not how some one else lived or what he said—or whether he lived at all—that counts, but rather whether or not what he said or did has a bearing on your life for betterment. The actual phases of life are probably its least important phases. A "matter of fact" is insignificant compared to "the spirit of truth."

As a rule, when one begins to criticise everything outside of himself it is because he is dodging a good square look at his own soul. Let a man "get right" with himself and forget the other fellow—and the other fellow will always remember him with joy.

More About Julian

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have listened to the radio harangues of C. C. Julian on the subject of the mismanagement of the Julian Petroleum Corporation and what he describes as the crookedness of some of our prominent citizens and, as an investor who has lost a lot of money through Mr. Julian's own conduct of his various enterprises here, I would like to ask Mr. Julian how he gets that way. Instead of denouncing the men who have run Julian Petroleum since Julian was forced out of it after a financial scandal here, I would like to hear Mr. Julian explain what became of the thousands of dollars that were lost by innocent investors in Julian Petroleum when, under his management, the stock fell from $50 to $9 a share in spite of Mr. Julian's flamboyant bally-hoo in the newspapers. I would like to know what became of the money that was invested in some of Julian's oil syndicates that never paid out. I would like to hear what became of Western Lead, that Nevada mining proposition that Julian described in his ads as the biggest bonanza ever struck and whose stock was finally kicked off the Los Angeles Stock Exchange as "unfair to investors" after investigation by the authorities had demonstrated the fraudulent character of the claims made for it. Western Lead dropped from $2.30 a share to 50 cents before it was finally thrown bodily off the exchange and literally thousands of poor suckers lost their money. I would like to hear the real inside of the deal in C. C. Julian's Julian Merger Mines that led to the demand by the State Corporation Commission that C. C. Julian be prosecuted for selling stock in it here in violation of the Corporate Securities Act. I would like to hear how much money C. C. Julian made while the rest of us were losing ours. If C. C. Julian will explain some of these things to the people who have lost their money to him on the strength of his promises that never materialized I, for one, will listen to him with a lot more interest than when he is shouting over the radio that the Julian Petroleum stockholders have been swindled and that he is now going to protect them. Why didn't he protect them when they were his stockholders?

JAMES C. BRATHWAITE.

That Untrue Story

INGLEWOOD, May 13.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Is it to be wondered at that the French people are somewhat peeved at us, seeing the awful hoax we played on them with reference to the Atlantic flight of their national aviation idols?

On May 9 an extra of Los Angeles' largest evening paper informed the world in two-inch type that "Paris Flier Reaches United States Coast, Races to New York." It then went into detail as follows:

"By United Press, Washington, May 9. A Navy Department message from the Portsmouth (N. H.) naval base this afternoon said the Nungesser plane passed over Isle of Shoals at 3:03 p.m. Isle of Shoals is off Portsmouth about 225 miles from New York." The message, which came over the Navy leased wire from the Portsmouth naval base read, "French plane passed Isle of Shoals at 15:03," 3:03 p.m. eastern standard time. We know now how the French people, anxiously awaiting news of their compatriots, went delirious with joy on receipt of this message and what their emotions were on discovering the truth. Is it to be wondered at that their rejoicing turned to grief mingled with anger at the United States for the part we played in the foul deception? And is it to be wondered at that they took the report, coming as it did from Washington, and over a government wire from a naval base, as being authentic?

It is quite understandable that a few hotheads—and we have plenty in America—should have shown their resentment before the United States Embassy in Paris. We know how we would have felt if the situation was reversed and the rotten stunt was pulled off on the American people. Surely it is up to us to trace this matter down and set us right before the French nation. ROBERT B. OWEN.

Cash and Carry Housewives

LOS ANGELES, May 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Hands across the rotten tomato piles to Francis Porter. As I was cutting up a dubious tomato I wondered wrathfully if the cash-and-carry housewives of Los Angeles would never rebel against buying a pig in a poke at the vegetable markets. And then my eye fell gladsomely upon the letter of Francis Porter.

I know that all customers cannot have the pick of the produce and I am willing to take the average. I also know some customers pinch and punch a self-respecting vegetable and then go on without buying to repeat the performance at the next stand. But this does not excuse the custom of the venders in presenting an absolutely deceptive show of their wares—such a fair outside while within that mysterious space into which no customer may peer are, if not dead men's bones, something equally malodorous. What I object to is that we all get the worst vegetables and with them considerable impertinence. Another thing that worries me is, what becomes of the good vegetables? Nobody ever is permitted to buy them. I want the riddle solved.

NEW BAND OPEN FOR BROADCAST

Assignment of 199.9 Meters to WCDA Reported

Zoellner Program Includes Request Number

KHJ Children Will Visit at Orange Show

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Among the fairly recent assignment of broadcast channels is that of WCDA, Brooklyn, which now is authorized to operate on 199.9 meters, or 1500 kilocycles.

This immediately brings to mind the distinction between broadcast and amateur bands and where the line between the two is to be drawn. There has been a prevailing opinion that 199.9 is entirely an amateur channel, although it is equally as true that it has not been in use much by code operators.

If it develops that this 199.9 meter length is designated to be considered entirely within the band of broadcast use, it means that one more channel is thereby added to the eighty-nine used by this country, thus making ninety separate and exclusive broadcast channels.

The Federal Radio Commission has to date made no official announcement on this point but if they ratify that wave length as a broadcast channel entirely it will give a trifle more space to the radio studios on the air.

ZOELLNER QUARTET

Last evening at KHJ the Zoellner Quartet in their weekly radio recital again demonstrated that the appreciation of classic music by the multitude lies in the ability of the performers to give a living, artistic and finished technical interpretation of the composer's thoughts.

Being artists of the highest type the Quartet can convey to an audience that the D Minor Quartet of Mozart, as played by the Zoellners, lives with bone, sinew and spirit even though the composer has long since died. Mozart represents the culmination of the classic type in music.

Perhaps some readers of this column will question the meaning of the term "classic." In a general way a book, picture or musical composition becomes a classic when it is universally accepted as a model of its kind.

In this sense Grey's "Elegy in a Country Churchyard" is a classic as well as Lincoln's Gettysburg address. The term classic is likewise applied to Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, and to Schumann's Traumerei. In brief, classic in music refers to outline and simplicity of harmony.

REQUEST NUMBER

One of the high spots in the classic radio recital was the "Air on G String" by Bach, arranged for viola by Joseph, Sr., and played by him with great skill and penetration of the meaning of the work.

One of the finest compositions played by the Zoellner Quartet which always brings a flood of requests for another rehearing, is "Cantus Loci," by Thern. This was again played last evening in response to a score of written requests. Originally a choral work for men's voices, it was has been arranged for string quartet by the quartet founder, Joseph Zoellner, Sr. So great is its appeal that a phonographic recording of this great work has been made by the group which played it on last night's KHJ broadcast.

Other numbers on the recital were Glinka's "The Lark," as well as his well-known "Minuet." The groups of baritone solos by Leo H. Rensiper, which interspersed the instrumental selections were: "Thy Beaming Eyes," by America's composer, MacDowell; the Tschaikowsky, "Don Juan," Herrschoff's "To The Desert," and the Rimsky-Korsakoff, "Song of India," which the singer presented in Russian with unusual expression and feeling.

CHILDREN'S HOUR

The children's hour saw the following in the KHJ studio: Jeanne de Bard, "Bonnie Jeanne," in a musical reading; "The Canary;" Joyce Coad, "Little Red Riding Hood," in recitations; Arthur L. Sisson, "Teedle-de-dee," with a reading by Eugene Field; Nelita Bennett, "Gingerbread Girl," in popular song hits; Joseph Rhodes, juvenile cornet soloist, and pupil of Dr. E. M. Hiner; Rosetta Lewin, "Curly Locks," in "granpop" jokes; and David Rosenthal, pupil of Lewis D'Ippolito, Thompson Progressive School of Music, with two saxophone solos, "Sax King," a caprice by Chenette and the Sanderson ballad, "Until."

Instead of the usual KHJ Concert Trio half-hour program at 6 o'clock, the Ray-O-Vac Twins, Russ Wildey and Bill Sheehan, entertained for that period with their song and patter. These popular purveyors of radio entertainment were at San Diego over the week-end and at the close of their local stay in a few weeks the twins will continue their nation-wide visit to broadcast studios.

TALENT AT SHOW

The evening in the California Valencia Orange Show at Anaheim Uncle John will present some of the KHJ children during the entertainment features; Pal O' Mine, Queen Titania Sandman, Doty Twins and Harl, Dick Winslow, Roberta Bush, Nona Clapp, Viola Esen, Collins Twins and Verna Weil.

Over KFWO this evening there will be speakers representing the California Association of Optomerists who are in annual convention at Catalina.

The weekly broadcast from the Breakfast Club this morning from 8 to 10 will be from the new glass inclosed Pavilion of Friendship which has a seating capacity of 1000 at the breakfast table.

PROFESSOR TO TALK ON ART OF FRANCE

Illustrated by lantern slides, a lecture on "Modern French Art" is to be given by Prof. Regis Michaud, formerly of Princeton University, at a gathering of the Alliance Francaise of Los Angeles at the Ebell Club, 1719 South Figueroa street, today at 8:15 p.m., according to announcement of Dr. Lawrence M. Riddle, head of the department of French at the University of Southern California and secretary of the local Alliance Francaise. The most recent developments in contemporary and outstanding French paintings of today will be discussed and exhibited by M. Michaud, who has returned recently from Paris.

NEWS OF THE CAFES

A recent communication from R. L. Bisby, manager of St. Ann's Inn, in Santa Ana, states: "Decoration Day comes on Monday, the 30th inst., so that gives us a real excuse for celebrating two days, Sunday and Monday. We will serve continuously from 12 o'clock noon until 8 p.m. on these days, and it goes without saying that we will put up something special for Decoration Day. Every person who has dinner at this hotel on either one of these days will receive a small silk American flag.

"Appropriate entertainment has been arranged, and in addition we will have the Boy Scouts camped on the lawn, a real martial display."

CADMAN ON PROGRAM AT BROADWAY

Last Concert of Week to be Offered This Afternoon in Store's Music Salon

The last of the week of concerts given by Broadway Department Store, Inc., in its music salon on the eighth floor, takes place today when Charles Wakefield Cadman, assisted by Rosalie Barker Frye, contralto, and Bessie Irene Chapin, violinist, will appear. Miss Chapin will be accompanied at the piano by Margaret Kintz Duncan.

Mr. Cadman is enjoying more popularity this year than ever. Professional organizations everywhere are presenting his works, and his operettas for high schools are proving especially popular.

Mrs. Frye, who sings Mr. Cadman's songs, was chosen by the composer to assist him in this concert, for the rich, round quality of her voice, and for her magnetic personality.

Miss Chapin, violinist, also has won the approbation of Mr. Cadman. Of her he says, "Her tone is of remarkable power and depth, and although of masculine strength, is characterized by spirituality, refinement and smoothness."

Each day the Broadway's music salon has been filled to capacity, and the store is making special arrangements to seat comfortably everyone who accepts the invitation to attend this afternoon's performance. It begins promptly at 2:30 o'clock. Seats are complimentary.

If "That Schoolgirl Complexion" is your aim

By NORMA SHEARER

THERE are both proved and unproved rules in skin care.

The following is credited with more beautiful complexions than any other known—the rule that sums up modern beauty culture, both in Europe and America.

Follow it for one week—especially before bed. Then note the improvement in your skin. Use powder, rouge or make-up all you wish. But do not let them remain over night.

Wash the face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Rinse with warm water; then with cold. That is all—it's nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion.

But be sure you get the real Palmolive. A soap made solely for one purpose: to safeguard your skin. Sixty years of soap study stand behind it.

Get 10c Palmolive now. Use no other on your face. Experimenting with unproved soaps is a folly. Good complexions are too priceless for that. The Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, U. S. A.

Give them all they want

For once the children are right. Here is something they tease for that you need not hold back. It's Heinz Peanut Butter.

Give them all they can eat. Spread their bread or crackers thick. It is as good as it tastes.

Heinz Peanut Butter is made from a choice blend of Spanish and Virginia peanuts. After the nuts are roasted, the finest are selected. From these the bitter hearts and skins are removed. Then they are ground to a creamy butter that spreads easily and does not dry out.

This peanut butter is so good, so full of flavor, that children, and grown-ups too, just can't seem to get enough.

Satisfy your longing for perfect coffee with a cup of Hills Bros

What does the cook-book say about making muffins? Combine the milk and flour a little at a time. Thus you control the mixing process and get a perfect batter. Secession Significance

"Is the proposed secession of the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's Clubs politically significant to the State of California?" was the subject of State Senator Harry A. Chamberlain, speaking before the Women's Political League meeting yesterday in the Windsor Tea Rooms at the Brack-Shops, Dora Stearns presiding.

Senator Chamberlain stated that the experience of the Los Angeles district women in Sacramento two weeks ago was very similar to the battle the Los Angeles Assemblymen and Senators waged in the State Legislature. He said that neither club women nor Assemblymen can as a rule rely upon support of other Southern California counties. He mentioned Riverside, Imperial, San Bernardino and San Diego. He said there is no way to account for the lack of friendliness of these counties, unless it is jealousy, which makes their opposition so pronounced.

The speaker also asserted that the only way that San Diego could get the State convention of the California Federation of Women's Clubs for next year was by the promise of that county's delegates before the Sacramento convention, to hold Riverside and San Bernardino counties in line with the northern part of the State. This, he said, was effectively done at Sacramento and accounted in great measure for the Los Angeles district being forced to fight its battle alone.

Senator Chamberlin said that, although he is a native son, his sentiment regarding State division is fast turning toward the necessity for such a division because the desires of the people of the north are so inimicable to those of the south.

Rainy Days and Restless Children

The ingenious mother has a few tricks put away for rainy day play for the kiddies. One woman saves all boxes that come to the house and always has a few rolls of cheap wallpaper on hand and on rainy days the kiddies are given the usually forbidden privilege of mucilage and scissors and they cover the boxes for Christmas or birthday gifts. Being allowed this amusement only on such occasions it never loses its novelty or thrill.

For the Taller Woman

The right height for the gas stove is just as important as the correct height for the work table and the sink. The gas stove can be placed at any height desired by means of wooden blocks under its feet.

Catholic Women's Club

Mrs. William McLaughlin achieved a triumph when she succeeded in having Mr. Montague Shaw and Margaret Bourne on the same program at the last meeting, according to club members. They were assisted by Mrs. Montague Shaw and David Preston, singer of Shakespearean songs.

Scenes from "Twelfth Night," "Julius Caesar," "Merchant of Venice" and the murder scene from "Macbeth" brought applause such as has not been accorded any of the exceptionally fine programs that the club, through Mrs. McLaughlin, presented this year.

Mr. W. Prestin sang a traditional surrey song, "Some Rival Has Stolen My True Love Away."

Council of Jewish Women

Three children's play and a pantomime staged by the children of council members at the final meeting of the year proved such a success that it was decided to continue work in the children's classes and another

Three children's plays and a pantothe near future. The next meeting of the classes will be tomorrow morning, after which there will be two classes a week.

The Big Sister organization of the council, of which Mrs. Harold Blumenthal is chairman, has many constructive plans for the club year, beginning in September. It is hoped that each member of the group will take a "little sister" as her especial protegee. This group will give a luncheon in the early fall, at which time plans for the year will be discussed. A training course for interested workers is being planned similar to the one given last March and April by Dr. Van Norman Emory of the child-guidance clinic, Dr. Erie Fiske Young of the University of Southern California, Dr. Miriam Van Waters and other social-service workers.

Mrs. Joseph Ferguson is chairman of the council's summer camp, which will be held in the Pacific Palisades at Santa Monica the first two weeks in August. Here girls will be taught swimming, dancing, dramatics, art, batique, woodcraft and other delightful pastimes by trained teachers.

Mrs. Lillian B. Goldsmith is leaving shortly for Spokane, where she will represent the Los Angeles section at the western interstate conference of the National Council of Jewish Women. Delegates will come from California, Oregon, Washington and British Columbia. Mrs. Goldsmith has been asked to address the City Federation of Women's Clubs and she will also speak on Memorial evening and at the banquet of the interstate conference.

Frederick Wardo Honored

Mr. and Mrs. George Chase of 2425 Esri street are opening their beautiful tropic gardens for a garden party Sunday in honor of Dr. Frederick Wardo and the members of the Los Angeles Shakespeare Club, with whom he has been closely associated during the last few months.

Dr. Wardo is leaving Los Angeles the 24th inst. for his home in New York, where he will take a much-needed vacation, returning to Los Angeles the middle of December.

Osteopathic Women

The Southern California division of the Osteopathic Women's National Association is entertaining as honored guests Dr. Jennette Bolles, national president, and Dr. Evelyn Bush, national vice-president, at dinner in the Windsor Tea Room today at 6:30 p.m.

Following the dinner program the organization will hold its annual business meeting and election of officers.

Scribblers' League

Gertrude C. Maynard, authority on authors and "best sellers," will speak at the Scribblers' meeting to be held tomorrow on the twelfth floor of the Fine Arts Building, 811 West Seventh street, at 8 p.m. "Early and Modern American Poets" will be the subject for the lesture.

Mr. Elroy A. Thomas will present several Boy Scouts in a literary and musical program. The numbers will represent the Boy Scout Press, two readings, violin and cornet solos, individual instrumental solos.

Verse and short stories written by members will be read and criticised.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

...M. C. writes: My 9 ...old baby weighs twelve ...and one-half ounces. ...gained ever four pounds since ... very constipated, as I ... is what proportions? I ... young for orange ... milk of magnesia ... all the time."

Even if the baby's gain is not steady each week his gain for nearly four months has been six pounds which is not only average, but very good. Five ounces of a feeding which should not be stronger than half milk and half water is correct. The use of slightly more sugar would help the constipation, as one-half a teaspoonful is not enough for a five-ounce feeding. Use a level teaspoonful and see what this will do.

The diet leaflet given through this department helps the mother with feeding from six weeks on. Won't you send the proper self-addressed and stamped envelope for this?

Grandmother Wants to Help

Mrs. C. T. D. R. writes: Having a grandmotherly feeling, I wish to help a fellow-struggler by relating my experience. My grandson has been constipated from the time his mother came home from the hospital. He has had enemas, suppositories and an occasional dose of castor oil; all to no avail. At one year and nine months he was left in my care and I was startled to find that the child was having a painful time passing a hard, impacted stool. I took a "flyer" and started giving two teaspoonfuls of mineral oil, heated, and well mixed in his bottle at night and the same at eleven the next day. Also thin slices of apple. In one week the child was having a natural movement and that is six weeks ago and he has had to have but one enema since."

Mineral oil is a most successful laxative. One must not expect immediate results. It takes about a week.

FILM FANS TO BE REAL BOSS

Salesmen Will Tell Officials What Public Wants

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and First National Meet

Delegates See Stars When They Visit Studios

Changing tastes in cinema appetites as evidenced by the public the world over in the past year will be discussed by delegates from all points of the compass at sales conventions of two of the large motion-picture companies of Los Angeles here today.

At the Ambassador 375 delegates attending the First National Pictures, Inc., sales convention will tell the men who make the films what they have found the public likes best. In turn they will hear an outline of forty-five pictures which First National is to produce in the next year.

The object of the convention, is to get these ideas from the men who are in closest contact with the theater-going public and use them in producing the next year's output and at the same time acquaint the salesmanagers with what they are to have to offer their patrons.

At the Biltmore 200 delegates to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer convention will make similar reports to their production heads. Both conventions are to continue through until Tuesday night. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer delegates are to have a session on Sunday but the First National men will spend Sunday in rest and recreation. Many trips and entertainments have been planned.

Special trains brought the delegations for both conventions to Los Angeles yesterday morning and both parties spent most of the morning and afternoon in visiting their studios, watching pictures made, meeting the stars they boost to their public, and attending previews of big pictures they are soon to present.

The First National delegates arrived at the Santa Fe station at 10:40 a.m. and were met by city officials and a large delegation of actors from Hollywood who gave them a hearty welcome. All of the men were dressed alike in white trousers, blue coats, straw hats with the blue First National band, and carried canes. They lined up in parade formation and, accompanied by bands, a group of girls in costume, and large numbers of friends, they marched through the city streets to let the world know they were in town. At Fifth street and Grand avenue they boarded buses and were taken to the Ambassador where they had luncheon.

In the afternoon they went to the studio where they saw Colleen Moore, Dorothy Mackaill, Dick Barthelmess, Molly O'Day, Natalie Barr, Maria Corda, Charles Murray and others, making pictures. Ken Maynard put on a rodeo for them. At 6 p.m. they paid a visit to the new Chinese Theater and at 7 p.m. were guests of the company at a dinner at the Ambassador. At 8 p.m. they saw previews of important pictures at the Ambassador Theater.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer delegates got their first touch of the West when they were routed out of their berths at San Bernardino by a volley of pistol shots and fiendish yells. They looked out of their windows to find the train stopped and a band of cowboys and Indians very evidently staging a hold-up. But it was only a stage hold-up led by Tim McCoy and Harry Carey. They also had a parade when they reached Los Angeles. Going direct to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios they were shown several pictures in the process of making. Then they were treated to a luncheon served on the lot in a specially arranged garden set where Fred Niblo introduced most of the famous Metro stars. One star was seated with each table of delegates so they all got a chance to get well acquainted with one of the constellation. Following the luncheon they were taken to the Meralta Theater for a preview of Lon Chaney's latest, "The Unknown." Then dinner at the Biltmore and a preview of "Old Heidelberg" at the Boulevard Theater.

How First National is to spend $24,000,000 in the next year at its new seventy-five-acre studio is to be one of the problems which First National delegates intend to take up today. The big bosses hope to be able to get some ideas from their sales-managers that will aid them in producing the pictures that will appeal most to the people. Robert Lieber, chairman of the board of directors and Richard A. Rowland, first vice-president and general manager, were among the important officials who arrived with the First National train. John McCormick, general manager of West Coast production for the company, is official host for the convention.

Among the important delegates with the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer group are Felix Feist, general sales manager; Arthur Loew, foreign manager; W. F. Rodgers, eastern manager; E. M. Saunders, western manager; T. J. Connors, southern manager, and Fred Quimby, manager of the newly created short-subjects department.

Hold-up Renews Hunt for Two In Police Shooting

Search for the bandits who shot Officers Foster and Coltman at Florence and McKinley streets was renewed early Thursday morning when two women reported being held up last night on Sunset Boulevard between La Brea and Sycamore streets, by men answering the description of the bandits.

The woman, Mrs. W. C. Shepherd, 1438 Cherokee street, and Mrs. Margaret Harbottle, 1421 Cherokee street, were returning from a lecture about 10 o'clock when two men stepped out from behind a tree, confronted them with guns and demanded their money. The men took their pocketbooks, containing $9, and fled.

According to Mrs. Harbottle, one of the men had a broken nose, which is said to tally with the description of one of the men who shot the officers. One of the men carried a small-caliber pistol. It was with a .25-caliber weapon that the officers were shot.

SMUGGLING SUSPECTS TAKEN IN LONG CHASE

After a chase of several miles along the highways north of Calexico, Mariano and Benito Peraza were captured early yesterday by immigration inspectors and charged with having smuggled three alien Arabian subjects across the border. The two men were arraigned before United States Commissioner Head, who set bond at $2000 each and the 24th inst. for hearing.

DUNCANS WITH UNITED ARTISTS

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

The famous Duncan sisters, Rosetta and Vivian, are signing within the next day or two for a long-term contract with United Artists, according to announcement made yesterday by Joseph M. Schenck, head of the organization.

ROSETTA DUNCAN

The idea of the new contract, as explained by Mr. Schenck, is that the talented sisters shall make one big special a year for the company, giving the rest of their time to the stage, as they do not wish to give up that work in which they have been so brilliantly successful.

A story is now being sought for them, and will be one which shall especially suit their talents, said Mr. Schenck. It is possible that their next story will be that of their own lives contained in "The Heavenly Twins."

In the meantime, a tremendous point of interest concerning "Topsy and Eva" which the girls are just finishing, is that it is altogether likely that the master director, D. W. Griffith himself, supervisor of Art Finance Corporation, will supervise and personally direct some of the dramatic scenes of the pictures, one or two of the most important sequences of which have been left until the last.

That D. W. Griffith has so deeply interested himself in the film argues his enthusiastic faith in it, and indeed he is said to have been delighted with that portion of the picture which is completed; and that he is willing to lend his aid to it augurs the absolute assurance of the success of this first effort.

But, pray don't go away yet. This is not by any means all the news. It is reported on good authority that "Topsy and Eva" will be shown at Grauman's Egyptian Theater, with a brilliant prologue, including a Pickaninny Ballet.

The Duncan sisters incidentally have taken a house at Santa Monica, on the beach, which they will make their headquarters all summer, retaining it even while they make their tour of the country with the pictured "Topsy and Eva."

Sam Warner Heads Vitaphone

Vitaphone is to have a head. Said head will be Sam L. Warner, of Warner Brothers, which firm is responsible for the success and the exploitation of Vitaphone, the invention, as you know which helps to hitch the talkies up with the movies.

Sam Warner is expected to arrive from New York early next week, and with his arrival activities will begin in the Hollywood studios of Vitaphone, which have just been constructed on the Warner lot.

As Mr. Warner has been in charge of Vitaphone development in the East since Warner Brothers took the sight-sound invention under their banner, he is most expert in the working details of the Vitaphone laboratories there, and will initiate production here in the same manner which has brought Vitaphone such great success. Four big sound-proof stages have been built especially to be used for Vitaphone production, including both those subjects essentially musical, and the accompaniments of other pictures.

This is Warner's first visit to Hollywood in over a year. Under his charge more than 350 Vitaphone subjects have been made in the eastern studios of that synchronized invention. Among these are numbers by Al Jolson, George Jessel, Marion Tally, Martinelli, Mischa Elman and others noted in the musical world. It is expected that Warner will be here five or six week before returning to his New York duties. During this time the first picture to have Vitaphone interpolations right in the story, "The Jazz Singer," will be started.

H. B. Warner in "Sorrell"

It is practically all settled, according to the statement yesterday of Joseph M. Schenck, head of United Artists, that H. B. Warner is to play the lead in "Sorrell and Son," the lead in this case meaning Sorrell pere.

H. B. WARNER

Since Warner's overwhelming success in "The King of Kings," which had the most spectacular opening at the new Grauman's Chinese Theater of any theatrical production ever shown, perhaps, east or west, his services are naturally tremendously in demand for many sorts of roles. If Cecil B. De Mille makes the oriental story, "Silk," Warner will have a star role in that. However, it seems now that it is not likely that De Mille will do this, as "The King of Kings," which he directed, seems to make it advisable for him to produce only the greatest themes obtainable.

In the meantime "Sorrell and Son" is to be given a most lavish and painstaking production, with Warner in all probability in the star male role.

Anna Q. Nilsson has been mentioned as a strong possibility for the leading feminine role, but so far the part has not been definitely cast. Miss Nilsson at present is playing a big starring role for Universal, and it is possible that she will not be finished in time for "Sorrell and Son."

Barbara Bedford with M.-G.-M.

That clever young actress, Barbara Bedford, seems to be just metaphorically skipping from one excellent role to another these days.

BARBARA BEDFORD

Her latest engagement, announced yesterday, is as leading woman opposite Lon Chaney in Chaney's next Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, "The Terror," by Benjamin Christianson, which Christianson will direct.

This role will probably be the greatest which Miss Bedford has ever played. It is said that it was her excellent work in First National's "The Notorious Lady" which won her the part.

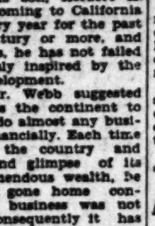
Richard Blayden Promoted

That ambitious young worker in the vineyard of art, Richard Blayden, is by way of rapidly coming up in the world. Blayden came west four years ago and got himself a job as a property man with Paramount. Then he became an assistant director during the making of nine productions.

Yesterday it became known that he has been promoted, through his efficient services, to the post of unit production manager. His first assignment under his new contract will be as unit production manager with "Tell It to Sweeney."

James Hall Loaned

While no contracts have been signed, it is understood that negotiations are on between Columbia and Paramount for the loan of James Hall by the latter organization to appear in an important production, "Ballie of the Alley," costarring Hall and Shirley Mason.



JAMES HALL

Columbia is rapidly climbing to one of the first places in picturedom by sheer quality of its recent pictures and the excellent players engaged to appear in them.

Bretherton to Direct

Howard Bretherton has been engaged to direct Monte Blue's next starring vehicle, "The Bush Leaguer," according to announcement issuing from Warner Brothers' studio.

The director made his debut this year by directing one of Rin-Tin-Tin's most successful productions, "Hills of Kentucky," since which time he directed Monte Blue in "The Black Diamond Express."

"Nevada" Company Travels

Leaving today for the State of Utah will be members of the Paramount company which is to make "Nevada," the Zane Grey story in which Gary Cooper will be starred.

One hundred and fifty people in all will make the trip to location in Utah, and it is expected their stay will be for several weeks.

CALIFORNIA INSPIRATION FOR WORLD

C. J. Webb of Philadelphia Says Los Angeles Will be Third City in America

Aside from its other virtues, California distributes more downright inspiration to the world at large than virtually any other spot on the map, in the opinion of Charles J. Webb of Philadelphia, one of the world's largest buyers and distributors of raw wool.

Mr. Webb, at present a guest at the Biltmore with his son, Herbert K. Webb, has been coming to California once or twice every year for the past quarter of a century or more, and each time, he says, he has not failed to be tremendously inspired by the State and its development.

Incidentally, Mr. Webb suggested that a trip across the continent to California would do almost any business man good financially. Each time he has crossed the country and gained a first-hand glimpse of its vastness and tremendous wealth, he declared, he has gone home convinced that his business was not large enough. Consequently it has grown until now it reaches into virtually all corners of the United States and the world. A good part of the wool which he buys annually comes from California.

"It is simply astounding to see the progress here in the last few years," he said. "I predict that in the next ten years your city will rank third in size in America, and though my home is in Philadelphia I am willing to underwrite my prophecy."

Mr. Webb will go from here to San Diego and then return home.

TWO FALL DEAD WHILE ON STREET

One Woman Stricken as She Waits for Car and Other in Conversation

Mrs. Sally Oppenheimer, 65 years of age, a widow, dropped dead yesterday while seated on a bench waiting for a street car in front of 1557 West Seventh street, police reported. Marjorie Welch, 1606 South Van Ness avenue, saw her collapse and notified police.

Mrs. Oppenheimer was identified by her son Frank, with whom she lived at 915 Grattan Place. Death was attributed to natural causes.

Miss Cynthia Knowles, 50 of 2134 Manning avenue, Westwood, collapsed while talking to P. A. Fleming, who lives at the Fremont Hotel, Fifth and Hill streets yesterday, police reported. She died on the way to the Receiving Hospital. It was reported a blood clot was the cause of death.

Mrs. Oppenheimer was identified by her son, Frank, with whom she lived at 915 Grattan Place. Death was attributed to natural causes.

DIPLOMAT DELAYED BY DYSPEPSIA

German Ambassador Halts to Recover from Banquets and Will Arrive Today

Suffering from an attack of indigestion, caused by attending too many banquets during his ten-week tour, Baron Ago Von Maltzan, German Ambassador, sought seclusion in a Santa Barbara hotel last night and postponed his proposed arrival in Los Angeles twelve hours. He will arrive today at noon in time to attend a luncheon tendered at the Alexandria in his honor.

The Ambassador will leave Santa Barbara at 8:30 o'clock this morning. An automobile caravan of German-American citizens will greet him near Cahuenga Pass, escorting him to the Alexandria, where the Chamber of Commerce will extend the official welcome. Mayor Cryer, President McGarry of the commercial body and leading business men will attend.

Seigfrid C. Hagen, German Consul here, will escort the visitor on a tour of the Hollywood studios this afternoon. At Universal City he will be a guest of Carl Laemmle, witnessing the picture showing the arrival of the German warship Hamburg in the harbor here last year. In the evening, a dinner will be given in his honor by Emil Jannings, German character actor. Saturday morning he will visit the beaches, having luncheon at the Hotel Virginia, Long Beach. Later in the day he will be the guest of Carl Laemmle at a garden party at the Laemmle home.

Approximately 1000 persons are expected to attend the banquet to be given tomorrow night at the Biltmore in honor of the Ambassador. Rufus Von KleinSmid, Max Socha, Mr. Hagen and Ambassador Maltzan will be speakers.

HENLEY WINS ELECTION AT UNIVERSITY

Heavy Vote Cast in Student Body Race for Officers and Editorships for Year

Polling one of the largest votes in the history of the institution, officers and editors for the coming year were chosen in the all-university student body election at the University of Southern California yesterday.

Catherine Colwell was chosen vice-president, winning over Betty Kleinsmid, 1417 to 713.

Five members of the executive committee were chosen out of thirteen candidates, polling votes as follows: Ruth Carr, 541; Stanley Hopper, 522; Harold Kilpert, 486; Morgan Cox, 488, and Bert Beghlow, 366. All members of the committee were chosen from the liberal arts college. Class presidents of other colleges chosen in their senior elections will make up the remainder of the committee.

Candidates whose selection was ratified by the student body without competition were, David Bryant, El Rodeo editor; Ralph Huston, editor of the Trojan; Bernice Palmer, secretary, and Paul Elmquist.

Prof. James A. Mussatti was in charge of the elections.

NEW COTTON FACILITIES FOR HARBOR

Additions to Compressing Equipment Planned After Trade Men Meet Board

Following conference yesterday of the Harbor Commission and members of the Los Angeles Cotton Exchange, General Harbor Manager Cole announced that plans for the erection of additional cotton compress facilities at the local port are under way.

Cole declined to state just what the plans are. He said that several propositions are being considered, but would not indicate whether the Harbor Commission intends to establish another compress or the cotton owners will build and operate their own.

An agreement is expected within a few days when an announcement will be made, according to Cole.

The conference yesterday followed the appearance of the cotton men before the Harbor Commission the preceding day, when they stated that unless additional compressing facilities are installed either by the commission or private interests the port will lose shipments approximating 130,000 bales annually. This would mean heavy losses to the port in wharfage and other charges, it was pointed out.

Divorced Wife of Film Actor to Marry Again

No date was announced for the ceremony other than that it will take place before the year slips around. At the present time, Mr. Miljan is engaged with Warner Oland in the filming of the Warner Brothers' production, "What Happened to Father."

Though Mrs. Hale and Mr. Miljan have known each other for many years, even their most intimate friends were unaware of their romance.

ORANGE EXHIBITION OPEN

of his remarks, held aloft a beautiful child who by the aid of a silken cord turned the pages of a gigantic enchanted story book swung across the end of the main tent displaying the old familiar nursery rhymes which furnish the theme around which the show is built.

PAST RIVALED

The show this year is much more beautiful than ever before and has called forth many compliments for those making it possible. The decorations carry out in detail many of the old-time fairy stories and impress upon the visitor the fact that California is a fairyland in real life, where dreams actually do come true. Each of the feature displays takes up one or another of the tales we all listened to at our mother's knees and for this reason have more appeal than is usual at expositions of this kind.

Outstanding among the exhibits is that of Los Angeles county, where Queen Titania holds royal court in a fairy bower built of 20,000 oranges. A five-horsepower motor makes the mechanical effect possible and pumps water for the four fountains used in the display. "Goldie Locks" and the "Three Bears" is used by the National Orange Show of San Bernardino to good effect in a beautiful display. Pasadena Tournament of Roses has chosen "Mary, Mary, quite contrary" and answers the question, "How does your garden grow?" by displaying a profusion of wonderful blooms. "Little Red Riding Hood" is the motif of Pomona's most artistic display, and "Alice in Wonderland" forms the theme of a beautiful booth representing the city of Orange. Artistic lighting effects make Santa Ana's "Little Bo Peep" near perfect. "The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe" is used by Huntington Beach in a very creditable manner, while Princess Yorba Linda comes sailing to the Orange Empire in a fairy ship of gold.

ELABORATE DISPLAY

The rack display about the side walls of the tents are the most elaborate of any of the shows yet given and reflect great credit upon the management of the Mutual Orange Distributors, the American Fruit Growers and others who have made this section of the show a real artistic triumph.

Sunkist have a modern ranch home made of oranges and lemons christened "the house that Sunkist built," which is a feature attraction. A frieze painted in bright colors and showing Jack and the bean stalk, the man who jumped into the bramble bush, and the cow with the crumpled horn, and every other rhyme and story of childhood days completes a picture which truly creates a fairyland in a heyday world.

Aside from the tent of feature displays, the Anaheim show is not lacking in the other features which make an event of this kind a success. The industrial tent under the direction of Charles Harbison, is filled to overflowing with displays by merchants and manufacturers and shows the newest in everything for the home, office, factory, farm and garden. The automotive display is the biggest in the history of the show, with a tent 200 by 100 devoted to the thirty-six displays of the latest on wheels.

A great midway made up of the usual rides, side shows, hot-dog stands and hamburger booths creates a joy zone which the youth of the community is enjoying to the uttermost. A novel feature is a printing plant installed by the printing and journalism departments of the Anaheim High School, under the direction of Lloyd Ross, instructor, where a daily four-page paper and program will be issued.

Directory of Social Service Agencies Issued

The staff of the City Social Service Department, located at 415 International Building, 116 West Temple street, has completed a social service directory, embodying a brief synopsis of the activities of the cities private and public charitable and philanthropic organizations. A partial list of the welfare agencies in the near-by communities is also included. Four hundred and fifty-four agencies are described.

Separate announcement will be made concerning the distribution of these books to charitable organizations. One copy will be issued free to each fraternal and labor organization, State society, service club, business men's association, church and to each firm or business house that has a need for the directory. The groups mentioned which desire one of the directories should send a representative to the office of the Social Service Commission for the book.

SILK-HAT COMEDIAN PERFORMS

Raymond Griffith Turns Athlete in Latest Comedy for Paramount

To one shiny silk hat and the accompanying bag of tricks as a sophisticated man about town, add an ample measure of dizzy, daring feats, and—it is Raymond Griffith in "Wedding Bills," a riotous new comedy, which opened at the Metropolitan yesterday.

The topper, by which Griffith has become so well known, retains its high rank as an important prop in the comedian's picture, but it undergoes some new experiences on top of Griffith's head, as he proceeds to perform a lot of dare-devil, breath-taking stunts, such as dangling from a flag-pole rope over the side of a tall building, and racing absent-mindedly over a narrow mountain road.

The plot is sketchy at times. Griffith as a genial and accommodating best man at his various friends' weddings, after participating in three, right in a row, one fine June morning, finds bridegroom number four loudly calling for help in extricating himself from an entanglement with a woman other than the bride-to-be. She requires a $25,000 diamond necklace as solace for injured feelings.

Griffith buys the necklace on approval and proceeds to keep his friend's engagement with the lady, one Mme. Yumuscomova. On the way to the jewelry store he meets the girl with whom he falls in love. She turns out to be the secretary of the bride's papa, and is annoyingly under foot when he keeps the engagement with madame. It is here the fun begins.

Madame gets the necklace but Griffith gets it back. The bride sees it and claims it as a wedding present. It is stolen and eventually lands on the neck of a pigeon which flies out the window and which Griffith chases. Eventually after much Harold Lloyd climbing and near-falling stunts, a speedy automobile ride through traffic, etc., he gets the pigeon, and returns the necklace to the jeweler. Then he buys a wedding ring.

The tempo of the picture is fairly smooth and the action seems to keep up a fairly rapid pace. Something is happening all of the time. There is no let-up. The laughs start in the first scenes and pop regularly throughout the whole.

Ann Sheridan in her first leading role, doesn't seem to be called upon for much more than a pleasing appearance. She succeeds very well in looking charming. Others in the supporting cast are Hallam Cooley, Iris Stuart, Vivian Oakland, Tom Ouise, Louise Stern, Edgar L. Kennedy and John Steppling.

Eddie Peabody is seen in a Jack Partington presentation, "Carnival Follies" with a nice lot of dancing, some of it Spanish with clinking castanets, and some rather good singing. Gogo, the U. S. C. personality maid; Don Carroll, Helen Wright, Suzette and Joe, and Myrtle Pierce are featured.

The comedy is a Hal Roach with Charley Chase in "What Women Did for Me," Chase portraying the role of a bashful young botany professor in a girls' school.

Commend Berton Churchill for His Principles

Berton Churchill will be specially honored by the clubmen of Los Angeles and Hollywood at his farewell appearance in the final performance of "Alias the Deacon" at the Hollywood Playhouse Tuesday night.

A resolution commending Mr. Churchill for playing in and advocating a clean type of drama, and expressing appreciation for his trip to the post from New York in order to play Deacon Caswell in the comedy at the Hollywood Playhouse, will be presented to the actor during one of the intermissions Tuesday night, on behalf of a large group of men's clubs.

Among a large group which will be present to give Mr. Churchill a farewell reception will be representatives from the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, Shrine, Two-Thirty-Three and Writers' clubs and the Ministers' and the Clearinghouse associations.

John Litel to Play Host on Morosco Stage

John Litel, leading man in "The Patsy," now in its seventh week at the Morosco, will be very busy Saturday afternoon, following the matinee, greeting his hundreds of friends among the theater-going public of Los Angeles. Mr. Litel has been making such a hit in his role of Tony Anderson that the management of the theater is answering a request for an opportunity to meet the star in person by holding a public reception on the stage tomorrow afternoon.

Souvenir autographed pictures of the actor will be given to everyone attending the matinee.

Others in the popular "The Patsy" company will also be on the stage in costume and make-up just after the final curtain.

WRITERS' CLUB IS ACTIVE

Tonight and tomorrow night the Writers' will give the fourth dramatic program of the season at their clubhouse, 6700 Sunset Boulevard. Four plays will be presented. The program will be of a lighter character than ordinary, with the exception of the first number, "The Mask," by H. M. Harwood. A burlesque melodrama, "The Wreck of the Hesperus," comedy-drama, "Happy New Year," and a novelty, "The Ghost Story" will be presented.

SEATS ARE ON SALE

Reserved seats for the premiere of Gloria Swanson's "The Love of Sunya" Wednesday night, are now on sale at the Criterion Theater.

Elaborate preparations for this event are now being made, according to Ralph Allan, manager of the Criterion.

Vaudevile Lures Drama Star

Lenore Ulric

Popular dramatic actress, will be an Orpheum headliner in Willard Mack's playlet, "The Wolf's Cub," starting Sunday matinee.

Gunning's Reel to Show Natli Barr to Group

John McCormick today will present to the assembled convention of First National Pictures, the youngest star of the company, Natli Barr. Miss Barr is Richard Rowland's "discovery" whom he induced to leave a stellar niche in Paris to join the First National constellation.

Wid Gunning yesterday made a special reel to screen for the First National visitors at the Ambassador Theater Monday night as this producer's contribution to the film program of the evening, and in this Miss Barr is seen to advantage with Milton Sills.

LENORE J. COFFEE WRITES NEW VEHICLE

The name of Lenore J. Coffee and original stories are becoming synonymous. First National having just completed the filming of "Lonesome Ladies," which is from the pen of this Cecil B. De Mille scenarist, Miss Coffee is writing another one for Leatrice Joy, called "The Angel of Broadway."

Seldom, it is said by the studio executives, has Miss Joy waxed so enthusiastic over a story before she was well into it. However, Miss Coffee has given her an original that abounds in enough interesting situations to excite her imagination from the very first scene, it is claimed.

Love Story in Picture Called Inspired Work

From the sewers to the stars lies the course of courage in the love story, "Seventh Heaven," now in its third successful week at the Carthay Circle Theater.

This love story of Chico, the sewer worker and Diane, the spirit-broken waif of the slums is, in the opinion of leading motion-picture critics, as fine a depiction of its type as the screen has presented. The inspirational and emotional appeal of two young hearts when love blooms in the drab lives of the Paris slum dwellers has been made impressive under the direction of Frank Borzage, it is declared.

Two practically unknown players have been placed in a notable position in the film world. One is Janet Gaynor, whose Diane is called superlatively good, and the other is Charles Farrell, who makes Chico a "truly remarkable fellow."

GIBSON GOWLAND IS CAST IN "MONSTER"

"APPLESAUCE" TO CLOSE

"Applesauce," the comedy by Barry Connors, which Neely Edwards has been quietly starring in these many months at the Egan Theater, will terminate its record run there on Saturday night. With a minimum of shouting, this engaging little play has been pleasing thousands of Angelenos for these many moons.

HIVELY TO EDIT

At the request of Clarence Brown, director of "The Trail of '98," George Hively has been assigned to the production staff of this M.-G.-M. special in the capacity of film editor.

Music Director is Engaged for Hollywood Play

Cecil Stewart has been engaged as musical director for "Peggy-Ann," which will open at the Music Box Theater June 8, Louis O. Macloon, who will produce the current New York musical-comedy success, announced last night. Mr. Stewart's present Music Box Symphonette Orchestra, consisting of Ferry Fisher, Fred Wartnick, Emil Farnlund and himself, will be augmented by the addition of other musicians for the "Peggy-Ann" production.

"Peggy-Ann" will be staged by Lillian Albertson, who is now busily employed selecting the large cast. Dances will be rehearsed under the direction of George Cunningham.

Reports from the East indicate that "Peggy-Ann" is one of the most successful musical shows of the current Gotham season. Among the song hits of the show, which are being whistled and sung by theatergoers in New York, and which are certain to "catch" here are "There's That Rainbow," "A Tree in the Park," "Chuck It," "A Little Birdie Told Me So," "Maybe It's Me" and many others.

"Chicago" will positively have its final performance June 6. Seats are now on sale for all remaining performances.

Betty Compson Stars in Drama of Thrill Type

If variety is what the public is seeking in entertainment, the show at the Figueroa beginning today will provide it, the management declares. The picture itself is reported to be exciting from the moment "The Ladybird," played by Betty Compson, decides to leave her life of boredom as a social butterfly and dash forth for some real adventure. She masks as a Creole dancer at the New Orleans Mardi Gras and, through strange circumstances, becomes the leader of a crook gang.

To add further thrills, Betty makes a bet that unaided she can win fame and fortune for herself.

Lucille Enderly and company in an act called "A Harmony Cocktail;" Jimbe and Mack in "The Primrose Path;" Rice and Cady, comedians, presenting "Am I Right?"; the Howard Twins, and "A Study in Art," with the Youngers, constitute the five acts of vaudeville.

LIMIT JOLSON'S RUN

"Mammy King" Will be Seen as Negro Stable Boy on Monday

Al Jolson's show will open here Monday at the Biltmore Theater. Jolson's latest musical show is "Big Boy," in which he plays the role of a negro stable boy who rides the winner in the Kentucky Derby.

The seat sale opens today. "The Mammy King's" engagement is limited to three weeks only. He goes direct from here to San Francisco, opening June 12 at the Curran Theater.

Jolson's gag man has been in town for the past week, digging up new angles for laughs for the blackface jester. Al is telling a lot of new stories about movie stars, college professors, golf, baseball, horse racing, European travel, etc.

He is singing a brand-new program of songs, of which "Me and My Shadow," "Swanee River Trail," and "One O'Clock Baby" are announced as the latest.

BRANDSTATTER OFFICIATES

Eddie Brandstatter is engaged this week in feeding the delegates to the First National sales convention being held in Los Angeles. Eddie had charge of all the arrangements for the banquet tendered the 400 representatives at the First National studios on Thursday evening and is officiating as the general food impresario for the dinner-dance to be held at the First National studios Saturday.

ELABORATE WARDROBE

More than 1000 different costumes are worn in "The Vagabond King," the musical play, which closes its Los Angeles engagement this Saturday night at the Biltmore.

Harry Langdon Graces Uptown Screen Today

Harry Langdon makes his bow on the Uptown Theater screen today in the role of a dashing fire-laddie in "His First Flame," a Mack Sennett picture, which has its initial western showing on this occasion.

Harry appears in a story concerning a young college graduate who is rich in money and rather poverty stricken in the way of intellect. Immediately after his graduation he starts out into the world intent upon annexing a wife. And, of course, he falls into the clutches of a designing siren who is attracted by his money, and the story relates his efforts to elude her and find his way to the girl who is destined to bring him ultimate happiness.

His film uncle is a chief in the fire department, and much of the fun takes place in the fire house, where Harry succeeds in tangling things up by his many blunders.

Natalie Kingston, Wampas star of 1927, is cast in the role of the temptress who lures the fire-laddie from his fire-fighting duty, and Ruth Hiatt is the girl whom he almost rescues from the burning building. Others in the cast include Bud Jamieson and Dot Farley.

Harry Edwards directed from a story by Frank Capra and Arthur Ripley. Mack Sennett produced the picture for Pathe.

High School Boys to Visit Million Dollar

Every high school in Los Angeles will be represented tonight in the audience which looks at "Rookies," the new Karl Dane, George K. Arthur comedy of life in a military training camp, playing at the Million Dollar.

The representative group will be composed of honor members of the R.O.T.C. organizations from the various high schools and will include forty-four members who have qualified highest in drill honors for the week.

Frank L. Newman, managing director, invited the boys at the suggestion of Col. E. W. Clark, retired army official now in charge of R.O.T.C. activities in the high schools, and Col. Chase of the Citizens' Military Training Camp. All the facilities of the camp, which many of the boys will attend, were placed at the disposal of director Sam Wood by Col. Chase when the picture was filmed with the camp as a background.

CONVENTION ENDS AS DELEGATES DEPART

PARAMOUNT HEADS TENDERED FAREWELL LUNCHEONS BEFORE LEAVING

As the last act in the most important series of convention meetings in the history of the Paramount organization, final conferences were held at the Hollywood studio yesterday by studio executives, home office department heads and foreign exchange executives. Last night the exodus from Hollywood began, the film chiefs departing for all parts of the world with the largest delegation going to New York.

Yesterday, the visiting personages were guests at a luncheon tendered them by Al and Charles Christie at the Christie studio, where Christie comedies are being made for Paramount distribution. On Wednesday, they were entertained at luncheon on one of the stages of the Paramount studio, with B. P. Schulberg, studio production chief, Walter F. Wanger, general manager of production and the studio production cabinet as the hosts.

The visitors came to Hollywood from San Francisco following the close of the convention of the Paramount western division Tuesday. During the past three weeks, meetings of the organization have been in progress almost continuously from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast, at which the expanded policies of the corporation were outlined. These include the "100 per cent program," whereby the exhibitor will be provided with his complete bill, including news reel, short features and novelties, comedies and cartoons, in addition to the regular long feature production, a huge schedule involving the production and release of 297 pictures, the largest and costliest program in film history.

DANCING PAIR SEEN IN FORUM PROLOGUE

The concluding days of "Mr. Wu" at the Forum Theater will have a new feature. Serge Temoff and his girl partner, Zena Evens, are to be seen in a Mandarin dance especially created by Temoff, who had danced for three years in a Chinese theater in Manchuria. The costumes for this new dance have been designed by the Russian painter, Anchutin. The steps and gestures will be in a comedy vein.

Temoff is a graduate of the Royal Conservatory of Moscow and toured the United States and Europe as the partner of Anna Pavlowa.

ORANGE GROVE FILM DRAWS LARGE CROWDS

Louis O. Macloon, who is presenting "The Naked Truth" at the Orange Grove for women only, announces that there are no slides or still pictures shown in connection with the production. Everything flashed on the screen, including the special reels being shown, is in film form.

"The Naked Truth" is creating interest in this city, and capacity audiences are witnessing the photoplay, it is reported. Six shows are being presented daily.

TO STAGE "BLACK PAINT"

BERT WOODRUFF IN CAST

STEPS TAKEN TO FORCE PAYMENT

Long Beach Police and Fire Fighters Act

Friendly Suit Against City Council Looms

Board Refused to Provide Salary Fund

LONG BEACH, May 19. — Long Beach policemen and firemen who, by action of the City Council on Tuesday, will get no more pay this fiscal year, ending June 30, unless they fight for it, took legal steps today to force the city administration to authorize the transfer of money from the oil-revenue fund to that of the public safety fund for pay-roll purposes. Although possible criminal prosecution and an appeal to the State Labor Commission loomed yesterday, it was said today that a friendly suit, instituted by the firemen and policemen, would be tried first.

Attorney Burr A. Brown, former City Attorney, has been retained by the members of the fire and police departments to look after their interests. Attorney Brown declared today, following a conference with committees from both departments, that the specific form of action would be through a writ of mandate, directed at the City Manager, the City Council, City Auditor and others. The case will probably be taken into Department Twenty-eight of the Superior Court, located in Long Beach, it was said, and will have a hearing about June 1.

The application for the writ will accompany demands for the salaries of the 300 odd men comprising the police and fire departments. A decision, Attorney Brown said, can be anticipated within a few days after proceedings have begun. It will require approximately $70,000 to pay the personnel of the two departments for the balance of the fiscal year, it was said. Depletion of the public safety fund, from which salaries of the two departments are paid, makes it necessary to transfer money from other funds. This the outgoing Council declined to do, on the ground that such an act would be illegal and the Council members might lay themselves open to charges of misappropriation of funds. The Council was advised, however, that they have the legal right to transfer money from the oil-revenue fund to the public safety fund. Depletion of the latter fund was due to increases in pay granted members of the fire and police departments last August in a referendum election.

Improvement in Ventura County Baby Death Rate

VENTURA, May 19.—Ventura county made a startling improvement in its infant death rate last year, according to word received today from L. E. Ross, statistician of the State Board of Health. The number of deaths of infants in this county during 1926, per thousand born, the bureau of vital statistics has just reported, was 99.4. In 1925 the number had been 140.2. Three years ago Ventura county was the second worst in infant mortality in California.

In 1925 it was fourth worst. In 1926 it had come up to seventh in the list. But while Ventura county has improved greatly, it still is one of the black counties, for its baby death rate is yet far above the average of California as a whole. Ventura county's improvement follows a determined campaign conducted for many months past by the clubs and P.-T.A., the health board officials and other organizations. The work of school nurses in several communities of the county has been highly effective, according to authorities.

FUNDS APPORTIONED FOR VENTURA SCHOOLS

VENTURA, May 19.—The final apportionment for the year of county funds to the various grammar and high schools of Ventura county, has been made by the office of County Superintendent of Schools Mrs. Blanche T. Reynolds. The amount apportioned to the grammar schools of the county is $82,446 for the teachers' fund and $43,189 for the contingent fund, making a total of $85,615, while high schools of the county is $45,174.14. This makes a grand total of the final apportionment to the schools of the county of $130,789.14, or approximately 40 per cent of the county money allotted the schools of the county during the year.

The other 60 per cent was apportioned to the schools in December. State funds for the schools of the county were apportioned last February.

GRUNION HUNTERS SADDENED

New Law Putting Ban on Catching Little Silver-Sided Fish Comes as Blow to One of Greatest Attractions of Southland Beaches

LONG BEACH, May 19.—Old-timers in Long Beach see in the recent action of Gov. Young in signing the Finley bill, prohibiting the catching of grunion, an end to one of the greatest attractions Long Beach has held for Southern Californians for many years. Full moons and high tides these many years have brought to this city thousands of motorists, who come to seek the wily little silver-sided fish that rushes up on the beaches, deposits her eggs and scampers back to sea on the next wave.

With the putting of the Finley law into effect next spring no more will Mother Grunion be forced to run the gauntlet of grasping hands and shrieking voices and her number will thus multiply by the millions on the south coast, fishermen said.

The home guard of grunion hunters, augmented by some 5000 folks from other Southern California towns, turned out at midnight last night and reaped a fair harvest of the shiny little fish, thus making up for the failure of Mother Grunion to do her stuff on the previous night.

The Finley bill, introduced in the State Legislature by Assemblyman R. Finley of Santa Barbara, will make it a misdemeanor for anyone to capture, molest, interfere with or have in his possession any grunion between April 1 and June 30. Since the time between these two dates constitutes the spawning season of the little fish, there is sadness in the hearts of grunion hunters everywhere.

TECHNICAL POINT RAISED

New Angle in Suit of Orange County Taxpayers Over Fund for Santa Ana Paving Project

SANTA ANA, May 19.—The injunction suit filed by Charles Harbeson, Anaheim taxpayer, and W. E. Chilson, Santa Ana taxpayer, against County Auditor W. C. Jerome was taken under advisement today by Superior Judge Benjamin F. Warner of San Bernardino presiding over court here, after Harbeson's attorneys, T. L. McFadden and Leonard Evans had injected a new and technical issue into the case which it was said might block the entire effort to appropriate $10,000 of county funds for the South Main street paving project in Santa Ana.

The controversy came into court on the issue of whether a three-fifths or simple majority vote of the County Supervisors was sufficient to authorize the appropriation from the motor vehicle fund or whether a four-fifths vote was necessary. But near the end of the argument before Judge Warner today Attorney McFadden raised the technical point that even though the court might decide the mandatory question and might rule that a simple majority was sufficient to authorize the appropriation the decision might be idle and without force for the reason that there is no such fund as that from which it was proposed to appropriate the $10,000.

McFadden and Evans emphasized that all funds raised under the Motor Vehicle Act in question go into the good road funds and there is no motor vehicle fund; that, therefore, the court has no jurisdiction over the case as it stands.

If the contention of Harbeson's attorneys is upheld by Judge Warner and not reversed by higher courts it means defeat for the city of Santa Ana's attempt to get the $10,000 from the county under the present situation, court attaches declared.

TWO INJURED WHEN TRAIN HITS MOTOR

VISALIA, May 19.—James and Arthur Boyer of Visalia district are in the Kaweah Hospital here, suffering from severe injuries sustained last night when the auto in which they were riding was struck by a Santa Fe train at Seville crossing. The Boyer machine is said to have been almost across the tracks when the locomotive, which they had not seen approaching, struck the rear end of their car, hurling it several feet.

Arthur Boyer is suffering from severe lacerations of one leg and severe head injuries. James Boyer was badly cut about the face. Both may also have sustained internal injuries. Physicians entertain hope of their recovery.

CHILD-SPANKING HAS APPROVAL OF COURT

PASADENA, May 19.—Persons charged with the care of children may whip them without the consent of the parents, if punishment seems necessary, it was indicated in Justice Court today, when Miss Jennie Meyers, 268 East Dakota street, was found not guilty of cruelty to 8-year-old Hazel Kellogg. Hazel's mother, Mrs. Zilla Kellogg, charged that Miss Meyers, who cares for eight Juvenile Court wards in her home, beat Hazel with a willow switch and boxed her ears, without consulting the mother in advance. Mrs. Meyers declared that Hazel was disobedient and refused to go to and from school in the manner she prescribed.

PROPERTIES LIQUID WILL BE EXPLAINED

PASADENA, May 19.—Properties of liquid air and other low-temperature phenomena will be described in the weekly demonstration lecture to be given at the California Institute of Technology tomorrow night by Prof. E. C. Watson. Like others of the series, the lecture will be open to the public without charge, and will be held in the Norman Bridge Laboratory from 7 to 8 p.m.

Old Age Crowds Juveniles From Bar of Justice

ALHAMBRA, May 19.—Juvenile crime may be increasing but old age occasionally appears before the bar of justice. Judge W. M. Northrup today listened to the pleas of two defendants, one 81 years old and the other 76.

The older of the two, V. A. Servis of 3322 Morgan street, Los Angeles, was accused of being a hit-and-run driver. He was arrested Tuesday night by Sheriff's deputies after, it is alleged, he drove away after his car had struck and injured Miss Beatrice Cullen of Wilmar on Valley Boulevard. The old man protested his innocence, declaring he did not know that he had struck anyone. In the absence of the complaining witness the case was postponed for a week. Servis was released on his own recognizance.

The 76-year-old defendant was Frank Parkmeyer of San Gabriel Boulevard. He was brought into court on a charge of having forcibly entered a neighbor's garage in search of a knife that he said belonged to him. The lock on the door was later replaced by Parkmeyer when he thought it over. The charge, reduced to a misdemeanor on account of the man's age and the circumstances, was dropped.

BENEFITS FROM RAIL COMMISSION TOLD

PASADENA, May 19.—Millions of dollars have been saved the taxpayers of California through the work of the State Railroad Commission, said Commissioner Leon O. Whitsell, who came to Pasadena today to address the local Kiwanis Club on the workings of the commission. Rate reductions since 1923 have accomplished savings of $20,000,000 to consumers, according to Whitsell. In explaining the activities of the commission, he pointed out the volume of work it does by stating that since 1912, it has rendered 17,000 decisions, only twelve of which have been reversed by higher tribunals. This is a record unequaled by any public-service commission in any State in the country, he declared.

ANAHEIM MASONS TO CELEBRATE TONIGHT

ANAHEIM, May 19. — Past masters of the Anaheim Masonic Lodge are to be honored Friday evening when the lodge will hold special ceremonies in celebration of the local order's fifty-seventh birthday. County-wide interest is attracted to this event, as the Anaheim lodge is the mother lodge of Orange county. Photographs have been secured of all the past masters, thirty-one in all, and these are to be mounted and presented to the lodge as one of the outstanding features of the birthday ceremonies.

Anaheim Lodge was formed in 1870. All Master Masons are invited to attend the ceremonies, and an attendance of more than 300 is anticipated, according to William P. Webb, Jr., Worshipful Master.

BUILDER WINS OVER ZONING PROTEST

GLENDALE, May 19.—The failure of petitioners seeking the establishment of a first-class residential district on Lincoln avenue, to sign te affidavit rtating that they represented 50 per cent of the frontage in the proposed district, and also to pay the necessary $10 fee, gave E. T. Seidenglanz the opportunity to score a victory and to take out a permit to erect a sixteen-unit apartment-house at 427 Lincoln avenue. When the City Council decided that the petition as presented was invalid, Seidenglanz rushed over to the building department and secured his permit before the petitioners could take any further action.

STRATHMORE NAMES THIS YEAR'S QUEEN

STRATHMORE, May 19.—Strathmore will have the honor of naming the queen of the 1927 Tulare County Fair, to be held in Tulare in September, according to announcement of J. A. Sammon, president of the Tulare Chamber of Commerce and the Tulare County Fair. This announcement was made at a session of the Strathmore Chamber of Commerce.

PASADENA CITY BOARD STILL IN

Old and New Directors Both Marking Time

Situation May Prevail for Another Month

Canvass of Vote Depends on Court Decision

PASADENA, May 19.—While legal technicalities are still keeping in office the seven old City Directors, whose successors were elected April 7, last, and whose terms of office should have expired the 2nd inst., according to the terms of the election, fears are now being expressed in City Hall circles that this situation may continue as much as a month longer, because of a possible delay in the decision of the Supreme Court of California as to the legality of the election.

Numerous local observers are pointing out that while this uncertainty prevails, not much in the way of municipal business is being accomplished, and all that is being done about it is for both the old board and the Directors-elect to mark time, waiting for the Supreme Court to act.

The old Directors have filed briefs in which they set forth their contention that the election which ousted them was illegal because it was improperly advertised, and the Directors-elect have answered that the election was not only legal, but that the vote of the people showed conclusively that they do not want the old board in office.

Despite the election, the new Directors cannot take their seats until the votes are officially canvassed. The old Directors have taken advantage of their strategic position by refusing to canvass the returns, and consequently are remaining in office beyond their allotted time, while awaiting the Supreme Court decision.

It is being predicted here now that the court may not give its verdict until it convenes in Los Angeles in June.

Traffic Crash Puts One in Jail, Another in Bed

MONROVIA, May 19.—One man is in the Monrovia Hospital with injuries that may prove fatal and a second is in the Monrovia Jail, as the result of a collision last night at the intersection of Foothill Boulevard and Double Drive, Arcadia.

According to Chief of Police Coberly of Arcadia, who investigated the case, Floyd Harrod, driving a car with a Michigan license and said to live in Los Angeles was driving south on Double Drive and collided with a machine driven by David C. Hayden, 307 East Olive avenue, Monrovia, who was going east.

Hayden was taken to the hospital by a passing motorist and Harrod was taken a short time later in an ambulance.

Both automobiles were badly damaged, as the impact of the crash turned over both cars. Following the accident, Coberly said, a pint bottle, half filled with liquor was found in the front pocket of Harrod's automobile.

Harrod was not seriously injured, sustaining only cuts and bruises, and after being treated at the hospital, was removed to the Monrovia Jail, pending the outcome of Hayden's injuries.

KINGS RIVER FLOW GREATLY REDUCED

CORCORAN, May 19.—Farmers who own some 150,000 acres of wheat in the Tulare Lake area west of here were pleased with the news yesterday that there had been a drop of 2700 second-feet of water in Kings River from the 17,100 feet of the day before. Following last week's heat record for the season this week has been cool and the big river began to go down perceptibly yesterday. C. C. Kaupke, river master for the State on Kings River, predicts the flow will decrease slowly for the remainder of the week at least. Grain growers generally think now they will be able to get all their crops off without further menace of overflow, as the snow in the mountains now is high up, all frozen and will melt slowly, even if another heated term comes soon.

INGLEWOOD GLOWS UNDER NEW LIGHTS

Ornamental Illuminating System Installed on Market Street

First of Kind on Pacific Coast

INGLEWOOD, May 19.—More than 15,000 visitors, it was estimated, participated in the brilliant Festival of Light last night that marked the opening of the new ornamental lighting system on Market street. The largest parade ever held here, with more than 1000 in line, led by Col. Thomas H. Jennings as grand marshal, moved promptly with the pressing of the button by Mayor Hugh B. Lawrence that flashed on the lights.

Frank R. McDonald, father of the Market-street lighting project, who also secured the petitions that made it possible, and in addition to that was chairman of the committee that planned the monster celebration, was given a great ovation when introduced on the reviewing stand by the Mayor.

Attorney Newcomb Condee of the committee acted as chairman of the exercises after the parade. This was followed by a style show, and a street dance on Queen street that was enjoyed by thousands of merrymakers until a late hour. Tom Murray acted as master of ceremonies for the style show and the dance. The third member of the committee that made the most successful celebration on a large scale ever held here was R. C. McFadden, district manager of the Southern California Edison Company. The committee was appointed by President John L. Steinbarger of the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce.

The new lights are the product of the King-Graybar Company. They are of ferronile iron and the first of the kind to be installed on this coast. The standards also support trolley wires of the Los Angeles Railway, and the removal of the old wooden poles from the middle of the street and from the sidewalk adds much to the spacious appearance of the 100-foot wide business thoroughfare.

Back Fire Leads to Jury Trial on Assault Charge

LEMOORE, May 19.—In the case of Mrs. Viola Moore of this city, charged with assault with a deadly weapon on the person of Tony Brown Domingos, on trial all week in the Superior Court of this county of Kings, the jury yesterday afternoon evidently decided that Domingos was shot at by an automobile exhaust and not with a pistol, for that was the leading line of defense. Mrs. Moore was freed after the jury had deliberated two hours and a half. Defense counsel claimed that Domingos had beaten up the defendant some time ago at a place near here, where they had been living. Mrs. Onesti, who was riding with Domingos on his milk truck when the shooting was alleged to have taken place, corroborated Domingos in his testimony as to his being shot at with a pistol.

WOMAN'S LEG BROKEN WHEN HIT BY CAR

REDLANDS, May 19.—Mrs. M. J. Miller of West Fifty-third street, Los Angeles, suffered a broken leg on Sherman Way, near here, when she was struck by a passing auto. Police say the car was driven by Everett Collins of Bessemer street. Collins stated Mrs. Miller was struck when she walked into the roadway between two parked cars. He asserted she stepped into the path of his machine without warning and that the accident was unavoidable. Mrs. Miller was treated at the Valley Receiving Hospital at Van Nuys.

SAN DIEGO INVITES BIRDMEN

Aviators in Third Annual Air Tour, Starting at Detroit Asked to Southern City

SAN DIEGO, May 19.—Invitation has been extended to about forty aviators to bring their planes to San Diego during the third annual national air tour to begin at Detroit, Mich., June 27, when they compete for the $13,000 Edsel B. Ford trophy. Roy Campbell, Jr., acting for the San Diego Chamber of Commerce, of which he is industrial manager, sent the invitation through Ray Cooper of the Detroit Board of Commerce.

If the collection of commercial planes comes here San Diegans may again have a chance to see Capt. Charles Lindbergh in action. He has promised to fly an entry from the Ryan Monoplane factory here when he returns from his trans-Atlantic hop to Paris, it was stated.

Three routes are being considered by the aviators, according to Cooper, one along the Atlantic Coast, another through Mid-Western States and the third across the Rockies to the Pacific Coast.

"If they come west, it is certain that we will get them to visit San Diego," said Campbell.

The flyers intend to cover about 5000 miles, visiting twenty American cities, no matter what route they take. The fact that they will find no better aviation facilities on the Pacific Coast than are afforded in San Diego convinces Campbell that once across the Continental Divide, the flyers will decide upon a stop in San Diego.

All of the previous air tours in which the Ford trophy has been the prize have caused much interest, said Campbell. Winners and runner-ups for the prize have made much of their leads in the race because of the tests and performances of planes necessary to gain prize or mention, he stated.

A San Diego-built monoplane won seventh place in the race last year, after all-around performances were considered, but won first place for stock airplanes entered in the event, according to Campbell.

CLOVIS DEPOSITORS TO GET NEARLY HALF

FRESNO, May 19.—Depositors of the First State Bank of Clovis, which closed its doors March 25, 1925, probably will receive a maximum of 40 cents on the dollar of their deposits, it was revealed today in connection with the closing of the bank's affairs by the State Banking Department and approval by the Superior Court of a dividend to depositors of 15 per cent. An initial dividend of 25 per cent was paid in February, 1926. The court also approved a recommendation of the liquidating officer against any further assessment of stockholders, who a short time after the failure of the institution were assessed 200 per cent.

VETERANS GET READY FOR MEMORIAL DAY

CHATSWORTH, May 19.—Oakwood Cemetery, one of the show places of the western end of San Fernando Valley, is being put in shape for the large crowds expected to attend the Memorial Day exercises that are to be conducted on the cemetery grounds on the 30th inst. The observance, which is to be valley-wide, will be under the auspices of the valley camp of Spanish-American War veterans, assisted by Legionnaires, Civil War veterans and various church congregations of the valley. Last year more than 3000 persons attended the ceremony.

FRESNO HAS NEW LAW BARRING HUCKSTERS

FRESNO, May 19.—Action of the City Commission today in adopting an ordinance barring hucksters, peddlers and other nonproducers from the city free market will be met with immediate circulation of a referendum petition, it was announced, following the unanimous action of the City Commission. Those who are barred from the market by the city's action will be assisted by others operating on the market, it was announced by M. A. Anderson, representing the producers.

CHURCH PLANS BUILDING

COSTA MESA, May 19.—Tentative plans calling for an edifice 100 feet long and 60 feet wide, patterned after the Normal Heights Church of San Diego, are being considered by the board of trustees of the Costa Mesa Community Church, preliminary to inaugurating a campaign to raise sufficient funds to erect the project. The church will be erected on the front of the lot occupied by the present church building, it was decided at a meeting held last night, at which ways and means were discussed.

Redlands Pastor Accepting Call to Los Angeles

REDLANDS, May 19.—Rev. Norman B. Henderson, for eighteen months the pastor of the First Baptist Church in this city, has accepted a call to be co-pastor of the First Baptist Church in Los Angeles and will leave in a few weeks to take up his duties, working there with a Rev. J. A. Francis, who has been pastor of the church for many years. Dr. Francis has not been well for some months and it is felt that he must conserve his health more. In order that he might do this the church decided to divide the work of the church between two pastors and as Dr. Henderson has been the outstanding minister of the denomination on the Coast since he came here from Madison, Wis., he was called to the post. He presented his resignation to the local church during the week and it was accepted with keen regret. Since he came the church has built a $100,000 church plant and secured pledges to pay for it all.

ODOR OF MASH WAFTS VALLEY MAN TO COURT

VAN NUYS, May 19.—W. G. Moffett, 11066 Radford street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of liquor possession and the possession of liquor-making apparatus before Judge H. A. Decker of the Van Nuys court, and bail was fixed at $1000. The case has been transferred to Division No. 8, Municipal Court, Los Angeles, for trial by jury. Moffett was arrested when the Valley division dry squad asserted they scented an odor of boiling mash exuding from his home. They reported they found a twenty-five-gallon still, twenty-one gallons of liquor and ten gallons of mash. During the same session of court, Manuel Montoya was given a 180-day sentence in jail for carrying concealed weapons.

OLD KYNE RANCH TO GO UNDER HAMMER

RIVERSIDE, May 19.—The famous stock ranch at Perris, developed by Peter B. Kyne, noted author, is to be sold at auction. The property goes by the name of the Sierra Vista ranch. The auction is to be conducted May 24 and 25, with 250 registered Duroc Jersey swine and Holstein cows of the blood of Gerben Abbakerk Maid. The Peter B. Kyne ranch is one of the show places of Perris Valley. Ownership of late has passed to Ferd Graus of Hollywood, who is to return to Europe. There are 160 acres in the ranch with elaborate cross-fencing and stock and farm buildings.

THIEF'S FLIGHT SHORT

Stealer of Women's Dainty "Undies" Drops Loot When Merchant Gains on Him in Chase

PORTERVILLE, May 19.—Shoppers in the Porterville business district just before noon were thrilled by the sight of N. H. Leggett, prominent local merchant with a chain of department stores in Tulare county, also well-known as a big game hunter of California, dashing wildly up Main street, waiving a collection of women's dainty undies in his arms, crying "stop that man."

Mr. Leggett was chasing Emilo Pereida, 27, who, after running nearly a block and seeing that the irate merchant was gaining on him, tossed the undies into the street and endeavored to dart down a side street.

He was frustrated by Chief of Police A. W. Reynolds who had been summoned to the scene by a telephone call from Leggett's store. Chief Reynolds took Pereida into custody and also halted Mr. and Mrs. Tablo Mojica, who volubly protested their innocence.

It is declared that the Mojica couple entered the Leggett establishment and engaged a clerk in conversation while Pereida rapidly lifted dainty step-ins and bandeaus of lace and ribbon, making complete sets in colors of peach, lemon and apricot. A sales girl seeing the maneuver gave the alarm. Leggett and a shoe clerk taking up the chase.

When searched Pereida's pockets revealed a pick key and the drug marihuana rolled in cigarette paper. He declared the latter was to be boiled in water and used as medicine for stomach trouble. Smoking of marihuana is a violation of the Narcotic Act and it is likely that other charges will be brought against him.

Both men were held on charges of petty larceny. Two cars belonging to the trio are yet to be searched and further investigation made by the police. The trio gave Merced as their home. Inasmuch as one of the cars, a handsome sedan, was not registered in the name of any of the three police are investigating to see if it were stolen.

The Mojica couple were rather well dressed, quiet and unassuming. Pereida was dressed like any other Mexican laborer and would give the appearance of having no connection with the other two.

Chief Reynolds is of opinion he may have secured members of a gang operating through the valley.

WOMEN TO ASK RECORD CHANGE

Vote League Seeks Expunging of Memorial

Seventh Region Convention to Act on Resolution

Charge Infancy Act Attack Used as Propaganda

A resolution asking Congress to expunge a part of the Congressional Record, which, it is said, has been done only once in the country's history, is scheduled to be acted upon today at the convention of the California League of Women Voters, seventh region. The convention, the sixth annual of the organization, opened yesterday at the Figueroa Hotel, 756 South Figueroa street, and will close tomorrow.

The portion of the Congressional Record under attack is that of July 1, 1926, and contains a memorial of the Women Patriot Publishing Company, adverse to the proposed Federal Maternity and Infancy Act. Action, the resolution says, have been declared in Southern California for propaganda purposes. The resolution cites statements in the memorial are false, and others are so worded as to be misleading. It also is declared the memorial is aimed generally at all progressive legislation, particularly the Children's Bureau. If the resolution passes, Senators Shortridge and Johnson will be asked to have the material deleted so that its circulation may cease.

TWO BRINGS OBLIGATIONS

Action on the resolution will follow a round-table breakfast at 8:30 a. m.

"The right to vote has brought to women obligations and responsibilities that never dreamed of, declared Mrs. Ernest J. Mott of San Francisco, district of the region, who addressed the league at the opening of its convention.

"National league members are doing their part in "a dogged adventure in citizenship," she said, and are urged participation in political life as a public trust. Women are urged to study and realize more than ever before the responsibility of the vote and in carrying out the ideals of democracy, she asserted. One of the chief objectives of women voters, she pointed out, is to overcome ignorance and indifference.

A discussion on "Modern Politics and Parties" was opened by Mrs. Kathryn Philips Edson, who read an interesting paper, "The New Force." In it she detailed interests which are trying to monopolize political energy. This she termed a most important factor of our civilization, and predicted its recovery if the attempt is successful. Muscle Shoals was cited as an example of the interests' greed.

MACHINE DEMONSTRATED

Mrs. Edson was followed by Mrs. Fletcher Dobyns of Pasadena who discussed "The Woman Voter and Party Organization;" Miss Mary Foy whose topic was "My Generation," and Miss Lloy Galpin who spoke on "The Scientific Basis."

A new style voting machine was demonstrated to the convention by Miss Amy Belle Topping.

Mrs. H. H. Koons, president of the league, Mrs. C. B. Whittier and Mrs. Francis A. Blackburn will preside at the morning session today with Mrs. I. W. Gleason as parliamentarian. Most of the morning session will be devoted to committee reports. At the noon luncheon, to be held at the Friday Morning Clubhouse, "The Legislature and the Lobbyist" will be discussed by Miss Eleanor Miller, Miss Gladys E. Moorhead and Mrs. Frank G. Law.

ENTERTAINED AT DINNER

Members of the Los Angeles and Long Beach leagues were hostesses last night at a dinner at the Women's Athletic Club, 833 South Flower street. Mrs. Arthur C. Wier presided and the principal speaker was Paul Perigord, Ph. D., instructor in economics and history at the California Institute of Technology.

His topic was "The Enrichment of Life" and he pointed out how, by proper use of the ballot, women can make the world a much better place in which to live. Mrs. Grace Frye also gave a short talk on "Slaves of Freedom," showing the influence exerted by California women in politics. It was recalled that, of five measures sponsored by the league at the 1927 session of the Legislature, four have become laws. The defeated measure provided for permanent registration and most of the opposition is attributed by the league to county clerks in the less populous counties.

Mrs. Harriet F. Andrew of Trenton, N. J., is head of one of the largest anvil works in the United States.

EYE EXPERT IN PRAISE OF DAILY PRESS

Optometrists in Annual Convention at Avalon Told of Valuable Aid to Public

The public's greatest educational medium outside of schools and colleges is the daily newspaper, Dr. Herbert S. Marshutz of Los Angeles, chairman of public information, told those gathered yesterday at the twenty-first annual convention of the California Association of Optometrists, at Avalon.

"When the optometrical public information committee seeks to broadcast word pertaining to better eyesight, we first turn to the newspaper and the results are astounding and instantaneous," the speaker declared.

More than 350 members of the optometrical profession were present when Dr. Charles B. Hobrecht of San Francisco, president of the association, called the convention to order yesterday. One of the first moves was to organize a woman's auxiliary, and Mrs. L. A. Jaques of Hollywood was appointed chairman of the committee to begin organization work.

Other speakers before the convention were Dr. Russell Simpson of Pasadena, who talked on color blindness; Dr. Harry J. Hoare, M.D., of Fresno; Dr. Raymond J. Smith of Los Angeles, Dr. Frank M. Kaye of San Francisco, Dr. Leslie Scown and T. A. Brombach, secretary of the California Board of Optometry.

The optometrists plan to remain at Catalina until Saturday afternoon. They will continue business sessions today, concluding with a banquet in the St. Catherine Hotel tonight. Golf and sightseeing trips are scheduled for tomorrow.

VISITOR TO MAKE AIR TRIP EAST

Nick Putnam Buys Plane Here for Return Journey to New York City

Having come to California by train, Nick Putnam, direct descendant of Israel Putnam of colonial-days fame and son of the late New York publisher, has become so imbued with the possibilities of air travel that he has purchased an airplane with which to fly back home to New York.

Piloting the OX-5 Waco No. 9 machine will be Lieut. V. A. Grant of the Four Hundred and Seventy-Eighth Pursuit Squadron of Clover Field. The plane, which was purchased at Clover Field, is now at Santa Barbara, where the flight to New York will be started next week. The route is to San Francisco and from there east over the transcontinental air-mail route. Stops will be made en route to New York.

After arriving in New York, Putnam and Lieut. Grant will purchase a Wright whirlwind Waco. The present Waco is capable of 100 miles an hour, while the new machine will reach 150 miles an hour. The two men plan to spend a month flying back and forth between New York City and Bar Harbor, Me., Putnam's summer home. Putnam is not a pilot, but Lieut. Grant said yesterday the New Yorker would be qualified by the time he reaches New York.

Later in the summer Putnam and Grant plan to fly to Bermuda from New York and thence to Cuba. Putnam is also considering the financing of a flight across the Pacific some time next year.

FOOD CLASS WILL STUDY RICE LOAF

Mrs. Wyman Demonstrates Today at Exhibition of California Manufacturers

Mrs. Mabelle E. Wyman's foods class at the Southern California Manufacturers' Exhibit, 130 South Broadway, will be given a demonstration lesson this afternoon in the correct method of boiling rice as it is done in the Orient. This will be the preliminary demonstration in the making of a salmon and rice loaf, which has been asked for repeatedly.

In so far as possible, Mrs. Wyman is selecting recipes asked for by students and using them in her demonstrations. Other inquiries that come to the question box are either answered in class or will be printed in the Practical Recipes which appears in The Times on Tuesday mornings. Questions are being answered as rapidly as space permits, and students are advised to watch the column for their replies.

Records Being Shattered by Mission Play

The heavy sale of seats for tomorrow night at the Mission Play has made it necessary for the management to recall passes for that night. On Wednesday 300 persons were turned away from the box office at San Gabriel.

John Steven McGroarty's immortal drama, now in its sixteenth season, is calling forth greater crowds than ever before in its history, and is breaking all records for the theatrical world for May. So great has been the demand for seats that two special performances were given this week and others are booked as far ahead as June.

The Chamber of Commerce and the All-Year Club have urgently requested that the play be continued throughout the summer. The board of directors have decided to grant this request and it is expected that it will run until September.

Angeleno Ends Life With Gun Near Cemetery

Standing beside the east fence of the Inglewood Cemetery, Sam Schneider, 55 years of age, 5168 South St. Andrews Place, shot himself in the head with a sawed-off shotgun, according to a report yesterday to the Sheriff's office. He died instantly, and the body was taken to the mortuary of Matson & Weaver, Inglewood.

Report was made by Deputy Sheriff Peters that Schneider, who was formerly employed by a creamery company here, had been ill in the General Hospital for a month and was reported as despondent. He had purchased the weapon a few days before and left his home Wednesday night with it in his possession, it was reported.

Los Feliz Zone Fight Expected to be Hot Today

Heated debate on the question of zoning for business purposes two blocks of Los Feliz Boulevard west of Riverside Drive is expected to arise in the City Council chamber this morning, when the report of the City Planning Committee on the matter is submitted.

The question has been before the committee twice. On the first occasion it was reported favorably, and the necessary ordinance was passed by a vote of 8 to 7. Mayor Cryer, however, vetoed the ordinance.

The matter then was referred back to the committee, and a public hearing was held at which scores of property owners appeared to protest against the business zoning.

It will be necessary to muster ten votes today in order to pass the ordinance over the Mayor's veto.

Joshua Little ON GOOD ADVICE

IF I never succeed it won't be because my unsuccessful friends and relatives haven't told me just how to do it.

We all appreciate a moderate amount of good advice when we ask for it. But the better it is the less we like it when we don't.

That shows how much we need it. It doesn't require bigness to give advice, but often it calls for real bigness to accept it.

Most successful people have little time to give advice. But the poor adviser we have always with us.

It's pure unselfishness keeps a lot of those folks down. No matter how much they need to attend to their own affairs they're ready to drop everything to direct yours. And they volunteer. The fools who rush in where angels fear to tread always rush in with advice.

They think they do it because they love humanity. But more often it's because it gives 'em a chance to feel superior—and such chances are rare.

Nobody is too much a pauper, in money, mind or achievement, to be able to give lavishly of advice.

Yes, Palomine, you may have noticed that I give a good deal myself.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS—

MISS HELEN TALKS
"I have a big job on my hands. The boss made his annual visit the other day and counted up just 777 pianos that were very much in the way. He said: 'Helen, I'll just give you 3 times 7 days, 21 days all told, to clean up the piano and radio stock in this big 10-story storage warehouse.' 'Gee! Boss,' said I, 'that's some task, you have mapped out for poor little me, just a little bit of a girl, to sell, rent or dispose of in some old way, 777 pianos, to say nothing of over 1000 radios.' 'Well, said the boss, 'I will make it easy for you by making easy terms for the good people in Los Angeles and its outlying districts on the huge stock of pianos and radios so that you will have a regular picnic moving the big stock of musical instruments.' So here goes, folks. If you ever expect to buy a piano just drop down at once and make your selection. New and used models, hundreds of the world's best makes. Practice pianos as low as $10, $12 and $15. Player Pianos, $25 and up on player pianos. Pianos for rent at $3 on the players. And the dear, dainty baby grand pianos, little beauties that will capture the eye of any girl longing for a baby grand piano. Well, you ought to pay all cash, but just to move the big stock in big time, you can buy a piano for $1 down and $5 month, every deal guaranteed. Here's a swell tip for dealers. Come on, bring down your drays and load up. I have sold hundreds of pianos out of this big 10-story storage warehouse. This is the carnival supreme in piano bargains is here. Lure brides, take notice. Start life right. Put some music in the home. Sure, we give a little out of the way—but—you are going to save hundreds of dollars if you will take trimmings down to see me. I've got a bunch of girls that know their stuff. No fancy flying down this way; it's a straight dish out the bargains in the good old-fashioned way. Come on, we are off! Ask for Miss Helen. How to get here—easy! 777 pianos, 10-story storage warehouse, corner of Alpine and N. Broadway, walk one block east to the big 10-story storage warehouse.
